History

Southeastern Washington

JOHN H. HENDRON, a man of intelligence and erudition, who has been a faithful laborer as an instructor for many years in the higher branches of learning, is now residing about two miles south of Dayton, living a retired life. He was born in Madison county, Kentucky, on October 26, 1839, the son of Minrod and Mary (Bicknell) Hendron, both natives of Madison county, the former born in 1800 and the latter in 1810. The father died in 1867. The paternal grandfather of our subject was a native of Ireland, came to North Carolina and thence to Kentucky. After attending the common schools until 1860, our subject matriculated in the Kentucky University after which he entered Jefferson College, graduating from that institution with honors in 1865. The next twenty-five years were spent in zealous and faithful labor as an educator in various portions of the country. He held the chair of languages and that of mathematics in Jefferson College for a long time and then was in West Virginia whence he journeyed to Washington county, Pennsylvania, and handled a select school for nine sessions. For six years we find him in the Vanderbilt school, then in 1887, he came to Palouse City, Washington, and taught in the Palouse schools. It was 1889 when he came to Dayton and decided to settle upon a farm in the edge of town.

Later he bought what was known as the Pindler claim which is now called Clover Nook, and lies about three miles from town. Here Mr. Hendron has lived since and has given his attention to general farming and dairying, being now mostly occupied in the oversight of his business enterprises.

In 1865, in Jefferson county, Mr. Hendron married Miss Hadessa Whitsett, the daughter of Ralph C. and Rachel (Dunn) Whitsett, natives of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Hendron was born in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, on February 22, 1839. To our subject and his faithful wife, the following children have been born: Walter, superintendent of schools of Columbia county; Carroll, an attorney at law in Seattle; Mrs. Rachel Collier, whose husband has been in the United States mail service for sixteen years; and Mary, the wife of Prof. J. A. Strong, and now deceased. Her death occurred on January 10, 1901. She was a graduate of the musical department of the Drake University, at Des Moines, Iowa, and was a skilled instructress in music. Mr. Hendron is a member of the Christion church and has been identified with that denomination since boyhood's days. He has always taken a prominent part in church work and has preached. For fourteen years, he has held the position of elder of the Dayton church and is highly respected and beloved here. Mr. Hendron has always manifested deep interest in educational matters and has been a very enthusiastic worker for advancement in these lines. He is a Lincoln Republican and from the time he cast his first vote for Lincoln, he has continued a stanch supporter of those principles which then obtained. He and his wife are spending the golden years of their lives in quiet retirement on their estate, Clover Nook, surrounded by hosts of friends and admired and respected by all who know them.

Bits of Pioneer Life Told by W. W. Hendron

On Occasion of Golden Anniversary

Wednesday, November 27 was the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hendron, residents of this county for almost the full fifty years of their married life.

They had planned a drive to Spokane, with a festive dinner at the Davenport and a visit to the theatre as an appropriate way to celebrate the day, but bad weather interfered with that.

Then they thought they would have dinner with their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bosley, whose wedding anniversary is the same day as theirs, but influenza in the Bosley family ended that plan, so they decided a quiet day at home was what Fate had decreed for them, and they went about their usual pursuits with no further thought of making any special observance of the notable anniversary.

Their many friends here had other ideas on the matter, however, but kept them to themselves, and it was mid-morning when a gift of flowers from the Broughton National Bank told them that others were thinking of the significance of the day. and throughout the remainder of the day and evening they were reminded that the anniversary was a happy one for all who know them, as well as for themselves.

In the afternoon a party of Eastern Star members came with greetings, flowers and refreshments for an informal reception, and numerous couples called during the evening to extend congratulations and best wishes and to leave flowers and other appropriate reminders of the occasion. The flowers were mostly gold in color for the golden anniversary and for a like quality felt in the years the old friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hendron have enjoyed in close association with them.

After the anniversary party, Mr. Hendron was asked by the Chronicle-Dispatch for a story of his life, and he told it to the reporter a day or so ago with many little side comments that show humor has guided his point of view throughout a long life of effort and accomplishment.

Mr. Hendron was born in Kentucky about 72 years ago, but remembers nothing about life in that state, for his parents moved to the panhandle of West Virginia before he was two years old. When he was about five years old his family went to southwestern Pennsylvania and there he grew up and fitted himself to become a teacher. He recalls that he spent his nineteenth birthday in the schoolroom, but that the next year he temporarily forsook the calling of his first choice in order to become a mule driver in the mines because "it was less work and better pay." He said he had become so proficient in six weeks that he had advanced to the position of boss hauler, "probably because I spoke a language better understood and obeyed by the mules than that of any other driver" is Mr. Hendron's appraisal of his rapid rise in the mining world.

In 1887 Walter Hendron, his father, John H. Hendron, and John Rist came out to Spokane to seek a new location. The day of their arrival was March 17, or the Seventeenth of Ireland, as St. Patrick's Day is sometimes called, and Mr. Hendron says the day has been consistently celebrated ever since his arrival in the state, although, of course, it may have been observed a time or two before that.

After they had decided to settle in the Palouse country, Mr. Rist returned to the east to bring out the two families, and the Rist and Hendron families both finally came to Dayton. Mr. Rist acquired land at the edge of town, a part of which he later sold to the group of businessmen who platted and opened Syndicate hill.

Soon after his arrival in Whitman county, Mr. Hendron taught a spring term of school. In those days school money was so slow to accumulate that full semesters could not be maintained, and it was customary to hold terms of three months whenever funds were available. The teachers in the rural districts received board and room in part payment of salaries, and it was then the custom for the schoolmaster to board around, spending a week at a time with each patron of the school. Mr. Hendron said he was always treated better than he deserved at these places, and was given the best the families had, but sometimes that "best" was no better than a bed on the floor, and the meals on those poverty-stricken homesteads must have been nothing to write home about either.

Walter Hendron and Miss Minnie Beckley were married at Palouse November 27, 1890, and lived in that part of the country until early in 1891 when they came here at the urgent behest of Mr. Hendrons parents, who were then living on what was known as the Carson place a short distance north of town. Mr. Hendron had contracted typhoid the previous fall, and his parents wished him and his young bride to make their home with them until he could fully recover from his serious illness. Mr. Hendron taught his first school in Columbia county at Covello in 1891, and from that time until his retirement he was out of the schoolroom but one winter from 1885 until 1935.

Mrs. Hendron was born in Plumas County, California, lived for a time at Reno, Nevada, then came here with her parents in about 1885. They came overland through northern California and Oregon, for the railroads had not been developed in the far west at that time. They got here about the time of the great smallpox epidemic, and from their home on Fourth St., which was about where the Ralf Harpers live now, they could see processions going to and from the "pest house" as the isolation quarters the city maintained were termed by a stricken and terrified populace.

Mrs. Hendron's mother died that year, and with her father she went to Palouse. He secured a farm, planted a crop in an effort to re-establish a home, but he was also taken by death before that crop was harvested. Mrs. Hendron made her home with kind friends until her marriage. and when she came back here a bride, she returned to a place that had meant home to her through the ties of family affection.

In his fifty years in the field of education, Mr. Hendron taught in both rural and city schools, in both grade and high school, and served numerous terms as county superintendent of schools at different periods beginning in 1902, 1917 and 1926. He has taught the three R's in rural schools to hundreds of the county's present residents. He has taught mathematics all the way from primary arithmetic through algebra and solid gemoetry. When he taught in high school, the departments had not been so sharply defined as now, and the teaching of higher mathematics, rhetoric, botany and zoology was not thought to be the feat of versatility it would be considered now, but was just an average day's work for a man who was in school to teach, and teach Mr. Hendron did, as many today can testify. Among his early pupils were Miss Cora Morgan, Dr. James Lyman, the Ingram girls, and many others who are no longer here, or whose names are not known to more recent residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendron have lived at their present attractive home at Star since 1894, and have operated a diversified farm, famed throughout the county for its fine butter, delicious fruit and warm hospitality.

Mr. Hendron has belonged to the Masonic lodge since 1898. He has gone through the chairs of the Blue Lodge and the Royal Arch Chapter, and is a member of the Commandery of Knights Templar of Walla Walla. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hendron are members of the O. E. S. and both have long been members of the Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendron were the parents of five children, three of whom are living, Walter, of Salt Lake; Harold, of Grangeville, Idaho; and Alden, of Seattle. Another son died when about two years old, and their only daughter, Carol, died several years after her marriage, leaving an infant daughter. The Hendrons have a round dozen of grandchildren, all of whom they see frequently, but never all at once. They enjoy them most in small allotments, visiting with three or four at a time here or in their own homes and learning to know each child as they knew their own when such a day as a golden wedding anniversary was in a future so remote that to consider its arrival would have seemed sheer fantasy.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hendron Monday last week celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. None can contend that the Hendrons are a restless pair. Besides the marriage record, they have just recently moved into town from an acreage on which they lived since 1894.

Minnie Buckley married the young school teacher, Hendron, at Palouse November 27, 1890. "We had to get married," was the way Daddy Hendron put it, then explained that Miss Buckley's folks were moving to Oregon and the young lovers didn't want to be separated. "We had been engaged quite a while, though," Mrs. Hendron commented, "all of six months."

At the time of their marriage Walter was drawing top pay for teachers, $50 a month. Two years later they moved to Dayton and started their long career here. Three of their five children are still living. There is Walter of Salt Lake, Harold of Dillon, Montana, and Olden of Seattle. They also have 12 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Hendron was reluctant to let Photographer Pat have her picture. "She wasn't dressed." But she looked all right to the newspaper man and still retains youth, good looks, figure and smartness. Daddy Hendron didn't want to be photographed, either; said photos didn't flatter him, therefore he didn't like 'em. The photographer tried to get him to smile, but the subject said he was suspicious of a perpetual smile. Besides that, he went on, there was for a good long time that I had to wear a scowl for self-protection. "Now I look like the devil and a lot of the time feel like it."

At one place in the interview he got to telling of experiences in his long teaching career. His former students need not worry, though, he won't disclose names.

Among his stories were those he ran into "boarding around among the school patrons." And of the fights among those patrons—"It used to be that sometimes those fights were settled by burning down the school house."

Mr. Hendron's first teaching job was in the Palouse country where he was paid $33 a mon[illegible] and "boarded around." Wheat then, he remembers, was 40 cents a bushel. One place where he boarded the family was pretty hard up and the diet was regularly rice, sour dough bread with a spread of lard and molasses, and a terribly sour split prune.

Father of County Schools

W. W. Hendron, who has been in the service of the county school for the past 45 years, is retiring to private life September 1. Mr. Hendron plans to spend the next year in Dayton and Salt Lake City. Just what his plans are after that, he has not yet made known.

W. W. Hendron Retires as County School Head

"As I go out of office I feel very, very kindly toward this job and those whom it concerns," W. W. Hendron, who for eight years has been superintendent of the Columbia county schools, said in regard to his retirement. This winter, the first idle one in the 46 years he has devoted to school work, he will spend at his home near Star, later perhaps going to Salt Lake City with Mrs. Hendron.

Early Life

Born in southern Kentucky, Walter Hendron spent his early life in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. He was graduated from the Southwest State Normal school in California, Pennsylvania, and his first position was in a school in a railroad town in the same state.

The following year he turned from his work as a school teacher for a job in a coal mine because the "work was easier," the pay was better, and it was more fun than teaching school in Pennsylvania."

He came to Columbia county with an uncle who had seen the gold rush days and cherished a desire to live somewhere in the west. The young school teacher was employed for several respective years by the Covello, Pine Grove and Star schools.

In 1901 he was elected superintendent of schools, and after serving out his term he returned to his work as a teacher—this time in the Dayton schools. He taught the eighth grade for three years, and spent an equal length of time teaching algebra, geometry, botany and zoology in high school. Later he spent a number of years in the Star and Huntsville schools.

School Prospects Good

Mr. Hendron leaves the school system at a time when its outlook is brighter than it has, in some cases, ever been. All the county schools are on a cash basis and will run on lower levies. A number of them have voluntarily raised the salaries of their teachers, and their prospects for the coming year are good. There are now 24 active districts in the county; within the last year, two districts, Dittemore and Covello, were consolidated with the Dayton schools. The reason for such action is shown by the fact that the Dayton schools last year disbursed $57,608 for 826 pupils, while it cost the county schools $50,151 for one-third as many students.

70 YEARS WED—Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Hendron, seated above, were honored by their three sons and by residents of the community Saturday evening, November 26, in observance of their 70th wedding anniversary. The three sons and their wives, pictured left to right, are: Mr. and Mrs. Alden Hendron of Seattle, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hendron of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hendron of Boise, Idaho. This was the first time since the mid-20's that the sons and their parents had all been together. Mr. Hendron is the dean of Columbia county educators. The couple has lived in Columbia county since 1891 when he taught school at Covello. The open house Saturday was celebrated at their home at 617 E. Dayton avenue.

Hendrons Have 65th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hendron, married 65 years November 27 last. Here looking at some of the many, many Christmas cards received from former students of Mr. Hendron, who until he retired a few years ago, had been a teacher since he was 18. They were married in Palouse.—Pix by Pat.

"Just to put a bug in your bonnet," comes word from Oberlin, Ohio, "Walter and Minnie Hendron celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary this month. They have done a lot for Dayton and Columbia county over the years." (From Jarvis Strong).

The Hendrons celebrated their anniversary quietly and only a neighbor or two knew of it and they had promised not to tell. Such modesty for those "who have done so much for Dayton and Columbia county."

When Photographer Pat caught up with them they were looking at Christmas cards sent them by former students. When the reporter caught them they were bandying their usual wisecracks at each other but the "old master" has had to yield ground to the weaker sex, we learned. Mrs. Hendron declared I have never tried to influence his activities or desires until he had that recent "spell" and since then I have used determination to see that he obeys the doctor's orders.

And along during the conversation she declared "He never got over being a boy." This declaration came after it was brought out that Walter hadn't smoked for three years and he had said, "They say it will be just like starting all over again, and that it will make me sick. I'll have to try it."

The Hendrons were married November 27, 1890. On this November 23, Walter was 89. Sunday he said, "I always figure if I can get through the birthday celebration, the wedding anniversary and Thanksgiving, I'm good for the rest of the year. But this year I haven't been so sure."

The Hendrons were married on Thanksgiving Day. It was either that or be separated indefinitely. The people with whom Mrs. Hendron lived were leaving Palouse City (the city part of the name has since been dropped).

Walter was teaching there. "We weren't financially fixed to be married, but we didn't want to be separated so we just up and got married." They've never been sorry for their haste, they both declare.

Walter was born in Pennsylvania and came to this territory with his father and another man who were looking for a new location, in 1887. They came to Dayton after taking a look around Spokane. The other man stayed here, but Mr. Hendron and Walter went on to Palouse. Walter took a job of teaching school. He was 19 at the time. Later the senior Mr. Hendron returned to Dayton to settle.

Mrs. Hendron, then Winnie Buckley, was born in California; lost her mother when she was 9 and after moving to Palouse with her father, lost him at 10. Mr. Hendron "had typhoid when we were married but we didn't know it, and later he had to go to bed and we came to Dayton in 1891, to be at his parent's home." Walter was severely ill with the disease for many weeks but he survived whereas many others who had typhoid that year died.

They have since made their home in and around Dayton.

Walter began his teaching career in Pennsylvania when he was 18 years of age in 1885. There were many of his classes in which he had pupils older than himself.

The Hendrons have three children, Walter of Salt Lake; Harold, recently of Dillon, Montana, but now of Boise, Idaho; and Alden of Seattle. They have an even dozen grandchildren and two dozen great grandchildren—to use the Hendron's own figures.

They are excited because one of their grandsons, Harry, son of Harold, has recently gone to Denmark to marry a girl whom he had met while she was in this country on a visit.

Dear Loren:

I am very sorry to have kept you waiting so long for a reply to your request regarding my father. We made another trip and I have been unusually busy catching up on the fall work and helping a friend move.

I have had copies run off of what I have from the papers on father. They are not good, but are legible. Real anecdotes don't seem to come to mind. However, I remember dad had a big Hupmobile car back along about 1930 and on a long up grade a Ford undertook to pass him, but couldn't. Then on the next down grade it did get past. He remarked that any old car could run down hill.

I am sorry I can't seem to give you more help but I will say that I did enjoy our little visit in Dayton.

Sincerely yours,

Harold Henderson

Two Prominent Daytonites Die During Week

MRS. MARGARET H. HENDRON

Mrs. Margaret H. Hendron, 99, one of Dayton's oldest residents, died at the home of her son, Carroll Hendron, north of Seattle, last Wednesday. Funeral services were held from the Christian church of this city Saturday morning at 10 o'clock with Rev. Frank G. Van Doren officiating, and interment was made at the family plot in the Dayton cemetery.

Mrs. Hendron was one of the most remarkable women this community has ever known. Her keen intelligence endured to the last, she enjoyed reasonably good health throughout most of her long life, and the only infirmity which in any way retarded her ability and industry was failing eyesight in her last year or so, which prohibited her reading and writing to any great extent.

Margaret Hadessa Whitsett was born on her father's farm in Fayette county, Pennsylvania, February 22, 1839. She grew up there, and when a young woman she attended the Patterson institute in Kentucky. Following her graduation she taught there for a number of years, and in 1865 she was married to John Hayden Hendron who had studied for the ministry and for teaching. In 1868 they moved to Bethany, West Virginia, where Mr. Hendron had a mercantile store until the panic of 1873 reduced his fortunes and caused him to seek a new location.

They moved back to Pennsylvania and for the next two difficult years both Mr. and Mrs. Hendron taught at Hillsboro. They later moved to Lone Pine, and Mr. Hendron taught in the academy there for the next eight years. There were no high schools in those days, and the academy, a private institution, was the only source of higher education open to young people of that generation. During a part of this time Mrs. Hendron taught in the public schools, maintained her home and cared for her children. The family next moved to Dawson, Pennsylvania, and Mr. Hendron taught in the Vanderbilt schools for the next two years.

In 1887 the family came west and settled in what was called Palouse City. In 1889 they came to Columbia county and engaged in farming on the old Carson place east of town which is now farmed by the Woodwards. Soon after coming to Dayton they endured another panic, that of '93, when the rains came before which Mrs. Hendron named "Clover Nook." This was her home from that time until three years ago when she went to Seattle to live with her son, Carroll, and her elder son, W. W. Hendron, still owns a part of the acreage.

Mrs. Hendron was always a great reader and student of the Bible, and after the death of her husband in 1914, she took a ministerial course by correspondence from the college at Bethany, West Virginia. She did this as a means of solace and comfort in her bereavement, and in due time received her diploma with excellent grades and high commendation from her instructors. She followed events of the world with greatest interest, and did much original writing, but never for publication. She was a natural and a highly endowed student and teacher, and the acquisition of knowledge was one of the most constant activities of her long life. She was a member of the Christian church for 84 years, having professed her faith at the age of about 16.

Mrs. Hendron was the last survivor of a family of 13 children. Her youngest brother died only last winter at the age of 86. She leaves two sons, W. W. Hendron, Dayton, and Carroll Hendron, Seattle, one daughter, Mrs. George Atkinson, Nanaimo, B. C., and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Another daughter, Mrs. Mary Strong, died more than 30 years ago.

John H. Hendron.

Word was received in Dayton Tuesday morning, announcing the sudden death of John H. Hendron. He became paralyzed at 4 o'clock a. m. and died at 7 o'clock. Up to the day of his death Mr. Hendron had enjoyed good health.

The funeral will be held from the Christian church at 10 a. m. Thursday, June 11.

Mr. Hendron is survived by his wife and the following children: Walter, a teacher in our county schools; Carroll, an attorney-at-law in Seattle; Mrs. Rachel Collier. Mary, another daughter, wife of Prof. J. A. Strong, died January 10, 1901.

John H. Hendron was born in Madison county, Kentucky, October 26, 1839, the son of Minrod and Mary (Bicknell) Hendron, both natives of Madison county, the former born in 1800 and the latter in 1810. The father died in 1867. The paternal grandfather of our subject was a native of Ireland, came to North Carolina and thence to Kentucky. After attending the common schools until 1860, Mr. Hendron matriculated in the Kentucky university, after which he entered Jefferson college, graduating from that institution with honors in 1865. The next twenty-five years were spent in zealous and faithful labor as an educator in various portions of the country. He held the chair of languages and that of mathematics in Jefferson college for a long time and then was in West Virginia, whence he journeyed to Washington county, Pennsylvania, and handled a select school for nine sessions. For six years we find him in the Vanderbilt school, then in 1887, he came to Palouse City, Washington, and taught in the Palouse schools. It was 1889 when he came to Dayton and decided to settle upon a farm in the edge of town.

Later he bought what was known as the Pintler claim, Clover Nook, about three miles from town. Here Mr. Hendron has lived since and has given his attention to general farming and dairying.

Mr. Hendron was a Lincoln republican, and from the time he cast his first vote for Lincoln, he continued a staunch supporter of those principles which then obtained.

W. W. Hendron, Educator, Succumbs at Age of 96 Years

Walter W. Hendron, 96, Columbia county's pioneer educator, passed away early Wednesday afternoon November 28, at Pleasant Valley Rest Home in Dayton where he had been living since October.

He had been in declining health for the past two weeks.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday, December 1, from the Congregational church with the Rev. Charles Knapp officiating. Interment was at Dayton City Cemetery.

Born in Kentucky

Mr. Hendron, who taught his first class in Columbia county in 1891 at Covello, was born November 23, 1866, in Kentucky. Before he was two years old, his father, John H. Hendron, moved his family to West Virginia and when Mr. Hendron was about five years of age moved to southwest Pennsylvania.

Mr. Hendron grew up in Pennsylvania and prepared for his teaching career there. He taught his first class in Pennsylvania when he was about 19 years of age.

Came West in 1887

On March 17, 1887, Mr. Hendron and his father came to Spokane to make a new home. Mr. Hendron taught in Whitman county before coming to Columbia county in 1891.

During his teaching career in Columbia county, Mr. Hendron taught in rural and city schools and in both grade and high school classes. During his years of service, until his retirement in 1935, he missed just one winter in the classroom. During this period he served on numerous occasions as county superintendent of schools.

Mr. Hendron and the former Minnie Buckley were married November 27, 1890, at Palouse. They lived in the Star district from 1894 until 1950 when they moved into Dayton. Mrs. Hendron, 89, passed away October 17.

W. W. Hendron

Joined Masons in 1898

The pioneer educator joined the Masonic lodge in 1898 and had received his 50-year membership jewel. He was also a member of Order of Eastern Star.

Members of the family are three sons: Walter Hendron of Salt Lake City, Utah; Harold Hendron of Boise, Idaho; and Alden Hendron of Seattle. An infant son died at the age of two years and a daughter, Carol, died several years after her marriage.

Mrs. Hendron Dies Tuesday, Rites Pending

Mrs. W. W. (Minnie) Hendron, 89, resident of Columbia county since 1891, passed away Tuesday evening, October 17, at a nursing home in Walla Walla where she and her husband have been patients for the past two months.

Mrs. Hendron had been in failing health for several years. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Mrs. Hendron was born May 27, 1873. She and Walter W. Hendron, pioneer Columbia county educator, were married November 27, 1890, at Palouse. Mrs. Hendron was the former Minnie Buckley.

Residents Since 1891

The couple came to Columbia county in 1891 when Mr. Hendron first taught school in the county at Covello. They established a home in the Star district in 1894 and lived there until November, 1950, when they made their home at 617 E. Dayton avenue.

Since August 19, both Mr. and Mrs. Hendron have been patients at Smith Nursing Home in Walla Walla. They celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary at an open house in November, 1960.

Mrs. Hendron was a member of the Congregational church in Dayton.

In addition to her husband, Walter, members of the family include three sons: Walter Hendron of Salt Lake City, Utah; Harold Hendron of Boise, Idaho; and Alden Hendron of Seattle.

22 Feb 1989

Grace Athena Hendron

Grace Athena Hendron, 92, died February 13, 1989 at North Hollywood, California.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m., Tuesday, February 21 at Hubbard-Rogg Funeral Home. Interment will be in the Muirhead family plot, Dayton City Cemetery.

Mrs. Hendron was born May 18 1896 at Athena, Oregon, the daughter of John and Mary Webb Muirhead. She moved to Dayton with her parents and attended Dayton schools.

She taught school at Starveout Ridge Rural School. She married J. Alden Hendron in 1918 in Dayton. Soon thereafter she moved to Granite Falls, WA where she lived for many years. She became a prolific writer. In 1934 her first short story was published, the beginning of a 40 year writing career. She had two novels published, "Nurse in Alaska" and "A Change of Heart," and wrote many short stories for periodicals, including True Story, Love Story, True Romance and a Seattle publication, "Peter Puget."

During World War II she boarded workers involved in war industries in Seattle; she also worked at Boeing and the Sandpoint Naval Base.

She attended many seminars at the University of Washington improving her writing skills. She was a house director at Marjorie Webster, a women's college in Washington D.C.

Later in her life she lived with her daughter, who was married to a vice-admiral, and thus moved to Hawaii, England, Alaska, with with the family.

She is survived by a son, John Hendron, Jr., of Seattle; three daughters, Ruth Engel of Kona, Hawaii; Margaret Wahlberg of Lexington, Kentucky; Virginia Mackay, Bothell, Wa; a brother Percy Muirhead Walla Walla; sister Faye Kappmaeyer of Palm Desert, CA; 26 grandchildren, 22 great grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband and one son, James Hendron.

15 Oct 1980

GLADYS CORBETT HENDRON

Gladys Corbett Hendron, 83, died June 8, 1980 in a Salt Lake City nursing home.

Born June 12, 1896, Huntsville, Washington, to Judson Albert and Jane Baker Corbett. Married Walter Hendron, May 4, 1919, in Dayton, Washington. She was a member of the First Congregational Church of Salt Lake City. She attended Whitman College at Walla Walla, Washington, where she studied music.

Survivors: Husband, Walter, Salt Lake City; son, Howard C., Suffolk, Virginia; sisters Fern Bateman, Walla Walla; Phyllis Hanel, Escondido, California; six grandchildren; one great-granddaughter. One son, Eugene W. preceeded her in death.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday, June 11, at Eastman's Evans and Early Mortuary, where friends called on Tuesday 7-8 p.m. and Wednesday one half hour prior to the services. In lieu of flowers, family suggested that contributions be made to the First Congregational Church Memorial Fund. Interment was held in the Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Brother Killed By Seattle Car

W. W. Hendron received word last week of the death in Seattle of his brother, Carroll, when he was hit by a car, January 25, while crossing the street. Funeral services were held Monday, and interment was had in Seattle.

He was the local Mr. Hendron's "kid brother," being 4½ years younger. He was born in Bethany, West Virginia, May 17, 1871, but he came to this country at an early age with other members of the family.

Living here he joined in the Klondike gold rush in 1898. But he didn't do too well, his brother says, since he was injured early in his sojourn there. But he came home with enough to buy his father a gang plow.

Carroll studied law under the late Judge Godman, an early day barister of the county. Following his experience in the Klondike, he decided to borrow enough money to start a law office in Seattle. But he wasn't successful in this and finally decided, "I can go to work and earn money faster than I can borrow it in Dayton at a decent rate of interest." And that's what he did, Brother Walter says. Carroll went to work in the Coeur d'Alene mines for a time and then on to achieve his goal.

His wife survives as does a daughter, Mrs. John Martinson of Everett.

Leo Henry, born 1897

Leo Henry may be best known as the only World War I veteran in Columbia County. "It was the last draft," Leo recalls. "I said I'd better get in that draft and do something. We went to Seattle then to the camp at the mouth of the Columbia River. We weathered the flu epidemic there in 1918." Leo shook his head sadly. "A lot of men died there. Then a troop train took us to Camp Eustiss, Virginia, but by the time we got there, Armistice had been declared so we didn't get any farther."

But during his 97 years in the area, he has been a vital and well-known member of the Dayton community.

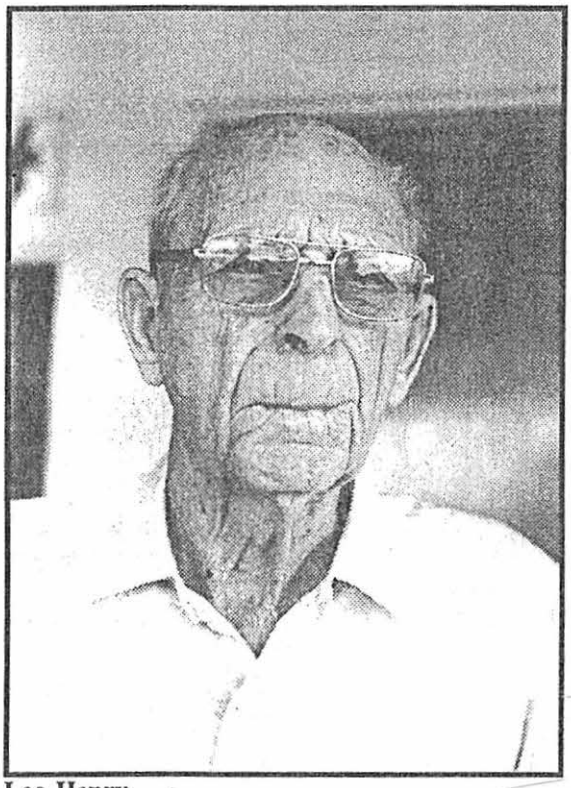
Like many early Dayton residents, Leo's parents were emigrants. His father came from Arkansas on an emigrant train in 1865 with $50 in his pocket.

Leo arrived considerably later. Born in Waitsburg, he vividly remembers coming to Dayton at the age of three on a lumber wagon pulled by a team of horses.

The biggest change, he says was changing from horsedrawn implements to power tractors and combines. While it sounds exciting to those who have never lived through such times, Leo says he wouldn't want to go back to it. "Power machinery lets you farm many acres while you were just trying to farm a little bit with horses."

"We farmed there from the time our family moved here. Dick Juris lives there now," Leo explains, adding that they raised wheat, barley, and canning peas.

Leo says more people lived here then than now. "Up on Robinette Mountain there were 10 to 15 people with farms. They came down on Saturdays, but it was a bum road, not gravel like now. They've mostly moved away," he says, "but we used to have dances up on the mountain. And there was the Weinhard Theater in Dayton where the First Savings Bank is now."



Leo Henry

Would he like to see people come back to farm?

"I don't think so," he replied after some reflection. "I don't think they could make a living on a small farm now. We raised most of what we ate and didn't spend much money because it didn't take much to buy what we needed then. We didn't have cars then, just teams. We could just turn the teams out in the pasture. Can't do that with your car. You have to buy gas."

thing from a lengthy lifetime of experiences, "but," says Leo, "I think it was when the REA put electricity in out at the farm."

That, he says, was even more exciting in its way than the big fire that burned out all the blacksmith shops and livery stable on Main Street. "Lars Nelson had an implement store across from the Courthouse and the blacksmith shops and livery stable in the block where the Blue Mountain Lumber Company was."

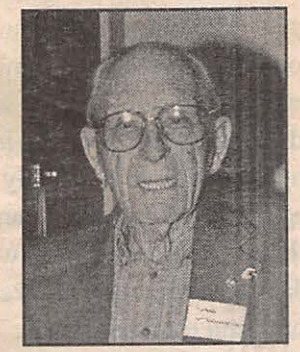
The climate here has changed, Leo says, and several of the other oldsters agree with him. "We usually have snow this time of year," he pointed out as he looked out the windows at the January sun. "Has the climate changed? I'll say it has!"

Leo maintains an interest in the area that has been so important to him. "I think the best thing right now is the ski run on the mountain. I think it's good for Dayton. And the cannery. If they took the cannery out, Dayton wouldn't amount to much."

Advice is not something Leo has an abundance of, neither does he wax eloquent as to the source of his longevity. "Just lucky, I guess. I've lived a pretty simple life."

Leo Henry

Leo Henry was born January 11, 1897 to Samuel and Abbie Billups Henry in Waitsburg. At the age of three the family moved to the farm on the Patit which Sam had purchases. They drove to the farm on a lumber wagon pulled by a team of horses. The farm is located 12 miles east of Dayton.



The Leo was old enough for school he attended Fairview school about a mile from the home. There were about 20 students. Soon it was reduces in size as families moved away and Fairview closed. Then Leo rode horseback to the school at Covello several miles away. His formal schooling ended at an early age as he was needed on the farm. His first job on the combine during harvest was as the "header tender". The next year he was promoted to the driver of the team of 27 horses.

In World War I, Leo was in the last draft. He went to a camp at the mouth of the Columbia River and then on a troop train to Camp Eustiss, Virginia. By the time they arrived the Armistice had been declared.

When he returned he bought a farm on Robinette Mountain. On January 1, 1921, he and Ethel Rose were married in the Christian Church in Walla Walla. (He and Ethel were married for 71 years when she passed away in March, 1992) They lived on Robinette mountain until 1925 when their house burned to the ground and they lost everything except that they were wearing. They sifted through the ashes to find Ethel's diamond. They moved with their three year old daughter, Betty, to the Patit ranch. Their second daughter, Mary Ellen, was born there. In 1928, when Betty was school age, they bought a house in town and lived there for over thirty years before moving to the present home. Leo commuted to the farm and actively farmed until 1951 when his son-on-law, Dick Juris, and daughter moved onto the ranch and took over the farming operation.

Leo has been an active member in the community. He was a charter member of the Columbia County Farm Bureau and has served it as president. In 1929 a group of farmers formed the Columbia County Grain Growers cooperative. Stock certificates #2 was purchases by Leo. He was elected president of the board in 1937 and again in 1944. He served as chairman of the "agriculture Adjustment Act" committee (a predecessor of the ASCS) for several years. During World War II, he was a member of the county Ration Board.

The Kiwanis Club chose him as their "Kiwanian of the Year." He has been as active member for many years. He also belongs to the Wheat Growers, Elks, Mason's Lodge, and is active with the local Senior Center. He has been a member of the First Congregational Church of Dayton for many years.

Leo's hobbies have been fishing, hunting, gardening, and traveling. The Henrys summered for many years at the cabin at Priest Lake and enjoyed lake fishing. They also spent their winters in Mesa, Arizona, trips to Alaska and Canada.

Memorial services were at 2 p.m. on Monday, April 6 at the First Congregational Church in Dayton. Rev. Steve Edwards and Bill Graham officiated. A Private Inurnment in the family plot in the Dayton City Cemetery followed.

Contributions towards the Dayton Depot Society, Congregational Church and of donators choice may be mailed to Hubbard Rogg 111 South 2nd St.

Leo Henry is survived by his daughter and son-in-law, Mary Ellen and Richard Juris of Dayton, Granddaughters and their husbands, Kathleen and Herman Martinez and Kristine and James Takemura all of Dayton, Grandsons, Alan Lindley of Clairemont, CA., Merle Lindley or Chino, CA., and Brian Lindley of Tillamook, OR., great-grandchildren Makaela Takemura and Claudia and Marco Martinez of Dayton and Chad Lindley of Chino, CA. Leo is preceded in death by his brother Denver Henry, daughter Betty Lindley and granddaughter Jane Marie Juris.

Leo Henry 3 apr 1998

DAYTON — Leo Henry, 101, of 214 S. Eighth St., died April 2, 1998, at Booker Annex.

A memorial service will be at 2 p.m. Monday at First Congregational Church in Dayton. The Revs. Steve Edwards and Bill Graham will officiate. A private burial will follow in the family plot at Dayton City Cemetery.

Memorial contributions be made to the Dayton Depot Society, First Congregational Church in Dayton or a charity of the donor's choice.

Mr. Henry was born in Waitsburg on Jan. 11, 1897, to Samuel and Abbie Billups Henry. When he was 3, the family moved to a farm on Patit Creek, 12 miles east of Dayton.

He attended school at Fairview and Covello, but left early to work on the farm.

He was drafted into the U.S. armed forces during World War I and was in training when the war ended.

He married Ethel Rose on Jan. 1, 1921, in Walla Walla. They made their home on a farm on Robinette Mountain, where they lived until it was destroyed by a fire in 1925. After several years at the family's Patit Creek ranch, they moved to Dayton. Mr. Henry continued work on the farm until 1951, when his son-in-law, Dick Juris, took over the operation.

He was active in local farm organizations. He was a charter member of the Columbia County Farm Bureau and later was its president. He also was one of the founding members of the Columbia County Grain Growers co-op and served two terms as president, in 1937 and 1944. He also was chairman of a county committee that was a predecessor to the local Farm Service Agency advisory board.

He was an active member of Kiwanis and was named Kiwanian of the Year in 1956. He also was a member of the Elks Club, Masonic Lodge, First Congregational Church of Dayton and the local Senior Center.

He loved to fish, hunt, travel and work in his garden. The family spent many summers at Priest Lake, Idaho, and spent winters in Mesa, Ariz., for more than 20 years. They also traveled in their camper to Alaska, Canada and Mexico.

Mr. Henry is survived by a daughter, Mary Ellen Juris of Dayton; grandchildren Kathleen Martinez and Kristine Takemura of Dayton, Alana Lindley of Clairmont, Calif., Merle Lindley of Chico, Calif., and Brian Lindley of Tillamook, Ore.; and four great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his wife of 71 years, Ethel, who died in 1992; a brother, Denver Henry; a daughter, Betty Lindley; and a granddaughter, Jane Marie Juris.

70th anniversary slated

Leo and Ethel Henry of Dayton will celebrate their forthcoming 70th wedding anniversary at a reception from 12:00 to 1:30 p.m., Sunday, November 11, in the Fireplace Room of the Dayton Congregational Church. All friends and family are cordially invited.

The event will be hosted by the couple's daughter and son-in-law, Mary Ellen and Dick Juris, and granddaughters, Kathleen Juris and Kristine and her husband, Jay Takemura.

Both Leo and the former Ethel Rose spent their early years in Columbia County. Ethel moved with her family to Walla Walla in 1918.

Following service in the infantry in World War I, Leo returned to Columbia County to farm with his father. Leo and Ethel moved to their farm on Robinette Mountain following their marriage. After their home burned, they moved to his father's farm on the Patit. When their oldest daughter was ready for school they moved into Dayton.

Leo has been an active member of the Masonic Lodge and the Kiwanis Club. They both are members of Eastern Star and are active members in the Congregational Church. Their hobbies have been hunting, fishing and gardening. For the past 18 years they have spent their winters in Arizona.

They have five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Mrs. Abbie Sharp Succumbs Sunday

Funeral service for Mrs. Abbie B. Sharp, 90, resident of southeast Washington all her life, was conducted Tuesday, October 25, in Walla Walla with interment following at Mountain View Cemetery. Chaplain L. E. Cousins officiated.

Mrs. Sharp died in a Walla Walla hospital Sunday where she had been critically ill less than a week.

She was born June 27, 1876, in Dayton the daughter of Frank and Lou (Thomas) Billings. Her father crossed the plains in 1857 and homesteaded on the Lower Whetstone in Columbia county. Later the family moved to the North Touchet where the children attended Pine Grove School.

Her early married life was spent on a farm east of Dayton. In 1915 she moved to Walla Walla where she purchased an apartment house. From 1924 until 1926 she operated a hotel at Pomeroy. For the past 40 years Mrs. Sharp, widow of Bert Sharp, had lived in Walla Walla.

She is survived by two sons, Denver Henry and Leo Henry, both of Dayton; one sister, Mrs. Pearl Davis of Tacoma; one granddaughter, Mrs. Richard Juris of Dayton; five great grandchildren, and a number of nieces and nephews.

SETH W. HESTER.

Since starting out in life for himself Seth W. Hester has followed agricultural pursuits and is today one of the prosperous farmers of Columbia county, Washington. He has always been a resident of the Pacific northwest, being born in Linn county, Oregon, January 2, 1872, and during his infancy he was brought to Walla Walla county, now Columbia county, by his parents, William M. and Sarah K. (Combs) Hester, who were natives of Kentucky and Iowa respectively. It was in 1852 that his father came to the Pacific coast and after spending four years in California, removed to Oregon in 1856 and in 1872 came to Walla Walla county, Washington, where he settled on a farm. Here he and his wife both died. To them were born nine children and five of the number are now living.

Seth W. Hester passed his boyhood and youth in Walla Walla county and is indebted to its public schools for the early educational advantages he enjoyed. He was only thirteen years of age when his father died and he took charge of the home farm, which he carried on for a few years. Being a wide-awake, up-to-date farmer, he has steadily prospered as the years have gone by and is today the owner of valuable land in Columbia and Garfield counties. He has become interested in other enterprises and is now a stockholder in different businesses in Walla Walla, Garfield and Columbia counties.

In 1893 Mr. Hester was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Loundagin, and they have two daughters: Lucile M., who is a graduate of the Walla Walla high school and is now a student at Mills College, Oakland, California; and La Nor C., now attending high school.

Mr. Hester takes a commendable interest in educational affairs and has efficiently served on the school board. His political support is given the democratic party and he never withholds his aid from any enterprise which he believes will prove of public benefit.

A SAD TRAGEDY.

A very sad tragedy occurred near Dayton last Saturday night which resulted in the death of Mrs. Sarah K. Hester, who is widely know throughout the county as a most estimable lady. Mrs. Hester has been a widow for several years and by the aid of her sons has carried on the farm, left to the estate, which is about six miles north of Dayton. One or two hired men were generally employed on the farm. Recently a man by the name of Chas. Anderson, who had been employed on the farm was discharged and Chas. Robinson another employe was retained.

Last Saturday night Chas. Anderson, in company with two other men visited the Hester farm, taking with them some musical instruments on which they performed until about half past seven o'clock. At this hour, all took their departure. After going a short distance, Anderson wheeled his horse around and remarked that he guessed he would go back to the house and stay all night, and left his companions in the road with the words "so long, boys."

He then returned to the Hester farm and walked into the house without knocking. He also made himself at home without being welcome. He remained until about 10 o'clock, when the room began to grow cold, as the fire had been allowed to go out. Robinson asked Mrs. Hester if she wanted the fire renewed, to which she replied that she did not. Anderson then spoke up and told Robinson he could go to bed if he was cold. Robinson replied that he was in no hurry to retire. A few more words passed between the men, when Anderson drew a revolver and began snapping it at Robinson. Mrs. Hester then interfered, and succeeded in pushing Anderson out the door and off the porch, and tried to relieve him of the revolver, which he held above her and kept snapping at Robinson. In the meantime, Robinson had secured a loaded shotgun from the bath room, and came to the door with the intention of frightening Anderson away. He carried the gun cocked and as one barrel was very easy on the trigger, the gun went off just as he was going to aim at Anderson. Mrs. Hester happened to be in range and received the full charge of No. 6 shot in the right side. She lived only long enough to say, "Charlie you have hit me." Robinson dropped his gun and running to Mrs. Hester, caught her just as she fell. While Robinson was bending over Mrs. Hester, Anderson placed his revolver on the railing of the front porch and taking deliberate aim, snapped again at Robinson, then fled.

Robinson carried Mrs. Hester into the house and then went to D. A. Hester's where he related the sad news. He also brought the news to town, arriving about half past 12 at night, and was himself compelled to relate the circumstances to R. M. Hester. He notified the sheriff and gave himself up, but was not arrested, as his story is believed to be true.

Coroner Van Patten held an inquest Sunday and the jury decided in accordance with the above facts.

The sheriff and a posse of deputies scoured the country in all directions Sunday in search of Anderson. He was tracked to the city and here the trail was lost. It has since been learned that he stopped at the house of Mr. Sanders at Huntsville, on Monday night, but has not since been heard of. Anderson claims to be a relative of Bill Anderson, the notorious bushwhacker of Boone county, Missouri.

Sunday afternoon a scrap of paper was found on the lower railroad bridge of the Hunt line, which reads as follows: "I am tired of living. You will find my body in a deep hole below here." It is thought that Anderson was the author of the note.

At the time of the accident there were four children asleep in the house, two young daughters and a son of Mrs. Hester's and a neighbor's boy employed on the place to do chores. When Robinson realized what he had done his screams awakened the children who came to see what had happened. One of the boys was sent to Mrs. Lamb's to inform her of the tragedy, while Robinson and the other boy went to D. A. Hester's place a quarter of a mile distant, leaving the two young daughters in the house with their mother.

Mrs. Hester's funeral services were held at the Christian church, of which she was a member, on Monday afternoon, and was largely attended by people from the city and country. She was nearly forty-five years of age and leaves six children to mourn her untimely death. Her sons are, D. A. Hester and R. M. Hester, both of whom are married, S. W. and L. L. Hester, and Cora and Jessie Hester, two young daughters.

Death of D. A. Hester.

DIED—In Dayton, on Saturday, Jan. 4, 1896, at midnight, D. A. Hester, aged 31 years, 2 months and 1 day.

D. A. Hester was born in Scio, Lynn county, Or., Nov. 3 1864, from which place Wm. Hester and family came to Dayton arriving here Aug. 13, 1872, twenty-three years ago. For nearly four years, Arthur has been a sufferer from kidney disease, for which he underwent a severe operation about a year ago. He never regained his full strength and early in the fall it was necessary to perform another operation, hoping to prolong life thereby. Drs. Jeffords, Drake and Nichols, of Portland performed the operation Oct. 25, which consisted of removing one kidney. From this he rallied, and gained strength sufficienty that he was expected home, when suddenly his vitality gave way. His wife and brother Robert were called, who removed him from Portland to the home of the latter in this city Dec. 24th, where he received every care that loving hands could administer, but death had marked him. The devoted wife and mother, with her fatherless children, will continue their residence on their farm six miles in the country.

This Picture Represents Four Generations of the May Family

There are four generations here today of the family of T. M. May, pioneer of this section and founder of the Chronicle forty years ago. The great-grandmother of the fourth generation, Mrs. Martha May, crossed the plains sixty-five years ago when but twelve years of age, and settled in the Willamette Valley, where she was married and reared a part of her family. The Mays came here in the spring of '76, when the flouring mill and the postoffice store were about the only signs of a town. Mr. May engaged in farming and stock-raising and was very successful, leaving a valuable estate to his family.

Mrs. Mary Hester upon whose fiftieth birthday the family picture was taken, has made for herself a place in the community, which could be filled by no one else. She is manager of the Brining Hospital and ministers to all cases with a tenderness and patience, that, combined with the skill obtained from her years of study and practice, bring about remarkable recoveries and win for her the lasting gratitude and friendship of her patients.

The young mother and son are Mrs. Hester's daughter and grandson, Mrs. Maurice Terpening, and Maurice Jr., both of whom were born in Dayton, and while they do not now make this their home, the family is so deeply rooted here and so much a part of the place that they contrive to spend several months here each season.

Hutchinson-Potter.

A very pretty home wedding took place at noon Wednesday, April 6th, at the Seth Hester home near Pomeroy, when Mrs. Lucile Hutchinson, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hester, and Captain P. M. Potter, U. S. N., were united in marriage. The service was read in the presence of a few relatives and friends of the bride and immediately after the ceremony Captain and Mrs. Patter left intheir car for a motor trip to Spokane and points eastward.

Mrs. Potter grew up in Dayton and is known to be a delightful andaccomplished girl. She attended school in Walla Walla for a time and took her final work at Mills College, California. Captain Potter is from Pennsylvnia and a graduate of Cornell. During the war he was captain of the cruiser "Wyoming," and only recently received his discharge. The Potters will make their home at the Hester farm near Pomeroy.

CORA HESTER HUBER

Graveside services were held here Wednesday of last week for Cora Hester Huber, who had died suddenly August 11 following a short illness. Rev. J. Logan Peringer officiated.

Mrs. Huber, whose home was in Oakland, California, had gone to Nevada City to visit her son and his wife who were there while the son was on a construction job. Mrs. Huber was a great lover of the outdoors and the son and daughter-in-law had called her so that she could share in the beautiful country they were in. Shortly after arriving at her destination she suffered a stroke from which she failed to rally.

Cora Hester was born in this county August 2, 1879, but for the past 37 years had made her home in Oakland where at the time of her death she was supervisor of 27 nursery schools.

Close relatives include her son, Elbridge Hanger of Oakland; a sister, Mrs. Walter Frary, and a brother, Seth Hester, both of Dayton; a grandson, Delbert Hanger of Fort Lauderdale, Florida; and numerous nieces and nephews.

In all the years since Mrs. Huber left Dayton she had continued to think of Dayton as her home. She kept up her acquaintances here by periodic visits and was here the last time in March. Her greatest satisfaction was in roaming the countryside, in open fields or forested hills and despite her age, even last March she took the opportunity of tramping over the Whetstone hills so familiar to her as a girl.

At the time of being stricken, Walter Frary went to her bedside, Mrs. Frary being unable to go, and at that time Mrs. Huber's greatest worry was when she could get home to Dayton.

A. Davidson Dies Nov. 24 At Kennewick

Mrs. Alice D. Davidson, 78, who lived for 55 years in Dayton, passed away Saturday, November 24, at a nursing home in Kennewick where she had resided for the past year.

After leaving Dayton, she lived for three years at 931 Leola street in Pasco before entering the nursing home.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Wednesday, November 28, from the Dayton Baptist church. Interment followed at the family plot in Davton City Cemetery.

Mrs. Davidson was born September 29, 1884, in Walla Walla county. She was preceded in death in 1948 by her husband, George H. Davidson, who was employed here in farm and construction work.

After moving to Pasco, Mrs. Davidson became a member of the First Christian church there. While a resident of Dayton, she held membership in the Baptist church and the Woodmen of the World.

Members of the family include seven sons: Cecil of Newark, New York, Edward of San Diego, Earl of Roseburg, Oregon, Richard of Oswego, New York, Carl, George and Paul, all of Pasco; one sister, Mrs. Elva Martin of Spokane; one brother, Paul Clancy of Rosscommon, Mich.; 13 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Minnie Hester

Mrs. Minnie M. Hester, former Dayton resident, died at a Walla Walla hospital Wednesday, November 14 after a brief illness. Funeral services were held from the Central Christian church of Walla Walla Monday at 1:30 p.m., with the Rev. Glen Mell officiating, and burial was made at the family plot in the Odd Fellow cemetery at Waitsburg.

Born at Waitsburg December 21, 1869, she spent her early married life here and later moved to Walla Walla. About 14 years ago she went to Salem, Oregon, but returned to Walla Walla seven years ago.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Paul Poter, Pomeroy, and Mrs. Jack Fry, Spokane; three sisters, Mrs. Jennie L. Riggs, Salem, Ore., Miss Cora Loundagin, Dayton, and Mrs. Tom Keene, Electric City; one brother, L. A. Loundagin, College Place; and three grandchildren.

15 Dec 1960

Seth Hester Funeral Rite Held Dec. 14

Funeral rites for Seth Warner Hester, 88, long-time resident of Dayton, were held Wednesday afternoon, December 14, from the Hubbard-Rogg chapel.

The Rev. Marvin Jordan, pastor of the Dayton Methodist church, officiated at the service. Interment was in the family plot at Dayton City Cemetery.

Mr. Hester passed away Sunday, December 11, at Robison Nursing Home in Dayton where he had been a patient for the past three years. He was born January 2, 1872, in Linn County, Oregon, the son of the late William Hester and Sara K. Combs Hester, pioneers of Columbia county.

As Young Boy

He came to Columbia county as a young boy and spent all the remaining years of his life in the county. Mr. Hester farmed in the Upper Whetstone district of the county on land now owned by Loren Lambert. He retired about 30 years ago.

He and Minnie Loundagin were married in 1893 in Dayton and became the parents of two daughters, Lucille and La Nor. In May, 1924, in Dayton, Mr. Hester and Johanna Hanson were married. She preceded him in death in May, 1957. Mr. Hester held membership in the Methodist church.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. Walter Frary, of Dayton; five daughters, Mrs. Paul (Lucille) Potter of Walla Walla, Mrs. Jack (La Nor) Fry of Spokane, Mrs. Donald (Marion) Agee of Arlington, Texas, Mrs. Norman (Sally Jo) Kayser of Dayton and Mrs. Dorothy Cushman of Walla Walla. Also surviving are 16 grandchildren and numerous great grandchildren.

19 Sept 1891

HESTER—In this city, Monday, September 14, 1891, at 11 P. M., Lulu S., wife of R. M. Hester, aged 24 years and 7 months.

Mrs. Hester was the eldest daughter of J. J. Culbertson, of this city. She had been a sufferer from consumption for several years, which disease was contracted while a resident of Oregon. Recently Mrs. Hester returned from a trip to California, which was taken with a view to bettering her health, but the disease was too well seated to relinquish its hold, and the sufferer came home to die among friends, who did all in their power to banish pain during her last hours. The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon from the Baptist church, of which Mrs. Hester was a member.

The Baptist Sentinel, speaking of the funeral of Mrs. Hester, says: "Her request was that Brother J. H. Martin, her old Sabbath-school teacher, preach the funeral discourse, which he did, to a large congregation. The loving hands that ministered to her in her last hours, carried her to and from the church and laid her to rest in the quiet grave-yard. Sister Hester was willing and ready to go. The loved ones sorrow not as others which have no hope. They have our sympathy. God bless them."

ary May, a daughter of the Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. , was born at Roseburg, Ore- March 24, 1868. With her parents, she went to Rock Creek in Whitman county in 1876 and came here with them in 1878. The Mays took up a homestead which they farmed for a time, and the late Mr. May later purchased the Columbia Chronicle which he subsequently sold to the late R. E. Peabody.

Mary May was married to the late Robert Hester in 1893 and continued to live here until after her children were grown. She took up nursing in early life, and nursed in private homes long before there was a hospital in the community. When the first Brining hospital was opened in 1915 Mrs. Hester became superintendent of the institution, and associated with her was Miss Stella Alexander, formerly a deaconess of the Methodist church. Miss Alexander, who had been making her home with the Hester family prior to their hospital association, moved to Clarkston with Mrs. Hester, and their close friendship continued over a period of 38 years.

Mrs. Hester was a graduate of the Dayton high school, a member of the Dayton Baptist church, and an early member of Rainbow chapter, Eastern Star. She was a fortress of strength to her family and to her many friends in time of sickness or sorrow. Although she had not lived here in many years, her passing was deeply felt by those who knew her in early days.

Surviving are a son, Walton Hester, Clarkston; a sister, Mrs. Mattie Blowers, Longview, Wn.; a brother, Ed May, Walla Walla; a grandson, Maurice Terpening, Jr. who is now in service in the South Pacific, two great grandchildren, and a number of nephews and nieces, Her only daughter, Mrs. Hester May Hester Terpening, died in 1928, and she reared her daughter's two young sons, one of whom, Pat Terpening, was killed in an airplane crash during World War II.

OBITUARIES

ROBERT WALTON HESTER

Mrs. Mattie May Blowers of Longview and her nephew, Wade J. Young of Pullman were here Wednesday of last week on their way home from Lewiston where they had been to attend funeral services for their nephew and cousin, Robert Walton Hester, 41, who died February 8.

Funeral services were held from the Merchant Funeral home of Clarkston February 1, the body was sent to Spokane for cremation and his ashes will be interred in the family plot in the Dayton cemetery beside the body of his mother, the late Mrs. Mary Hester, and the ashes of his only sister, the late Mrs. Maurice (Hester May Hester) Terpenning who died a number of years ago.

Walton Hester, only son of the late Robert Hester and the late Mrs. Mary Hester, was born in Dayton, Noveber 11, 1906. He grew up here and received his education in local schools. He moved to Clarkston nearly 30 years ago with his mother, and until his health failed he was in the restaurant business. He leaves two nephews and other close relatives, including S. W. Hester and Mrs. W. A. Frary of this city, an uncle and aunt.

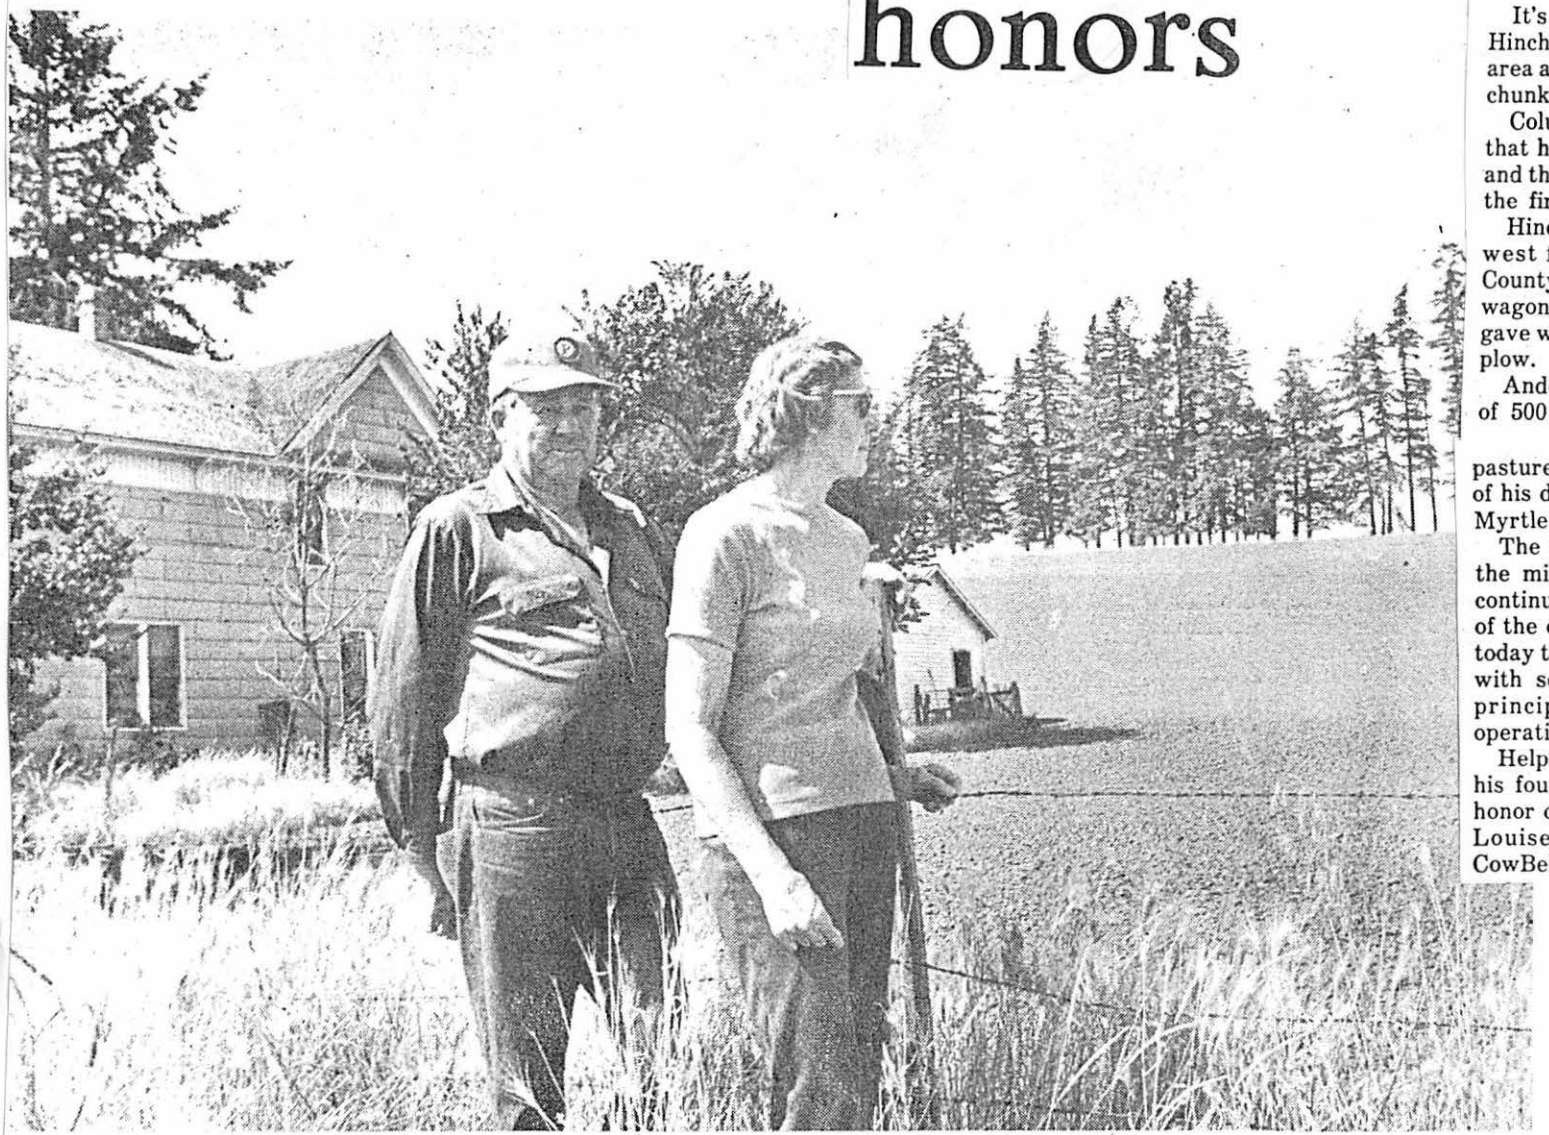
100-year-old farms sought for honors

Aug. 12, 1976



Wilber and Louise Hinchliff pause for a moment in front of the old home place built near the turn of the century. Although the house hasn't been occupied for several years the 800 acre homestead on which it sits remains a central part of the Hinchliff's 1,400 acre wheat and cattle operation. The Columbia County CowBelles have designated the Hinchliff place a Century Farm as Wilber's grandfather first broke soil in the Turner area in 1872. THe row of trees on the hill behind the house are part of a windbreak planted when the house was built.

It's been well over a hundred years since Wilber Hinchliff's grandfather first broke soil in the Turner area and that original homestead still constitutes a big chunk of the family farm today.

Columbia County CowBelles are honoring farms that have been in the same family for over 100 years and the Hinchliff wheat and pasture operation is one of the first designated by the group.

Hinchliff's grandfather, James A. Anderson came west from Pennsylvania and settled in Columbia County in 1872. Here his duties as captain of the wagon train ended and many long days in the saddle gave way to many long days with the old "footburner" plow.

Anderson's homestead and timber culture consisted of 500 acres of farm land and about 300 acres of pasture. He continued to farm the land up to t of his death when it was turned over to his d Myrtle and her husband Thompson Hinchliff

The family farm lasted through the hard t the mid-1890's and the depression of the '3 continued to grow. In 1949 Wilber took respo of the operation at the time of his father's de today the Hinchliff farm covers 1,400 acres of f with several hundred acres more in pastur principal crop is wheat with cattle round operation out.

Helping Hinchliff on the farm today is the e his four sons, John who shared with his fat honor of Cattleman of the Year in 1970. Their Louise and Bertha are both members CowBelles.

John Hinchliff

John Thompson Hinchliff, 62, of 37909 Highway 12 died March 2, 1999, at the Jake Hill Farm, north of Dayton.

The funeral was at the Hubbard-Rogg Chapel at 2 p.m. Saturday with the Rev., Steve Edwards officiating. Burial with military honors were in the family plot at Dayton City Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Columbia County Fire District or Ambulance Fund, Pheasants Forever Blue Mountain Chapter or a charity of the donor's choice.

Mr. Hinchliff was born Dec. 27, 1936, in Dayton to Wilbur and Louise Jackson Hinchliff. He attended local schools and graduated in 1956 from Dayton High School.

He worked on the Harvey and Hallie Fletcher farm until joining the U.S. Army in 1960. He served in Korea and in the honor guard in Washington, D.C.

He returned to Dayton after his discharge and began his lifelong career in farming. He lived on the Willow Creek Farm of his parents. On Aug. 25, 1962, he married Bertha Hov in Lewiston.

Mr. Hinchliff was a member and past president of the Columbia County Farm Bureau and state membership chair. He, his wife and his parents were named 1970 Cattlemen of the Year and they received the Conservation District's Wildlife Farm of the Year. He was a member of the Cattlemen's Association. He was current board member of the Civil Service and Soldiers and Sailors Relief committees, president of the Pheasants Forever Blue Mountain Chapter and a member of the American Legion, Eagles and Elks. He was a past president and member of the Sheriffs Posse.

He enjoyed fishing, hunting, taxidermy and raising game birds.

Survivors include his wife, at home; and three brothers, Dick Hinchliff of Denver, Jim Hinchliff of Weston and Jack Hinchliff of Walla Walla.

ELIZABETH CLINESMITH

Elizabeth Hinchliffe was born at Colt's Knoll End, Yorkshire, West Riding, England, on February 9, 1875. At the age of four months she came to the United States with her parents, Charles and Rachel Hinchliffe, and lived for a few years consecutively in Wisconsin and Nebraska, after which time the family removed to the state of Washington and settled on a homestead in the Blue mountains near Waitsburg, where Elizabeth grew to womanhood.

On March 21, 1895, she was married at Fresno, California, to Cassius Clay Clinesmith, with whom she lived until his death on February 15, 1944. Six children were born to this union, of whom four survive.

In the year 1900 Elizabeth, together with her husband and three

66 Years of Wedded Life

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hixson Celebrate Event With Children and Friends—In County 56 Years.

Sunday, May 6, marked the sixty-sixth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Hixson, highly esteemed pioneers of Columbia county, who have lived continuously on their farm on the Patit, some six miles above Dayton, with the exception of one year, since their arrival in Columbia county, in 1878, 56 years ago, the event being celebrated at the community rooms of the Congregational church, which had been secured for the purpose, with more than one hundred person, relatives and friends, present.

Dinner was served at noon, with all present assembled around the tables, which were loaded with an abundance of food, and were profusely decorated with spring flowers. Bertle Hixson, of Grandview, Washington, a son, was master of ceremonies. A short talk, complimenting the aged couple, was made by Rev. W. C. Gilmore. The wedding march was played by Thelma Kerby, a great-grandchild. Mrs. Hixson cut the huge wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Hixson were presented with many beautiful and useful gifts from their children and friends.

Mr. Hixson was born at Chatanooga, Tennessee, in 1849, and Mrs. Hixson was born in Missouri in 1851. Both came to the Pacific coast in their early years and they were married in California, May 4, 1868 and came to Columbia county ten years later. They have five children, Mrs. Etta J. Kerby, Peck, Idaho; Bertle Hixson, Grandview, Washington; Mrs. Lizzie Hutchens and Mrs. Lulu Crall, Dayton and Mrs. May Gallagher, Los Angeles. All but Mrs. Gallagher were here for the anniversary, as were 12 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Despite their advanced ages, both Mr. and Mrs. Hixson are in good health and thoroughly enjoyed the day, visiting with their children and their friends.

Following is the list of those present, as nearly complete as could be secured:

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reed, Elmer Hatley, Theresa Hatley, Edgar Barclay and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson, Dayton; Charles Kerby and family, Lewiston, John Lamb and family, Dixie, B. N. Bessett, Dayton, D. M. Gamon and family, Dayton, Grant Armstrong and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunning, Rosalie Woodward, Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bowman, Walla Walla; Harry Kennedy and family, Dayton; E. N. Kerby and family, Peck, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Bertle Hixson, Grandview; Mrs. Artie Stedman; George Hixson and family, Gertrude O'Connor, Dayton; Mrs. Melvin Crall and family, Red Decker, George Hutchens and family, Dayton; Veretta Greer, Cicil Williams, Rev. W. C. Gilmore and Mrs. Gilmore, Dayton; A. M. Melcum, Asotin, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hatley and family, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hatley, W. M. Kindall and family, Dayton; Mrs. John Woods, Walla Walla, Dale Barr, Richard Hubbard, Patty Blessinger, Charles Bramlett and family, Henry Patrick, Rolla Lambert and family, Mrs. Truman Talbott, Mrs. Frank Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Quinn, George Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Startin, Dayton; L. L. Carlson and family, Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Hixon Observe 68th Wedding Anniversary

7 May 1936

A large group of relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Hixson dropped in at their home on the Patit last Sunday to surprise them on the occasion of their 68th wedding anniversary. An elaborate dinner was served at mid-day, and the afternoon was spent in visiting, with numerous other friends dropping in to offer congratulations and good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hixson were married May 4, 1868, and came here from California more than 60 years ago. They have spent most of their married life in their present home on the Patit.

Among those here from Idaho for the anniversary dinner were Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Kirby and children, Charles, Veta, Freda and Fay; Thelma Kirby, Nadine Creer and L. L. Carlson.

Columbia county relatives and friends present were Mrs. Joe Startin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson, Mrs. George Goodwin, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dunning and granddaughter, Rosalie Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchins, Dean Hutchins, Mrs. Dale Barr and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Crall and sons, Kennard and Cleon, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Startin and daughter, Charlotte, and Mr. and Mrs. George Courtney.

Among those calling during the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hatley, Mrs. Edgar Barclay and daughter, Evelyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Williams.

Anniversary

The 69th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hixson was celebrated at their home on the Patit Sunday, May 2. Dinner was served at noon, cafeteria style. The six oldest people were seated at one table. Everyone brought something good to eat. There were 52 present.

The outstanding event was the five generations picture taken. (The pictures will appear later.)

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Newt Kerby of Clarkston; Charlie Kirby and five children, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Kirby and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pack and baby, all of Lewiston. Mr. and Mrs. Greer and two girls of Peck, Idaho. John McGollaway of Orofino, Idaho. Mr. and Mrs. Bertie Hixson and Mrs. Jessie Christie of Grandview. Mr. and Mrs. John Walker and two children of Walla Walla. George Hixson and daughters of Roseburg, Oregon.

Those from Dayton were Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchens and son, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Craul and son, Mrs. Loleta Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Reed, Mrs. Retta Swanson, Mrs. R. Hatley, Miss Dorothy Hutchens, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dunning and granddaughter, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Barr and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. George Goodwin.

Mrs. Hixson will soon be 84 years old. She cooks their meals and takes care of the childens and Mr. Hixson is 87. He has been farming this spring; does the milking and separating.

Everyone had a good time and hoped they would all be back next year.

Will Leave Farm After 57 Years; 70th Anniversary

After spending 57 years on a Columbia county farm, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hixson will come to Dayton to spend the remainder of their lives. The farm on the Patit was recently sold to Louis Spalinger. The place included 500 acres of timber and pasture land and some wheat land. The Hixsons this month celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary the story of which appears on Page 2.

Hixsons Observe 70th Wedding Anniversary

Between 50 and 60 relatives and old friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Hixson, gathered at their home on the Patit Wednesday, May 4, to celebrate with them their 70th wedding anniversary.

For several years the Hixsons have been observing their anniversaries with neighborhood dinners, and this was the last occasion of the kind to be held at the farm which was their home for 57 years. It was sold a short time ago, and they have bought a home in town where they will move the first of June.

A basket dinner was served at midday, and it was of the kind for which the homes of this county are famous. A beautifully decorated anniversary cake was served at the conclusion of the banquet.

Relatives and friends were present from Clarkston, Lewiston, Moscow, Orofino, Walla Walla and other towns as well as from Dayton and all parts of Columbia county. Mr. and Mrs. Hixson were the recipients of many attractive greeting cards, flowers and appropriate gifts.

The Hixson's have had a long and interesting life together. They have reared their family on the homestead which they took up soon after they came to this country and it now includes five generations of substantial citizens and promising children.

Mr. Hixson, who is in his 89th year, was born at Chattanoga, Tennessee, September 20, 1849, and moved to Missouri in infancy. He went to California with his parents in 1852 and first came north in 1863. He made the trip to The Dalles in charge of a band of horses, and came on up to Umatilla before he returned to California where he was married in Sonoma county to Sarah Lamb in 1868. Mrs. Hixson was born in Missouri July 14, 1853, and went to California with her parents when not yet a year old.

Mr. and Mrs. Hixson came to Walla Walla in 1878 and moved to a farm on the Whetstone soon afterwards. In 1881 they took up the homestead on the Patit which has since been their home. It now comprises 500 acres, and Mr. Hixson has devoted his life to the breeding of fine cattle, to the management of his timber and pasture lands and to wheat growing. At the time he decided to retire, he was milking a herd of dairy cattle, and only last week cultivated his alfalfa ground with the same energy and skill he employed throughout his long and useful life as a farmer.

His place is transversed by the old Nez Perce Indian trail, and in the early days he had much experience with Indians but never found himself in any serious difficulties with them. His first home was a log cabin, but that was later replaced by a house of lumber sawed at the mill of Dittemore and Miller, where he was employed during one period of his life. He is possessed of a plendid memory, and relates many interesting experiences of early life in this community.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hixson are extremely well preserved for their years. They are both keen and alert, have many friends in the community, and are well fitted to enjoy this period of rest and relaxation possible for them at the end of their years of activity.

They have one son, Bertle Hixson, Yakima, and four daughters: Mrs. George Hutchens, and Mrs. M. J. Crall, Dayton; Mrs. Newt Kirby, Clarkston, and Mrs. May Gallagher, Los Angeles. Another daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Williams, passed away about 15 years ago.

Josiah Hixson

Josiah Hixson, who would have been 97 had he lived until September 21, died at his home at 509 East Tremont St. Monday at 2:20 after a long period of declining health. Funeral services were held from the Rogg & Watson chapel Wednesday at 2:30 p.m., with the Rev. Earle C. Miller of the Christian church officiating, and burial was made at the family plot in the Dayton Cemetery.

Born in Chatanooga, Tennessee September 21, 1849, he came to this part of the country 65 years ago, and for many years farmed on the Patit. The Hixsons celebrated their golden wedding and subsequent anniversaries on this farm and moved to town only a few years before the death of Mrs. Hixson February 18, 1941.

Surviving are a son, Bertle Hixson, Olympia; three daughters, Mrs. Leah Mae Gallaher, Los Angeles, Mrs. Lizzie Hutchens and Mrs. Lulu Crall, Dayton; a half brother, George Hixson and a half sister, Mrs. Retta Swanson, Dayton; 21 grandchildren, 39 great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.
