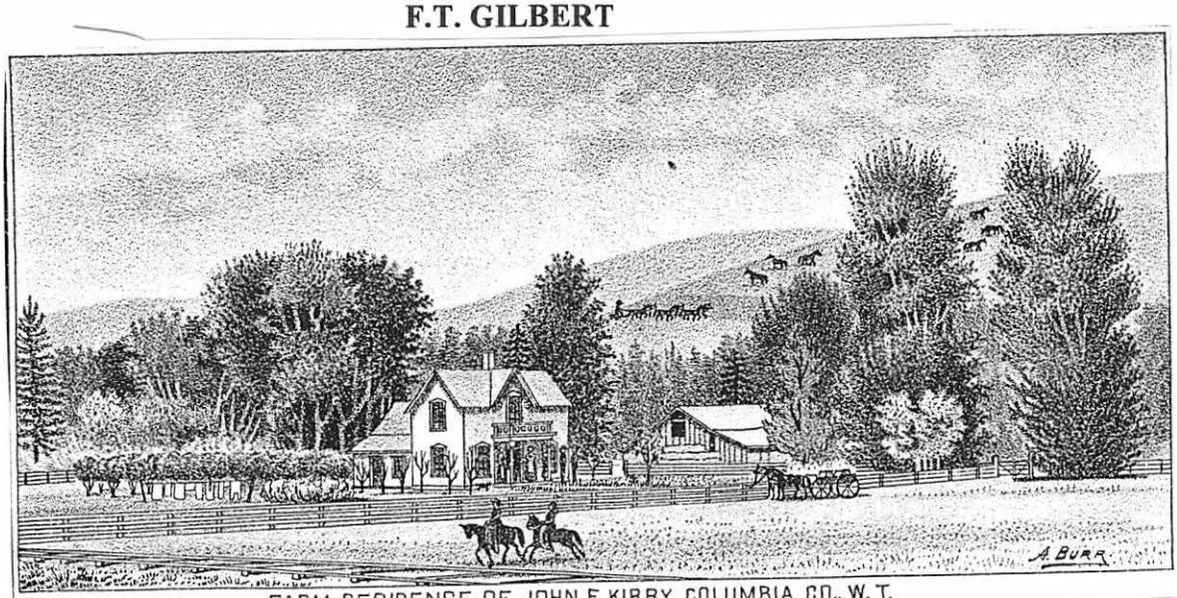
F.T. GILBERT



FARM RESIDENCE OF JOHN F. KIRBY, COLUMBIA CO., W. T.

JOHN F. KIRBY was born in Jennings county, Indiana, September 1, 1840. His parents were David and Frankie (Brown) Kirby. In 1851 he started overland with his uncle, stopping for the winter in Missouri and arriving in Oregon in 1852. They settled in Washington county, where he lived until 1856, when he went to work on a farm for wages. July 14, 1859, he was married in Yamhill county to Mary H. Teel, a native of Illinois. She is a daughter of Joseph and Mary S. (Alexander), Teel and came to Oregon in 1853. In March, 1860, he took a land claim five miles south-east of Walla Walla, and lived there until 1877. He then sold out and bought his present ranch on the Touchet, five miles below Dayton. It contains 564 acres of deeded land and 480 acres of railroad land. He is engaged chiefly in grain farming and raising horses. Mr. Kirby is one of those energetic farmers who have been eminently successful in their struggles with the trials of pioneer life. A view of his comfortable home is presented on another page. He has a family of three daughters: Anna, born February 22, 1863; Eva, March 12, 1865; Abby, March 14, 1867.

JOHN F. KIRBY, a prominent citizen of Columbia county, now retired from active business, has passed more than a quarter of a century in the Evergreen State. Having been a successful farmer for a number of years, about eight years ago he retired to his beautiful home at Huntsville, and is yet in the prime of life, being but fifty-three years of age.

He was born in Jennings county, Indiana, September 1, 1840, the youngest of five children born in the family of David and Eliza (Brown) Kirby. The parents were natives of Kentucky, descending from old and influential families of that State. The mother died when the subject of this sketch was a child, and his father remarried; and consequently the boy began the battles of life for himself at a premature age. In 1852 he crossed the plains to Washington county, Oregon, where he spent the first eight years of his life on the Pacific coast. July 13, 1859, in Yam Hill county, Oregon, he married Miss Mary Teel, an Oregon pioneer of 1853, and now deceased. They had six children, three of whom are yet living, namely: Mary A., now Mrs. T. B. Bateman; Frances, now the wife of James H. Fudge; and Abbie L., now Mrs. O. W. Pollard; two sons and a daughter are deceased.

Mr. Kirby located in Columbia county, Washington, in 1860. His home property consists of sixteen acres, two acres of which are devoted to a variety of fruits. In his political views Mr. Kirby is a Republican, and he takes an active interest in public affairs. For two years he was County Commissioner, and he has represented his party at both county and State conventions. He is now a member of the County Central Committee. He also takes an active interest in educational and other public enterprises, having the welfare of the community at heart. He belongs to Waitsburg Lodge, No. 5, I. O. O. F.

KIRBY, WILLIAM A., of Waitsburg, Wash., was born in Indiana in 1852. His father, David Kirby, was a Kentucky farmer, his mother being a native of Indiana. Third in a family of seven children, his rudimentary education was obtained in the public schools of his district, but he was in reality almost self-educated, like many others of his class, who achieve success where men of larger acquirements have most lamentably failed. In 1862 he went to Iowa and engaged for six years in farming. He next became a railroad engineer, a calling his failing health did not permit him to continue. He was married in 1872 to Miss Emma Teel, a native of Oregon. They have two children. Ella, the elder, sustains an enviable reputation as a public-school teacher in Enterprise, while Rosa, the younger, is still attending to her studies. Mr. Kirby is prosperously placed as regards worldly possessions, owning his pretty city home and other valuable realty. He is a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and a Republican in his political faith. John was born 1 September 1840 at Jennings County, Indiana, the son of David Joel Kirby and his wife Elizabeth Brown who was called "Frankie" by her family. Elizabeth died, and David was married second to Nancy Clarissa Boswell in 1842.

Young John missed his mother and had difficulty adjusting to his step-mother. Then more children were born into the family which did not make John happy.

Pg 287

In 1852 while John was brooding over the loss of his mother, he was playing barefooted in his yard. It was a very warm day so he was clothed only in a home-spun tow-shirt that came almost to his knees. As he played he noticed a wagon train approaching. It was a wagon train headed for Oregon, and the people were busy guiding the horses as they passed John Kirby's home. Plans quickly formed in his mind. He just had to get away and here was his perfect chance. He would just sneak quickly and quietly into the back of one of these wagons and hide. He did just that and snuggled in among all the boxes of whatever people were taking with them when they knew there was no turning back. He was quite snug in his hiding place.

Emma Armenta Teel 1856-1956

Emma Armenta Teel #TE-W6-1-3-7-8-10-10 was born 13 June 1855 at McMinneville, Yamhill County, Oregon Territory, the daughter of Joseph Teel and his wife Mary Stetson Alexander. When she was three years old, her family moved east from Yamhill County over the Oregon Trail and up the Columbia River to a new home about nine miles southeast of Walla Walla in Washington Territory which later was named the Lone Pine Ranch.

When Emma was about sixteen years old she saw a man who came to the Teel ranch to borrow a "whiffle tree." Right away Emma knew that he was her man. His name was William Amber Kirby

Pg 311

Later while Emma was working in Umatilla County, Oregon just across the boundary line between Oregon and Washington, her father, Joseph Teel, went there to give his permissio N for Emma to marry the good looking William Amber Kirby, in both Umatilla County and i N the State of Oregon. Emma and William were married on 20 November 1872 in the Teel home on Lone Pine Ranch by Rev. John L. Reser, MG. This was the same day that Rev. Reser married Emma's brother, Willis Teel and Rebecca Sutton, at the near by home of Joh N F. Kirby.

When William and Emma Kirby celebrated their 50th Anniversary, they were thrilled to receive greetings from Rev. Reser's granddaughter. Rev. Reser had bought The Lone Pine Ranch.

Pg 3 12

William and Emma rented a farm to start with, then bought farms later, always living around the Walla Walla, Waitsburg, Covello and Sunnyside areas. At one time they owned a store in Covello near Dayton where her sister Almira lived. William Kirby was a farmer and also worked as an engineer and carpenter.

William Kirby, who was born 31 December 1852 in Ripley County, Indiana, was the son of David Joel Kirby and his second wife Nancy Clarissa Boswell and a half brother of John Francis Kirby. William died at the age of 74 on 27 March 1927 at the home of his daughter, Vetter. He was buried in Sunnyside, Washington.

Emma Armenta (Teel) Kirby continued living in Sunnyside, after William's death. On Mother's Day 1956, she received a gift from KIMA-TV as she was the oldest mother in reach of that station. Later she resided in Upton Home in Mabton near Sunnyside. In spite of her age Emma kept up with styles and progress, but admitted sun suits were not for her. Emma never missed an election even when she was unable to go vote; the registrar brought the registration books and ballot to her. That was before one could vote absentee by mail. Emma was proud that she always supported the community and school.

When Emma was celebrating her 100th birthday, nurses at the Upton Nursing Home and her many friends commented that she looked and acted like a woman twenty years younger than the century mark. Emma took a keen interest in life and managed to bring joy and happiness into the lives of people around her. She had a quick wit and loved people. Her nurses at the home said "To know her is to lover her."

Emma kept busy making quilts, pot-holders and doing other handiwork. She wrote to her niece, Cora (Teel) Beieler, asking for quilt pieces. Cora was surprised later to receive a beautifully handmade quilt her Aunt Emma Kirby had made from those pieces she had sent. Just a short time before her 101st birthday, Emma's sight began to make "close work" difficult, and she complained that her hands were not as steady. She was mentally alert even to the end.

Emma Armenta (Teel) Kirby died 9 December 1956 at the Upton Nursing Home at Mabton, Washington. She was the last of the children of Joseph and Mary Teel to pass on. Funeral services were held at the Chapel of Walter C. Ball and Sons in Sunnyside and she was laid to rest beside her husband in the cemetery in Sunnyside, Washington.

"Observe Notable Anniversaries)

"Couple Attend Anniversary of their Daughter"

It is not often that a couple lives to celebrate their 67½ wedding anniversary, nor to attend the golden wedding of a daughter. Columbia County residents can claim this distinction), & the events were gloriously observed at a Community picnic at the state park Sunday.

Mr & Mrs. Josiah Hixon, old-time residents of the Potlatch were married 67 years ago in May, & they attended the golden wedding anniversary of their son-in-law & daughter, Mr & Mrs. Newt Kirby of Peck, Idaho, Sunday. More than 100 people gathered to honor the Anniversary group, & a served basket dinner on the park lawn. Among those who made short talks congratulating the couples were H. F. Kennedy of this city, L. Carlson of Lewiston, & Charles Kirby, who was master of ceremonies.

The Hixons have made this their home throughout the greater part of their married life, & the Kirbys lived here until 20 years ago. The Kirbys, who now live at Peck, Idaho, returned for the week-end, & the sisters & brothers of Mrs. Kirby, & all the Kirby children & grandchildren were here.

D. M. Kirby.

D. M. Kirby a pioneer and respected farmer of this county, died at his home east of this city, Tuesday, May 22. Mr. Kirby was aged 66 years, four months and four days.

Mr. Kirby has been suffering for some time with a blood-poisoned arm. It became necessary as a last resort to save his life to amputate his arm, but the shock was too great for the old gentleman's condition to stand, and death soon relieved his sufferings.

The funeral occurred from the family residence Thursday afternoon and the remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of friends.

A Bad Arm.

The disease from which D. M. Kirby suffered so long and patiently was cellulitis of the arm. Drs. MacLachlan advised amputation in the beginning, but to this Mr. Kirby objected. At times the arm would show improvement under treatment, but it finally became so painful each time it was dressed that Mr. Kirby wanted it amputated. The operation was performed by Drs. J. W. and J. A. MacLachlan, astisted by Miss Kirby, a recent medical graduate of Chicago, and daughter of Mr. D. M. Kirby.

Mrs. Matilda Kerby Shopshire was born on May 30, 1868, at Eugene, Oregon, after her parents had crossed the plains in a covered wagon with other pioneers. After a long and fruitful life, she passed to her rest at College Place, Washington, on May 21, 1958, at the age of 89.

As a young girl she came to Dayton, Washington and lived there until her marriage in 1886 to Lee Shopshire. The young couple established their home at Hooper, Washington, where they operated a stock ranch.

Mrs. Shopshire was a woman of keen intellect who early recognized the importance of education for her own family and for the community. She was instrumental in getting the first school started in the community where she lived, and also started the first Sunday school there. She loved music, and took into her home for several months a prominent music teacher so that her children might have the advantage of music lessons. The Shopshire ranch was the essence of hospitality. Upon coming down to breakfast in the morning the children would frequently find half a dozen visitors at the breakfast table. In a community where trained medical help was scarce, Mrs. Shopshire was one to whom the neighbors came when they were sick or in trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. Shopshire were privileged to enjoy life together for 45 years, until Mr. Shopshire passed away in 1931. Twenty-three years ago Mrs. Shopshire moved to College Place, Washington, where she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Aplington. During the many years Mrs. Shopshire lived in College Place, she endeared herself to the entire community. For the past several years she had poor health, but was comforted by the loving care, which was given her by members of her family and friends.

Mrs. Shopshire was a faithful member of the Seventh-day Adventist church for many years, and found supreme joy in the promises of Christ. She rests in the hope of life anew at His soon appearing.

She is survived by: four daughters, Mrs. Kenneth (Marguerite) Aplington of College Place, Washington, Mrs. Clyde (Goldie) Cramlett of Seattle, Washington, Mrs. P.C. (Gladys) Knapp of Auburn, Washington, and Mrs. N.W. (Verlie) Royer of Pilot Rock, Oregon; three sons, Roy Shopshire of Coulter, Oregon, Walter Scott Shopshire of Santa Ana, California, and Morgan K. Shopshire of Chula Vista, California; seventeen grandchildren, forty-six great grandchildren, and one great-great grandchild.

GIBSON, Sarah Etta Kerby 9/18/26 (Kerby) (F); [2] Walla Walla, WA; [3] 1874; [5] Allopath; [8] WA, 1917; [9] Walla Walla, WA, May 21, 1917; [11] American Medical Missionary College, Battle Creek, Michigan & Chicago, 1990, (G); [14] 87:1576; [16] surgery, complications.
NOTE: Her death date is listed as 18 Sep 1926, but I found her in the Wash. Death Indx: certif. #156, Sarah Gibson (F, 51) Walla Walla City, 17 Sep 1926.

In searching further I found she was NOT the first female doctor to practice in Washington State, but she appears to have been the first woman doctor in Walla Walla County. In Saddlebags to Scanners: The First 100yrs of Medicine in Wash. State, ed. Nancy Rockafellar & James W. Haviland, 1989, pg287, Walla Walla County:
"Women physicians in the area include Dr. Laura Miller, who practiced in College Place and Dr. Genevieve Joy who practiced in Walla Walla in the early 1950's. Dr. Anita Lenz was the first emergency room doctor in 1960. In earlier days, Dr. Sarah Gibson began practice in 1917, Dr. Ellen Johnson practiced anesthesiology from 1920-26, and Dr. Rose Smith worked at the Veteran's Hospital in 1929."

I need to do more research, since she graduated in 1900 but didn't start practicing in Walla Walla until 1917. Had she worked anywhere prior to Walla Walla? I discovered in the proceeding census that their children were born in WA (1906), Idaho (1908), and Oregon (1912). Was she a physician in those locations? Why did they move so frequently in such short periods of time?

D. M. Kirby.

D. M. Kirby a pioneer and respected farmer of this county, died at his home east of this city, Tuesday, May 22. Mr. Kirby was aged 66 years, four months and four days.

Mr. Kirby has been suffering for some time with a blood-poisoned arm. It became necessary as a last resort to save his life to amputate his arm, but the shock was too great for the old gentleman's condition to stand, and death soon relieved his sufferings.

The funeral occurred from the family residence Thursday afternoon and the remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of friends.

A Bad Arm.

The disease from which D. M. Kirby suffered so long and patiently was cellulitis of the arm. Drs. MacLachlan advised amputation in the beginning, but to this Mr. Kirby objected. At times the arm would show improvement under treatment, but it finally became so painful each time it was dressed that Mr. Kirby wanted it amputated. The operation was performed by Drs. J. W. and J. A. MacLachlan, astisted by Miss Kirby, a recent medical graduate of Chicago, and daughter of Mr. D. M. Kirby.

Mrs. Bateman, 89, Spent Life Here

Mrs. Mary Ann Bateman, 89, resident of Dayton for many years, died Friday afternoon at a local hospital.

Mrs. Bateman was born February 22, 1863, one of the first white children born in Walla Walla. Her parents, John and Mary Kirby, had come to Walla Walla on their wedding trip in 1861 and taken up a homestead there. When she was about 14, she and her parents moved to Columbia county and settled on land which is now part of the Dumas place. She attended a private school in Dayton and was to call Dayton home for most of the rest of her life.

On November 11, 1880, she was married to P. B. Bateman, a marriage which lasted for more than 64 years until his death in April, 1945.

She was the mother of seven children, five of whom preceded her in death. Surviving are two sons, Elmer of Dayton, and Harry of Walla Walla, and two grandchildren whom she raised, Gwen Jordan of Dayton and Jack Bateman of Seattle; nine other grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

During her lifetime she made literally hundreds of hand-pieced quilts and braided rugs, all of which she gave away to her family and friends. During her later years, she resumed button collecting, a hobby which she had started as a girl, and at the time of her death she had more than 6000 buttons in her collection.

She was a member of the Degree of Honor lodge and the Neighbors of Woodcraft, both of Waitsburg.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon from the Hubbard and Rogg chapel. Rev. R. W. Maulden of the Methodist church officiated and interment followed at the family plot in the Odd Fellows cemetery in Waitsburg.

Since contracting the disease which caused his death he has traveled extensively in California and other southern climates in the hope of recovering his health, but found no relief. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. P. B. Bateman, to mourn his death.

The body was shipped to Waitsburg on Monday morning where the funeral services were held in the Methodist church. Interment was in the Waitsburg cemetery and the Odd Fellows' lodge, of which Mr. Kirby was a member for a number of years, had charge of the ceremony at the grave.

Observe Notable Anniversaries

Couple Attend Anniversary of Their Daughter

It is not often that a couple lives to celebrated their 67th wedding anniversary nor to attend the golden wedding of a daughter. Columbia county residents can claim this distinction, and the events were gloriously observed at a community picnic at the state park Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Hixon, old-time residents of the Patit, were married 67 years ago in May, and they attended the golden wedding anniversary of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Newt Kirby of Peck, Idaho, Sunday. The affair was also a birthday party for Bertie Hixon of Grandview, son of the former couple.

More than 100 people gathered to honor the anniversary group, and a served a basket dinner on the park lawn. Ice cream and coffee were served by the Dayton relatives of the family, entertainment was provided by the visitors, and numerous interesting picture of different groups were taken. Among those who made short talks congratulating the couples were H. F. Kennedy of this city, L. Carlson of Lewiston, and Charles Kirby, who was master of ceremonies.

The Hixons have made this their home throughout the greater part of their married life, and the Kirbys lived here until 20 years ago. The Kirbys, who now live at Peck, Idaho, returned for the week-end, and the sisters and brothers of Mrs. Kirby, and all the Kirby children and grandchildren were here. Among the members of the Kirby family in the party were Mr. and Mrs. Pink Greer, Peck, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Lenes Carlson, Lewiston; Claire Kirby, Peck, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. Fay Kirby, Lewiston; Mrs. Warren Linebaugh, Lapwai; and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirby, Lewiston. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Hixon in attendance were Bertie Hixon, Grandview; Mrs. George Hutchens and Mrs. M. J. Crall, Dayton, and Mrs. Newt Kirby, Peck, Idaho. Another daughter, Mrs. Lela Gallaher, Los Angeles, was unable to be present.

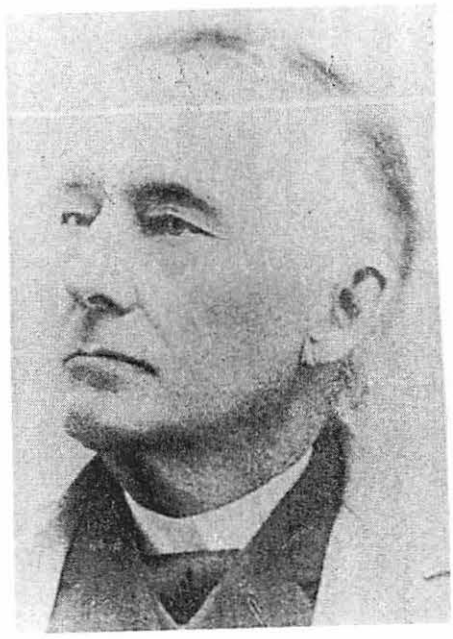
Mary J. Day Kimball



Willaim Forrest Kimball

Monday evening, May 10, [illegible] Kimball, aged 53 years.

Mrs. Kimball was born in Burke's Gardens, Tazwell county, Va., in 1833. She went to Galena in 1850, where her brother, Dr. J. H. Day, was practicing medicine; thence she went to St. Paul in '51, and shortly after, removed with her mother to Decorah, Iowa, where she married W. F. Kimball. Mr. Kimball engaged in the merchandise business for a time at St. Louis and afterwards, during the war times, at Memphis, Tenn. He removed with his family to Walla Walla in 1872 or '73, where they have since resided.

Deceased was a woman of fine presence and strong character, and many qualities tending to make her beloved. She had great kindness of heart and was ever active in benificent deeds for others. She was a prominent member of the Ladies' Relief society, and for a number of years its president. Her death was caused by nervous exhaustion. For some time previous to her demise she could take no nourishment, and she eventually lost full sense of feeling, in which state she died.

She leaves one sister, Mrs. Rufus Newland, of Dayton, W. T., and five brothers, four of whom, Jessee N., and Henry Day, of Dayton, Dr. J. H. Day, of this place, and Nicholas Day, of Oregon, are among the pioneers of the coast; and the remaining brother, Dr. David Day, of St. Paul, is one of the leading public men and physicians of Minnesota, and was for some time postmaster at St. Paul.

The funeral of Mrs. Kimball will take place from the family residence on Second street, to-morrow at 2 o'clock p. m.
