OSCAR E. KING.

Farming interests in Columbia county find a worthy representative in Oscar E. King, a well known agriculturist who owns and cultivates a valuable property on section 9, township 11 north, range 40 east. He was born on the farm where he now resides, February 15, 1871, his parents being William B. and Elizabeth (Cantonwine) King, the former a native of Indiana, while the latter was born in Iowa. The father crossed the plains to the Pacific coast as a young man, making his way to California in 1852. There he was employed for a time in survey work and subsequently he conducted the Woodville House, a well known hostelry situated on the Rabbit Creek road, about forty miles from Marysville, California. In 1855 he returned to the east by way of the Isthmus route, but the lure of the west was upon him and again by way of the Isthmus route he made his way to the Pacific coast. In those days hay was worth eighty dollars per ton and Mr. King brought with him six hundred pounds of Hungarian grass seed, expecting to make a small fortune in the growing of hay. The following season, however was one of drought and, failing to raise a crop, his funds were exhausted in the venture and his season's work amounted to naught. In 1862 he came to Walla Walla county, arriving in the city of Walla Walla on the 4th of July. He then went up into the Idaho mines, but not meeting with success, he retracted his steps and spent the winter in Oregon. In the spring of 1863 he again came to Walla Walla and the following spring took a sub-contract under Captain Mullen to carry the mail from Walla Walla to Colville. He took the mail on horseback and remained as mail carrier for two years and nine months. His employer, Captain Mullen, becoming involved in financial difficulties, Mr. King was unable to collect a cent for his services for the entire period. Later he secured the mail contract direct from the government and operated a stage line from Walla Walla to Lewiston for four years. In 1867 he turned his attention to agricultural pursuits, purchasing his farm on the Tucanon river in Columbia county, and in 1868 he settled upon his land, while at the same time he continued to operate his stage line with hired help. He was thus closely and prominently associated with the work of early development and improvement in this section of the northwest. His wife had crossed the plains with her parents in 1863, the family having as their outfit both ox and mule teams. Mrs. King was then a young girl in her teens and drove the mule team throughout the entire journey across the plains. The Cantonwine family spent the winter of 1863-4 in the Willamette valley of Oregon and in the spring of the latter year came to Washington, where they took up a homestead near the present site of Dixie, and later Mr. Cantonwine built the first hotel in Waitsburg, his daughter, Mrs. King, acting as cook for the few boarders who patronized the house in that early period. After locating on his farm William B. King took up a homestead of one hundred and sixty acres adjoining his original place and in subsequent years he and his sons in partnership bought other farm lands until their holdings approximated two thousand acres. Mr. King was thus actively, prominently and successfully identified with the agricultural development of the county until his death, which occurred April 12, 1911. His widow survived him for but a brief period, passing away on the 11th of March, 1912. In their family were four sons and three daughters who are yet living, as follows: Harry and Edwin S., well known farmers of Columbia county, Washington; Oscar E., of this review; Silas L., a resident of Pomeroy, Washington; Zorah I., who is the widow of R. A. Jackson and resides in Dayton; Alice, who gave her hand in marriage to Henry Delaney, a farmer of Columbia county; and Frankie G., the wife of A. P. Cahill, who is a banker of Dayton, Washington.

Oscar E. King pursued his early education in the country schools and supplemented it by a business course in the Portland Business College. After reaching adult age he joined his brothers and his father in their extensive farming operations, and following the father's death the sons continued to cooperate in their farming enterprises until 1915, when the partnership was dissolved and a division of their holdings was made. Oscar E. King now owns five hundred and fifty-six acres of valuable land and is one of the substantial farmers of the Tucanon valley. His business affairs have been carefully managed and directed and his unfaltering enterprise and unremitting diligence have brought to him a substantial measure of success. In his political views he is an earnest republican but has never been an office seeker, and he is widely known as one of the influential citizens of Columbia county.

HISTORY OF THE KING FAMILY AS I REMEMBER

Soon after the stage route began from Walla Walla to Lewiston, Idaho, William King, a hot-headed Irishman, was hired as stage driver. That meant driving six horses on a certain section of the route. I don't believe anyone was expected to drive the entire 100 mile route between the two cities. There were no roads in those days. They just tried to stay on fairly level ground so that the coach would not tip over, going up hill and down wherever the horses could pull the load. Creeks had to be forded as there were no bridges, and in high water periods this was risky business. The route came through Walla Walla, Dixie, Waitsburg and Dayton. It was in Dixie where Mr. King became acquainted with the Cantenwine girl. They were married and homesteaded on the Tucannon stage crossing, where they started one of the first farms on the river. Their children included four boys and three girls. They were Harry, Oscar, Edward, Silas, Zorah, Frankie and Alice. Zorah, being the oldest girl, married my uncle, Richard Jackson, when she was sixteen. The other King children stayed on the ranch for the greatest part of their lives, each having homesteads of 160 acres, helping to build up a large farm, originated by their mother and father.

My mother's first year in Washington she was hired to teach three or four of the King children who were old enough to begin school. She lived at the King house and conducted a private school. After the Dry Hollow school house was built, the King children walked up the steep "Jackson Grade" and down to our school, which was a strenuous two mile walk.

By the year 1885 the railroad had been built to Dayton and on to Starbuck and continued on to Pomeroy two years later. This made the stagecoach obsolete. The horses which had been used to pull the stages were either sold or given away, making the stagecoach a thing of the past. The King family got a few of the horses which gave them a start in a good, tough breed to be used for driving or riding.

The boys were big enough to help in the farming business and they soon planted fifteen acres into orchard with early apple trees, pears, prunes and followed with watermelons. At one time the crop was forty acres. The watermelons were loaded into wagons after first piling two feet of straw in the bottom of the beds. Then they were hauled into Dayton, Starbuck and Pomeroy. With four horses to pull the load, they were off on their journey by 4:30 in the morning to one town or another.

About that time the racoons were thick on the creek, and many coyotes, so the King boys acquired a pack of hounds. The dogs would tear off after the scent of a coyote with the boys, on their saddle horses, in hot pursuit.

It must have been twenty five years after the first King daughter was married before another of the children had time to consider matrimony. The others were married in later life with the exception of Oscar who remained an old bachelor. Alice King Delaney was the last survivor of the large family, passing away in the early 1960's. The Kings were not a prolific family except for Zora, who with her husband, Richard Jackson, had an even dozen children. They were Nellie, Clara, Laura, Ben, Arthur, Walter, Ralph, Richard, Townsend, McKinley, Robert and Lucy.

Like many of the old homesteads which represented a lifes work of blood, sweat and tears, it is no more. The old dilapidated King house burned to the ground, taking the huge old fir tree and the oak trees around the house with it. All the land is now in other hands and the King family is now only a memory in the hearts of those who remember the long-ago past. At this writing, the Tucannon has no one living from Marengo to the old Henry Jones place seven miles west.

Richard was a strong young man. I have heard my father say that when he arrived in this territory at the age of twenty-one, his sole possessions included a violin and half a pair of suspenders to hold up his pants. But, good fortune was his. He met and married the stagecoach driver's daughter, Zorah, against the wishes of her father, Mr. King, and her entire family. However, he began work with his two brothers, John and Frank, laid claim to 160 acres as his homestead and was soon in the sheep raising business. After three or four years on the homestead he bought a place on the Tucannon, where he raised a family of eight boys and four girls. He built a large, three storied house. The attic was used for a boxing ring at which their eldest, Ben, was an expert. Laura described her home life, "We girls would ask friends home for the weekend while attending Whitman College and prayed to God for snow to cover up all the mess scattered around the yard." The kitchen stove always had a big pot of beans simmering - white beans one day and brown the next.

A sheep ranch adjoining the Tucannon farm of more than 10,000 acres was added. At the peak of production Richard had a total of four bands of sheep, or about 8,000. In the winter of 1918 Richard Jackson was stricken with pneumonia and died. The older boys tried to carry on with the business but soon lost the entire estate. It was a sad sight to see the huge old house standing deserted after Ralph and his wife Maggie moved from the farm to Dayton, retiring in the late 1950's. It was finally torn down leaving only a few old fir trees as a reminder of those bygone days. The entire family of twelve children lived to a fairly ripe old age, but as in all families time does take its toll.

George Cantonwine built a small log hotel and brought his family from their roadside stage-stop in Cantonwine hollow. His daughter, Sylvania, married to William King, did the cooking for the few travelers that stopped.

Outside of the kitchen, as well, she was a young woman of energy and accomplishment. When her husband was too ill to carry the mail from Walla Walla to Colville, for which he had a contract, she took his place, traveling on horseback for more than three hundred miles, over primitive trails and across streams in an unsettled country.

The Hammer - See - King Family History
By
John Patrick Schmal

56. Thomas D. King was the father of William Berry King (#28) and a great-great-great-grandfather of Peter Hammer. Thomas was born in Pennsylvania and moved to Logan County, Ohio. Logan County lies north of the western half of the state of Ohio; it is bounded by Auglaize and Hardin Counties, on the east by Union, on the south by Champaign, and on the west by Shelby and Auglaize.

In 1837 they moved on to Covington, Indiana, and in 1845 moved to Benton County, Iowa. In the 1850 Federal Census, the 59-year-old Pennsylvania native Thomas A. King headed a household of eight in Benton County, Iowa. His 58-year-old wife, Susannah King, was also a native of Pennsylvania. William (#23), Peter's great-great-grandfather, was 23 years old and a native of Ohio. Other children listed in the household were Thomas (19 years old; born in Ohio); Louisa (17 years old; born in Ohio); and Martha (8 years old; born in Indiana). 21-year-old Felix King was also listed as a farmer owning $300 in real estate but we are not certain whether he was a son or relative. In the next federal census (1860), 67-year-old Thomas King was listed as a Pennsylvania-born hatter living in the City of Albia, Troy Township, Monroe County. Susannah was 66 years old. Their 18-year-old daughter, Martha, was still living at home, while their two sons, Thomas and William, moved away. Their 25-year-old daughter, Louisa Rundle was now a seamstress with two sons, also residing in the dwelling.

57. Susannah King was the wife of Thomas King (#56) and a great-great-great-grandfather of Peter Hammer. Her maiden name date of death are unknown.

28. William Berry King, Peter and Laura's great-great-grandfather, was born in Logan County, Ohio on February 29, 1829.⁹ William's parents were Thomas (#56) and Susannah King (#57). When he was about 8 years old his father moved to Covington, Floyd County, Indiana. When about sixteen years old he went from home to Illinois where he remained a few years and went from there to Monroe County, Iowa. He remained in Monroe County until 1854, at which time he crossed the plains to the young state of California. He was employed for a time in survey work and subsequently he conducted the Woodville House, a well known hostelry situated on the Rabbit Creek Road, about 40 miles from Marysville, California.¹⁰ William stayed in California for a year, after which he returned to Iowa by way of the Isthmus Route.

Then in 1857, William and his younger brother Thomas D. King returned to California by way of Panama. They landed at San Francisco and went up the Sacramento River, eventually locating at Marysville. The two brothers went into the mining and farming businesses. In the 1860 census, 30-year-old William B. King and his 25-year-old brother Thomas were listed as a farmers living in the household of Jonas Westcott in the Fourth Ward of Marysville in Yuba County, California. The 36-year-old Jonas was an Indiana-born farmer owning a considerable amount of personal and real estate and had a wife, two children, a servant and three farm laborers. Both Thomas and William owned $500 of personal property and stated that Ohio was their birthplace. William would eventually name his son Harry for Jonas Westcott.

In those days hay was worth $80 per ton and William brought with him 600 pounds of Hungarian grass seed in the hopes of making a small fortune growing hay. The following season, however, was one of drought. In failing to raise the expected crop, William's funds were exhausted. Thus, in 1862, William and Thomas moved onto Walla Walla, Washington, which in those days was surrounded by an almost wholly unsettled region. William went to the Florence and Orofino mines that summer. During the next year William and Thomas engaged to carry mail between Walla Walla and Fort Colville, which they did on horseback. Later, they then went to Florence, Idaho where they returned to mining for a short time. In 1867, back in Washington, the two brothers decided on agricultural pursuits and bought a farm on the Tucanon River in Columbia County. In 1868, William settled on the land, while at the same time continuing to operate his stage line with hired help.

In 1868, William Berry King married Miss Elizabeth Sylvia Cantonwine, near Walla Walla, Washington. After their marriage, William and Elizabeth moved to a place on Tucanon Creek. They would reside there for the rest of their lives. When he first arrived at the Tucanon Creek, he bought 320 acres of land from W.K. Stark. He subsequently acquired another 320 acres. In 1883, Thomas would sell his interest in the Tucanon farm to William.¹¹

William and Elizabeth would eventually have seven children. Their first-born child was Harry Westcott King, who was born in April 1868. Their next child, Zora King, was born in October 1869 in Columbia County. Oscar was born on February 15, 1871, followed by Edwin S. King, born in May 1873. The fifth child was their daughter, Frankie G. King, born in May 1875, followed by Silas Lincoln King, born on September 6, 1879. Their last child was Alice, born in August 1881.

In time, William's sons would also acquire land adjacent to the home ranch so that eventually the King family holdings would amount to 2,000 acres. William followed farming and raising fruit and stock. Concentrating their efforts on horticulture, the Kings' peaches and watermelons made them famous throughout southeastern Washington. The Kings had a reputation for generosity and hospitality. The King residence played an important role in the development of the county and the state, as noted in Early Columbia History.¹²

In the early days of Columbia County, the main way to travel was by stagecoach. The stagecoaches also carried freight and other cargo. There were several companies which ran stage lines from Lewiston to Walla Walla and beyond... The stage stopped at William B. Kings [sic] to change horses and eat and sometimes stayed overnight with Sylvia King serving the meals, and caring for the customers. The stage, then traveled through the hills to the Alpowa and on to Lewiston. The King stop was about half way on the line.

William's extensive obituary read in part:

Mr. King was known far and wide for hospitality. From the earliest times "The King Place" was a land mark for travelers, and all knew that if they could get to Mr. King's they would find shelter and feed for their stock, comfortable resting place for themselves, and a hospitality that was conspicuous for its heartiness and freedom from ostentation. He entertained his friends with narrations of many interesting and thrilling episodes during the turbulent times of the early sixties, when the land was full of Indians and dangerous desperadoes. Mr. King was never so happy as when throwing open the doors of his house and home to his friends, and he delighted in making them comfortable and happy. His long life was one of useful endeavor, and he leaves to mourn his loss, his wife and family of honorable, upright sons and daughters. He joined the Methodist Episcopal church about 14 years ago, and was always a steadfast believer in the Bible, and an advocate of morality and religion, and a conscientious and upright man in all his dealings, and enjoyed the love and confidence of his neighbors. The family feel that the father has left, in his good name and example, a legacy worth more than millions of gold.

The funeral of William Berry King, a 44-year-residence of the Tucanon Valley, was held on Sunday, April 14, 1912 at the family home with Rev. Monroe of Pomeroy and Rev. Artz of Turner officiating. The services were widely attended by friends and neighbors from far and wide. He was survived by his four sons and three daughters: Harry W., Zora I. (wife of R. A. Jackson), Oscar E., Ed S., Frankie G., Silas L., and Alice O.

14. Harry Westcott King was the son of William B. King (#28) and his wife Elizabeth S. King (#29). Harry was born on April 13, 1868 in Walla Walla, Washington Territory. Harry was two years old when he came with his parents to the Tucanon Creek area in Columbia County, Washington. As a young man, Harry took up a homestead about a mile above his parents' home. In the early days the stage route from Walla Walla to Lewiston made the King homestead a stage stop. The family made friends with the Indians who made seasonal migrations along the Tucannon River. Harry and his brothers were early-day stockmen and "hard-riding cowboys."¹

In later years, Harry adapted himself to the march of progress and his talents turned to the plow. His chief interest in this agrarian effort was truck farming with emphasis on melons, strawberries, and tomatoes. Until the day he died, he was called the "Melon King" of Columbia County, and people came from great distances to buy his produce. Right up to his eightieth year, he was growing fine watermelons which he called his "final pride and joy."²

He lived with his parents in Marengo Precinct of Columbia County, Washington until he was in his 40s. On September 21, 1910, 42-year-old Harry Westcott King was married in Dayton, Washington to 27-year-old Myrtle Griffin (#15). In the 1920 Federal Census he was listed as a 51-year-old farmer in Marengo Precinct.

Harry W. King died in December 1950 at the age of 82 years. He was survived by two sons, William G. (Bill) King of Spokane and Harry (Jiggs) W. King, Jr. of Sacramento, California, as well as two daughters: Bernita (Mrs. Conrad Shea, #7) and Mrs. Ray (Marjorie) Michener of Idaho Falls, Montana. He also had two sisters, Mrs. Henry Delany and Mrs. Howard Delany (both of Dayton), and two brothers, Edward King of Idaho Falls, and Silas King, of Dayton, Washington.

Dear Sirs:

Thank you for your letter and enclosures of a few months ago. I have made progress on my research into the King family. A pedigree chart is enclosed on the family I am seeking information for. Peter Hammer of Spokane is a friend who now lives in Los Angeles.

Is it possible that you have obituaries for Harry Westcott King, his wife Myrtle; William B. King or his wife, Elizabeth Sylvia? I have not found the names of Myrtle Griffin's parents either. If you can provide me with any other clues, I would be most grateful. Also, is there a cemetery that I may write to for information. William B. King and his family lived in Marengo Township. I would be most grateful and willing to pay for photocopies/mailing expenses. Thank you very much.

Harry King Has Big Birthday Party

The country home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Delany on the Tucanon was the scene of a large gathering in honor of the 79th birthday of Mrs. Delany's brother, Harry King, whose anniversary was April 13. Sharing honors with him were his neighbor, John Harting, whose birthday occurred the following day, April 14, and his little daughter, Jackie Harding, who was five years old on the following Wednesday.

An elaborate dinner was served at noon and the bounty of the Delany farm and its famous locker contributed everything from chicken and vegetables to the frozen strawberries for the ice cream served with the three birthday cakes that centered the table where the honored guests were seated. Neighbors assisted Mrs. Delany in serving, and Howard Delany, who, with the coffee pot, was constantly on the move among the several tables, informed the press he would have it known that he "poured."

Home-Grown Flowers

The children of the party blew out the candles on the beautifully decorated birthday cakes, two of which were authored by members of the Harting family, and gifts were presented all around. Beautiful flowers, among them some of the most famous daffodils of the year, were presented by Mrs. George Harting, and spring flowers from the Delany gardens were everywhere.

Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Remie DeRuwe and Master Carl Johnson of Walla Walla, Mr. and Mrs. Jules DeRuwe, Mr. and Mrs. Lovett Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. John Harting and daughter, Jackie, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Delany, Mr. and Mrs. George Harting, Wesley Blize, Mrs. Rex Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones and little son of Walla Walla, Mrs. Harold Snow, Silas King, Mrs. H. G. Moe, Misses Bertha Fulton and Ernestine Peabody, Miss Sylvia DeRuwe of Spokane and the most honored guest of the day, Harry King. The guests were all happy to hear that once they are invited to one of these annual birthday dinners they have a standing invitation to attend every succeeding one, and those who were there for the first time were only sorry they had not had their names in the pot five years ago.

King Is a True Pioneer

Harry King, son of the late William (Bill) Berry King and Sylvania Cantonwine King, was born in Walla Walla April 13, 1868, and when about two years old he came with his parents to the Tucanon. The Kings' first home, where a daughter, Mrs. Howard Delany, now lives, was once a stage stop, and was famous for the fine meals served the passengers by Mrs. King. Her husband drove one of the early stagecoaches through this part of the country, and no station was more popular than the King ranch. This place continued to grow popularity years after the stages had given way to the railroad, for the Kings then turned their energies to horticulture, and their peaches and watermelons made them famous throughout southeastern Washington. It is doubtful if they ever reaped the financial rewards they should have from their industry, for they were so generous to their customers and so hospitable to all comers that many a time they must have been all but "eaten out of house and home," as the saying goes. The young people of a generation or so ago will never forget the heaping platters of fried chicken and country ham served to every party that visited there, and the guests were all repeaters for years on end.

Long On Same Place

As a young man Harry King took up a homestead about a mile above his parents' home, and there he has remained to this day to become famous in his own right for his strawberries and his melons. He is still the "melon king" of Columbia county, and people come from great distances to buy his produce. His place is now largely in asparagus as is much of the fertile land in the Tucanon valley, but he has reserved a favored plot for his own use, and still grows the crops he likes best, more for pleasure than for profit.

His children are all established in homes of their own now, but he does a very good job of "batching it" and whenever he feels for having a meal with company it takes but a few minutes to reach the place every ready for him at the table of Sister Alice or Sister Frankie who are his neighbors.

Harry has two sons, Bill King of Spokane, and Harry, Jr. (Jiggs) of Sacramento, California; two daughters, Bernita, who is Mrs. Conrad Shea of Spokane, and Marjorie, Mrs. Ray Michener of Idaho Falls. Other members of his family are five grandchildren, his two sisters, Mrs. Henry Delany and Mrs. Howard Delany, and two brothers, Ed King of Kimberly, Idaho, and Silas King, who is now making his home with the Henry Delanys.

Death of Thomas D. King

Thomas D. King, brother of W. B. King, of this county, died at his home near Fort Lapwai, Idaho, Oct 15. A few days before his death Mr. King went into the hay loft and in doing so sustained a small scratch upon one of his hands. It was so slight that he paid no attention to it. The following morning his hand was badly swollen and pained him very much. A physician was consulted and discovered that blood poisoning had set in, which it was impossible to arrest, and resulted in death.

Thomas D. King was 74 years of age and was born in Logan County, Ohio. He came to California with his brother, W. B. King, in 1857, where they mined for a time and came to Walla Walla in 1862. The brothers soon after their arrival in this territory, engaged to carry the mail from Walla Walla to Fort Colville, which they did on horseback. They afterwards mined for a short time in Florence, Idaho. In 1867 they bought the farm on the Tucanon which is still the home of W. B. King. During that year and for years afterwards the King Brothers drove the mail stage from Walla Walla to Lewiston, the road then running through the King farm. In the year 1883 Thomas King sold his interest in the Tucanon farm to his brother, W. B., and went to California, where he resided fourteen years. He then returned to this country with his family & made his home near Lapwai, on the farm on which he passed away. He leaves a wife, 2 sons & one daughter. The children are all married and live near Lapwai. Oscar & H. W. King, of this county attended the funeral.

"William Berry King - 44 Years A Resident of the Tucuman Valley"

William Berry King was born in Logan Co., Ohio Feb. 29, 1829. When he was about 8 years old, his father moved to Covington, Indiana. When about 16 years old he went from home to Illinois where he remained a few years & went from there to Monroe Co., Iowa. Here he remained until 1854, when he went to California & remained there a year & then returned to Iowa. And went back by water, by way of Panama, to California landing at San Francisco. He went on up the Sacramento River & located at Marysville & went into the hotel business, keeping as what was known as the Woodville House. Here he remained engaging in various enterprises until 1862 when he came to Walla Walla, Washington, which at that time was a small trading point, surrounded by an almost wholly unsettled region. He went to Florence & Orofino mines that summer. The next year he carried mail between Walla Walla & Fort Colville, making his home in Walla Walla. After this he followed mail contracting for sometime. In the year 1868 he married Miss Elizabeth S. Cantonwine near Walla Walla. After their marriage Mr. King & his wife moved to the place on the Tucuman Creek, where he has since resided until the time of his death.

When Mr. King first came to the Tucuman he bought 320 acres of land of W. K. Stock & later bought 300 acres more & his sons have land adjoining, so that altogether the King family's holdings amount to about 2000 acres. Mr. King farming & raising fruits & stock. He had four sons & 3 daughters all of whom are living, viz: Harry W.; Zora S., wife of R. A. Jackson; Oscar E.; Ed S.; Frankie S.; Selma S.; & Alice O.

"Aged County Pioneer Dies"

Funeral services were held Monday forenoon for Harry W. King, 82, who died Friday in Bixing Hospital following an illness of a couple of weeks. Harry's passing was a natural decline due to his advanced age, a relative said. Interment was made in the Pomeroy cemetery.

Harry was born in Walla Walla County April 13, 1868, and with his parents moved to the Tucuman valley in Columbia County, locating at the foot of what has since been known as King grade. In the intervening 81 years Harry, with other members of the family, have made this immediate area his home.

In the early days the stage route from Walla Walla to Lewiston made the King homestead a stage stop. Among the family's friends were the Indians who made seasonal migrations along the river. Harry and his brothers were early-day stockmen and hard-riding cowboys; they are late-comers' connection with the old west.

In the past several decades Harry had adapted himself to the march of progress and his talents turned to the plow. His chief interest in this agrarian effort was truck farming with emphasis on melons and tomatoes, and right up to his 80th year he was growing fine watermelons, which were his "final pride and joy."

The deceased is survived by two daughters, Mrs. T. C. (Bertha) Shea of Spokane & Mrs. Ray (Marjorie) Muckener of Idaho Falls, Idaho; two sons, William G. King of Spokane & Harry W. King Jr. of

"Lucas Jackson the Tragic Death"

Dean King, prominent pioneer pastor of the Lutheran (Walter), met sudden death at his farm home between fine oak slip linden trees when he is believed to have been attacked by a vicious blood cow he was preparing to feed.

His sister, Mrs. Frankie Cahie, who makes her home with him, had been away during the afternoon and upon her return to prepare the evening meal found a note from him saying he was in the orchard looking after the hogs. It was their custom to leave notes for each other if either expected to be away from the house any length of time and she did not become alarmed until he failed to appear at supper time.

Soon after Mrs. Cahie set out to look for him she found the mangled body in the orchard with his dog standing guard to prevent further attack from the angry creature which was still meeting about him. His presumed. The fog had changed him and thrown him to the ground and that he succumbed to a heart attack. Otherwise he could not have been so easily trampled and mutilated, because he was a strong man and harder to shake all his life.

Ms. Cabie dropped his body through the fence and into the house and then although slipping from grief and about almost to the point of exhaustion, she made a long mile up the valley to the home of her brother, Henry King, who raised other members of the family of the tragedy.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at two from the Mason funeral home in Sonoma, with Rev. F. D. White, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating, and interment will be at the plot of the King family in the Sonoma cemetery.

Dear Elye King, a son of the late Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Berry King, early settler of the Lucon valley, was born on the King homestead February 15, 1871, and grew up there. He attended district school in the Lucon and completed his education at Linnæus College in Portland.

He returned to the ranch and took over its management after other members of the family had either died or the place was famous for its fruit and garden produce in the early days but of late years he had concentrated on livestock and was doing splendid work in the way of producing food for the nation and the army.

A member of one of the most hospitable families the county has ever known, Dear Elye on the tradition of his parents, always warmly welcomed visitors to the ranch. He was never so happy as when having guests at his table or when rendering some service for a neighbor or a traveler.

Linnæus include two sisters, Mrs. Henry Elye and Mrs. Frankie Cabie, both of this community; three brothers, Henry and Silas King, of Columbia County and Ed King of Twin Falls, Idaho, and a number of nephews and nieces, The late Mrs. B. G.

Dickinson was a sister.

Dayton Girl Loses Clothes Spokane Fire

Miss Marjorie King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry King of this county, and granddaughter of Mrs. O. Griffin of Dayton, was one of three girls who lost their clothes in a Spokane fire late Wednesday afternoon.

Miss King, who is attending business college in Spokane, was staying at the Isabella club when the second and third floors were destroyed by fire.

Miss King and two other girls were forced to flee in their house dresses, leaving everything behind them. The stubborn fire turned the interior of the building into a seething caldron of smoke.

Another Big Dinner at Kings

Sunday a large party motored to the Harry King home on Tucanon for a day of hunting, fishing and feasting. Most of the men who went out for pheasants got their limit in a short time and contributed them to the banquet which was prepared by the women of the company. Dinner was served cafeteria style in the dining room and the guests, after loading their plates, gathered on the screened veranda where they remained until tempted within from time to time for replenishments. Mr. King had another wagon load of melons drawn to the picnic grounds, which were pronounced even superior to those excellent ones served at the dinner given there earlier in the season.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dill, Mr. and Mrs. Reed Jonas Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Griffin, Mrs. W. W. Dorothy and daughter, Grant Low, Mrs. J. Weinhard, Misses Esther and Carrie Weinhard, Mr. and Mrs. O. Griffin, Mrs. J. A. Anderson, O. E. King, Master Selwyn Varnes, and the King family.

STAGECOACH HOLDUP

In the early days of Columbia County, the main way to travel was by stagecoach. The stagecoaches also carried freight and other cargo. There were several companies which ran stage lines from Lewiston to Walla Walla and beyond. The line followed part of the Nez Perce Trail from Walla Walla to Dayton in the Touchet valley and over the hills to the Tucannon, where it crossed the river at the King place. The stage stopped at William B. Kings to change horses and eat and sometimes stayed overnight with Sylvia King serving the meals, and caring for the customers. The stage, then traveled through the hills to the Alpowa and on to Lewiston. The King stop was about half way on the line.

Close to the turn of the century, when the stagecoach was still making its rounds, as it drew up to make the change at the King place, robbers were there for a holdup. They demanded the gold box at the point of their guns, and hurried off up the Tucannon with their loot, as fast as their horses could run.

This holdup, of the stagecoach, could not be found in the Columbia county files, but several third generation witnesses, give several accounts, as to the particulars, of this noteworthy event in history. The following are results of the survey.

There were different viewpoints on what direction the stagecoach was traveling, when accosted. One witness said it was traveling to Lewiston with the Lewiston payroll, another said the stage was carrying the United States mail, but still another was certain the stage was traveling towards Dayton, with the gold from the Idaho mines. It was stated also the stagecoach was carrying Wells Fargo express.

The robbers were numbered from one lone man to four men on horseback. The booty of the robbers, were several sacks of gold dust, bags of gold nuggets and still another witness stated it to be $20 gold pieces. The amount was all the way to $60,000, which was quite a lot of gold to carry at $15 to $20 and ounce.

As to the outcome of the robbers, some drastic measures were reported. The robbers were found, taken back to the King stage stop, and strung up under a big tree with a rope around each of their necks, while their feet rested on wooden kegs. Each was asked where the gold was hidden, and as each man refused to answer, the keg was kicked out from under his feet, and he hung dangling from the rope. All robbers refused to tell where the gold was hidden.

One man got away and went to Montana as a free man. One witness said he went to Montana but was hung for another crime. And still another fate, was remembered, as hung and buried on an island in the Tucannon valley. But one said, the three men were caught and hung on the courthouse green.

And what happened to that box of booty? One witness said, one man just before he was hung did tell the vigilantes that the gold was buried beside a lone pine tree on the Tucannon. This explanation seems to be the most popular to believe, for through the years there have been many inquisitive prospectors searching for the lost treasure on the Tucannon. Even though it has been nearly a century ago, since the robbery took place there are still those that look for the gold.

Just a few years ago a couple of prospectors questioned one of the old timers on the Tucannon, about the robbery. They remained about six weeks searching and digging. There has never been a report of anyone finding the gold treasure. But one man that was working in a field below the King ranch, found a $20 gold piece, several years ago. That started another search but to no avail. But still, there is one more witness that may have a good ending for this questionable phenomenon.

A man and his wife, who lived a few miles below the King stage stop, had parted company, going their separate ways. When the man was leaving the Tucannon, he went to a neighbor, about the possibility of leaving a small chest with him, until he could return for it. The friend consented to store it for him, and did. He did notice, however, at the time, how heavy the small chest was. He soon forgot the chest and years passed. When the man returned for the chest, he opened it. It was filled with small bags of gold!

It is not known where the man got the gold and chances are, no one will ever know. It may have been the chest of gold from the stage coach robbery. Could he have been one of the robbers and wanted to wait "till all was quiet on the western front?"

Co. Native Has Pomeroy Burial

Funeral services were held in Pomeroy Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Howard (Frankie) Delany who died in the Dayton hospital Friday. Interment was made in the Pomeroy cemetery, with Rev. Donald Yates of the Pomeroy Christian church conducting.

Mrs. Delany was born Frankie King, May 25, 1877, daughter of pioneer settlers, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. King on the Tucanon river at a spot where she spent nearly her whole life. She spent some years in Dayton while the wife of the late Al Cahill but following his death returned to the home-site where she was born.

Five or six years ago, following the death of her brother, Oscar, with whom she made her home, she married Howard Delany and they continued to make the "old King" place their home.

About three years ago she suffered a stroke and since that time has been invalid to a wheel chair. Mr. Delany died last winter of a heart attack but in spite of her condition, Mrs. Delany refused to leave the old home place and made a deal for companions to live with her. A couple of weeks ago she suffered a heart attack and never fully recovered.

Last winter at the time of Delany's death, being alone in the house with him, she fell out of her wheel chair shortly after his death and lay on the kitchen floor for 16 or 18 hours without the benefit of adequate clothing, and it was only her hardy constitution that kept her alive on that occasion.

During her active years Mrs. Delany took much interest in women's service groups. She was a member of the Eastern Star, and since moving back to the Tucanon had been a member of the Tucanon Valley Economics club.

Mrs. Delany has but two survivors, a sister, Mrs. Henry Delany, and a brother, Silas King, both residents of the Tucanon valley.

26 Sept 1963

Alice Delany, Local Native, Dies Tuesday

Mrs. Alice Orazaba Delany, 85, native daughter of Columbia county, passed away at 6 a.m. Tuesday, September 24, at her home on the Lower Tucannon, Route 2.

She had been in ill health for the past five years following a hip fracture suffered in 1958.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Friday, September 27, from the Hubbard-Rogg Chapel with the Rev. Adam S. Forch Sr. officiating. Interment will follow later in the afternoon at the city cemetery in Pomeroy.

Mrs. Delany was born August 14, 1878, in Columbia county at the home of her parents, William B. King and Sylvania Cantonwine King on the Tucannon. Her father was an early day stage driver on the Walla Walla-Lewiston run and the King home was a stage depot.

Married in 1915

She attended schools at Covello and Turner and then attended a business college at Portland, Oregon. She and Henry Delany were married in January, 1915, and farmed in the county.

Mrs. Delany and the late Mr. Delany were avid baseball fans and supported the sport locally for many years. She was a member of the Methodist church, Columbia County Farm Bureau and Harmony unit. She was also a trustee of the scrap iron memorial building fund established during World War II.

Members of the family include numerous nieces and nephews. Local relatives are nephews: Bob, Townsend and Ralph Jackson, all of Dayton.

Pall bearers at the service will be: Harold Snow, Bill Thomas, Wilbur Hinchliff, Henry Jones, Roy Hoon and Monte Leighty. Honorary pall bearer will be Wesley Blize.

Eva King, 73, Local Nurse, Dies May 12

Final rites for Mrs. Eva Berry King, 73, licensed practical nurse at Brining Memorial Hospital in Dayton for about 19 years, were held Wednesday afternoon, May 16, from the Hubbard-Rogg Chapel.

The Rev. M. E. Jordan, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiated. Interment was at Dayton City Cemetery.

Mrs. King passed away Saturday morning, May 12, at the hospital following a month's illness. She was born July 20, 1888, in Benton county, Arkansas, and came west to LaGrande, Oregon, in 1896. Her parents were T. F. McKennon and Nancy Marll McKennon.

She came to Dayton in February, 1919, and was employed in the millinery department at the former J. J. Edwards store. On March 3, 1919, at Baker, Oregon, she and E. M. King were married. Mr. King passed away November 10, 1924.

The only member of the immediate family is a half-sister, Mrs. Eleanor Halley of Centralia.

OBITUARIES

SAMUEL CHESTER KIRK

Samuel Chester Kirk, 84, died at the Robison nursing home Friday after a long period of failing health. The remains were taken to Weston, Oregon, for burial where funeral services were held at the United Brethren church of that city Monday afternoon at three o'clock.

Born in Canada July 1, 1862, the deceased had long been a resident of the United States. He followed farming until his health failed, and he came here two and a half years ago for medical treatment and nursing care.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Jack Moyer, Seattle; two sons, Geo. W. Kirk, Kennewick, and H. C. Kirk, Weston, Oregon; a sister, Mrs. Jennie Crawford, who is in Canada; nine grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

11 Mar 1893

A Double Arrest.

On last Monday Lee Kirk swore out a warrant before Justice Gordon against Pat Walls and Mrs. Maria Kirk for adultery.

Pat Walls appeared before Justice Holman Tuesday and swore out a warrant against Lee Kirk for assault and battery.

The particulars of the two cases seem to be as follows: A number of weeks ago Mrs. Maria Kirk came to Covello presumably on a visit to her sister. While there she engaged her services to one Mrs. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor had also in her employ one Pat Walls. The two were thus thrown into one another's society and often went to church and places of amusement together. On Sunday Mr. Kirk and Berry Evans, Mrs. Kirk's father came to Covello after Mrs. Kirk. Learning that Mr. Walls and Mrs. Kirk were on the road to church they waited by the wayside and pounced upon Mr. Walls and gave him a terrible trouncing. Mrs. Kirk assisted Mr. Walls to escape from his assaulters. Monday the warrants were issued as stated above.

Justice Gordon telephoned to the sheriff to arrest Walls, which was done immediately upon his arrival in this city. Deputy Sheriff Allen took the prisoner in charge and started for Covello where his trial was held. Owing to insufficient evidence the prisoner was released but was immediately re-arrested on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and bound over to court, in the sum of two hundred dollars. Being unable to furnish bonds he now languishes in jail awaiting trial.

JOSEPHINE CLARICE KIRK

Funeral services were held at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in St. Joseph's Catholic church for Mrs. Josephine Clarice Kirk, who died at her home in LaGrande, Oregon, May 23, at the age of 89 years.

Josephine Conoyar was born at Salem, Oregon, January 23, 1859. She spent most of her childhood in Umatilla county, Oregon. After her marriage she lived with her husband in Columbia county but moved away from here a number of years ago.

Survivors are three sons: Herman Kirk, Wallowa, Oregon; Ray Kirk, Cayuse, Oregon; and Dewey Kirk; four daughters: Mrs. Olive Bonifor, LaGrande; Mrs. Elmer Taylor, Colbert; Mrs. Edmond Walker, Pasco; and Mrs. Free Carathe, The Dalles, Oregon; and a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Rev. Father R. H. Schwemin officiated at the services.

H. Leroy Kirk

Born November 24, 1933 in Dayton, WA. Died February 8, 1996, at age 62. He lived most of his life in Dayton where he attended and graduated from Dayton High School in 1952. He was a drama club and boxing team member. Preceded in Death by his grandparents, Helen and Roy Hubbard, Mother Lucille Coppand Father Eugene Kirk.

He retired from the Green Giant cannery in 1974. Took time to travel across the U.S. and ended up in Niland, Ca. until 1992. He spent his last 4 years with this sister Audrey in Spanaway, WA. He is survived by his sons, Darah L. Kirk of Buhl, Idaho, and Dolan L. Kirk of Walla Walla, and Daughter Debra L. Kirk of Portland, OR. Sisters include Audrey A. Nepper of Spanaway, and Patricia J. Erdman, of Tucson, AZ. Six grandchildren, Danelle, Heath, Drew, Chance, Nathen and Stephanie, 2 nieces, 3 nephews, 3 grandnieces and 1 grandnephew.

No services are planned at this time.

Deputy Sheriff Allen arrested Kirk on the warrant sworn out by Walls and Tuesday brought his prisoner before Justice Holman. The prisoner plead guilty and was fined the sum of ten dollars and costs which amounted in all to $38.20 which was paid and the prisoner released. The case being one of those in which mercy has to be blended with justice the court made the sentence light.

Another Pioneer Gone

William Kimball Sinks Quietly to Rest -

the Effect of Paralysis.

Died in this city, Jan 24 1893, Wm. F. Kimball, aged 66 years, 5 months and 23 days.

One by one, the pioneers whose energy and pluck have redeemed this Pacific Northwest from its savage state, and built up the thriving cities and beautiful homes with which it now abounds, are passing away, and scarcely a day passes but the Statesman is called upon to chronicle the fact that one has been called to his long home. This time it is a man who for nearly twenty-five years has resided in Walla Walla, and who, until dire sickness came upon him about five years ago, was always identified with the business interest of this city.

Wm. F. Kimball, the subject of this sketch, was born in Groton Vermont, July 31, 1826. He was married in Decorah, Iowa, February 22, 1853, to Miss Mary J. Day, with whom he lived happily until death claimed her. Several children were the result of this union, four of whom, Mrs. L. H. Carver, of Spokane, Frank Kimball, of Seattle, W. B. Kimball, of this city, and Miss Anna Kimball, who is at present attending the New England Conservatory of Music at Boston, Mass.

KITTERMAN HISTORY BY ELIAS C. KITTERMAN WRITTEN JANUARY 1915
(Started)

Born January 26, 1848, died June 13, 1923

In the latter part of the seventeenth century, three brothers, John, Henry, and Peter Kitterman migrated from Norway or Germany. Aunt Polly, a daughter of Henry's, always said they came from Norway. She was grown and married when she came but later a great many of the descendants claimed they were of German descent and that the three brothers came from Germany. We have no way to determine which is correct now.

These three brothers, together with their families, landed in Maryland, and later settled in Virginia. Henry, with his family, settled near Rocky Mount, Franklin County. John, with his family, settled in Floyd County. Peter settled somewhere in Virginia and quite a few of his descendants, when last heard from, were scattered over Virginia, Indiana, and neighboring states.

Of John's family several stayed in Virginia and vicinity. One of his sons, Peter by name, married a daughter of Henry Kitterman, one of the original three brothers. After Peter's death, the widow, known as Aunt Polly, with her family, moved to Perry County, Indiana, and then in the spring of 1843 to Wapello County, Iowa. Her family consisted of five boys and two girls, namely, Joe Henry, John, Johanna, Rebekah, Alec, and Harrison. *Joe, first son of Polly, married Patsy Archibald of Perry County, Indiana. To them were born eight children, Johanna, Sally, Alec, John, Alice, Francis, Billy, and Mary. Johanna married William Harris, who died in the army, and then she married Frank Godfrey. Sally married Harrison Godfrey, brother of Frank. Alec married a girl by the name of Burns, and Alec later died in the army. John never married, and he died in the army. Alice married Elisha Brodhead. Billy married Isadore Brodhead, Elisha's sister. Francis died in the army, single. Mary married Clark McCloskey.

Henry, second son of Polly, married Betsy Enlow of Perry County, Indiana. To them were born three children, Phillip, Medelton, and Mary Jane. In the spring of 1842 they moved to Bureau County, Illinois, where Betsy died. In the spring of 1843 Henry, with his children, returned to Perry County, Indiana, where he married Abbie Enlow, sister of Betsy. They moved to Iowa about the year 1846. To them were born nine children, Samuel, James, George, Christopher, Elias, Ann, Jerome, Lincoln, and Hettie. As near as I know the record of his children is as follows: Phillip married Mrs. Margaret Smith Mathews, and after her death, married Mrs. Abbie Ray. Medelton died about the age of twenty-one, single. Mary Jane married Joe West. Samuel married Olive Wilson. James was married twice in Kansas. George married twice. Christopher married Carrie Bennett of Bolchew, Missouri. Elias married in Kansas. Ann married Grant Clark. Jerome married Adele Whipple. Lincoln was married twice and lives in Geddes, South Dakota. Hettie married John Fetterly and after he died she married a man in California.

John, third son of Polly, married and settled in Illinois.

He had two sons, Jasper and Joe. Of Joe I know nothing. Jasper, with his wife and children, live in Bradford, Illinois.

Johanna, first daughter of Polly married Hinton Miller and moved to Oregon about 1851. They had one son William Henry Harrison by name.

Rebekah, second daughter of Polly, married Jessie Chitwood. They went to Oregon in 1851. I know nothing of her family.

Alec, fourth son of Polly, married a girl by the name of Lynch. There were no children. He died in Marion County, Iowa.

Harrison, youngest son of Polly, married Becky Chitwood and went with the Millers, and Jessie Chitwood and his wife, to Oregon in 1851. I know nothing of their families.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION:

Peter Kitterman, son of John Kitterman, one of the original three brothers, married his cousin, Polly Kitterman, daughter of Henry Kitterman, one of the three original brothers. Peter and Polly are our Great-great-grandparents, and John and Henry Kitterman are our Great-great-great grandfathers. Peter Kitterman had a sister named Polly, and Polly Kitterman had a brother named Peter, which makes for much confusion. See later in this history.

I can find no history on John Kitterman, father of Peter Kitterman. This history concerns Henry Kitterman, one of the original three brothers, and his daughter, Polly Kitterman, and her family of children.

s/ Ruth Dougall

Henry Kitterman, one of the original three brothers, lived and died in Franklin County, Virginia. He died in the year 1816, and was buried seven miles from the Franklin County Court-house. He was the father of fourteen children, seven girls and seven boys, the girls all being older than the boys. Only four of the girls names are known, Polly, Johanna, Leah, and Anna. The boys names are John, Zack, Chris, George, Michael, Elias, and Peter.

I have traced Polly's record as the wife of Peter Kitterman, son of John, one of the original three brothers.

Polly married Peter Kitterman, son of John, one of the original three brothers. (See page 1 for her children).

Johanna married William Fortune. After their death the family moved to Iowa and settled near Bloomfield. I know but little of her family. Two of the girls, Syrilda, and one who married a man by the name of Clark, moved to Oregon about the year 1850.

Leah married a man by the name of Gillett and lived and died, as far as I know, In Illinois.

Anna married George Robertson. They had two children, a boy and a girl, Will and Nancy by name. Will married Betsy Van Winkle. They raised a large family and most all of the children are living in or near Ottumwa, Iowa. Nancy married Abe Van Winkle, they had several children.

One of Henry's other daughters, name unknown, married a man by the name of Marsterson, and one other daughter, name also unknown, married a man by the name of Byrd.

John, the oldest son of Henry, Uncle Elias told me, went south and was in New Orleans for several years. He returned for a visit to Indiana about the year 1840. He came in his own boat, fully equipped, including a brass band, and when he left, Uncle Elias went with him to the boat. John got on the boat, circled in the river for about an hour with the band playing "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot and Brought to Mind No More", then left. That was the last they ever saw or heard of John, though I have heard he has some descendants west of New Orleans.

Zack, second son of Henry, married Polly Byrd. They had six boys and two girls, Jim, Rice, Alfred, Wesley, Thomas, Taylor, Juda Ann, and Sarah. Zack, with children excepting Jim, lived here in Iowa a short time. Juda Ann married Jim Cline and lived a number of years in Iowa, finally moving to Kansas, where she died. The only one of her family remaining in Iowa was Elisa Ann Reeves. Zack's other children, scattered, several going to Missouri.

Chris, third son of Henry, lived in Anderson Creek in Perry County, Indiana. He was married and had a family but I know nothing of them.

George, fourth son of Henry lived and died on Foster Ridge, Perry County, Indiana. He was married and had a family of which Ben was the last I heard of, him being in southern Missouri. John, another son, came to Iowa and Married Sryvilla Rhoads, moved to Ash Creek, Minnesota, where he raised a large family. Of George's family these two boys are the only children I know anything of.

Michael, the fifth son of Henry, married Lydia Clark and moved to Bureau County, Illinois, in 1830. To them were born thirteen children, Robert, Ann, Nancy, Henry, Christopher, William, Mary, Leah, John, George, Harriet, Emma, and Frank. Mary died in infancy and Frank died at the age of ten years. Of the others Robert married Flora Greenman. Ann married C.A. Dean. Nancy married J.H. Moore. Henry married Virginia Lockwood, and after her death, he married Estella Howard. Christopher married Ella Holman, and after her death, married Mary Walker. William married Elizabeth Stepp. John married Frances E. Swanzy. George married Jessie Stepp, sister of Elizabeth. Harriet married Mathew Sadler. Emma married Max Keigly. Leah married Henry Patt and lives in Creston, Iowa. The other children all live in Bureau County, Illinois and all have children, except Emma, who died leaving none.

Elias, the sixth son of Henry married a girl by the name of Sarah Archibald. They had two children, Willand and Mary Anne. After her death he married Lydia Redman. They had four children, George, John, Sarah, and Nancy. After Lydia's death he married Katherine Cooper. They had no children.

William married Maggie Anderson.

Mary Anne married Martin Koontz. (See additional information from Wapello Chief)

George married Barbara King. John married Lyvina Davis. Sarah married Alfred Bowland. Nancy married Jefferson Thompson. Will, George, John, Sarah, and Nancy raised their families in Iowa. Mary Anne raised her family in California. John eventually went west and he and Mary both died in Los Angeles, California.

(See additional information regarding Elias Kitterman)

Peter, the seventh son of Henry, (also father of the writer of this history), married Elizabeth Redman in Indiana. They moved to Iowa in 1843. To them were born eight children, Lerand, William, Elizabeth, Elias C., John, Sarah, George, and a baby girl who died in infancy. Of these children Lerand died while they yet lived in Indiana. Sarah died in 1850 and the baby girl in 1851. Elizabeth being the only girl who grew to womanhood. She married Milton Giltner and died in 1886, leaving no children. William married Ellen McClung, she dying at the birth of their only child, who also died, and was buried with her in Kansas, where they were living at the time. William then came back to Iowa and married Abrigal Ford. To them were born three children, Mabel, Louie, and Peter Gad. Mabel married Burn Williams, Louie married Anna Cunningham and lives in Kansas. Peter Gad, single, lived in Chicago where he practiced medicine for a number of years. He is now serving as a Lieutenant in the Medicine Corps of the United States Army.

Elias C. Married Matilda Giltner. To them were born three children, Osa, Ola, and Guy. Osa died at the age of two years nine months. Ola married Harry Edmunds and lives in Ottumwa, Iowa. Guy married Luna Lowenberg, she dying leaving no children. Several years after her death Guy married Elizabeth Kitterman, daughter of Christopher, son of Henry, son of Peter, son of the original John Kitterman. They live in Ottumwa, Iowa, and have two children, Maxine and Ivor.

John married Permelia Thompson. To them were born seven children, Claude, Ada, Myrtle, Byrl, Peter C.D., Robert A., and Mamie. They lived in Iowa until after the birth of their children, after which they moved to Glenwood, Missouri. Peter C.D. died at the age of three years and is buried in the Kitterman Cemetery. Claude married Mary Turner. Ada married Ty Kelly. Myrtle married Lincoln Kirby, who died leaving a large family. Byrl married Clifford Barnett and died leaving one daughter, Bernice. Robert A. married Iva Green. Mamie married Charles Liberger. These children are all living with their families in Schuyler County, Missouri. Permelia, the mother, died January 29, 1918. They brought her back and buried her in the Kitterman Cemetery.

George married Jennie Dorr. To them were born six children, Gladys, Hattie, S. Justice, Edna, Annice, and Nina.

Gladys died at the age of twelve years. Hattie married Willis Blanchard. S. Justice married Pearl Gayer. Edna married Axel Johnson. One child, Iona, lives with her husband and daughter in Minnesota. Annice married James Buchanan, has a number of children and lives in Condor, Mississippi. Nina married Verdon Reinhart. She died when married not quite a year, leaving no children. George, their father, died at the St. Joseph Hospital, April 29, 1918, and was buried in the Kitterman Cemetery.

Following is a brief history of how the Kitterman Cemetery originated. The land on which the cemetery is located was entered on the roles by Peter Kitterman, son of Henry, one of the original three brothers. It was never transferred, except through his death to his four sons, who, with their wives, deeded it to the Kitterman Cemetery Association.

One day, while the children of Peter Kitterman were playing on this land, the little daughter, Elizabeth, took a fancy to the place. Going home she told her mother it was the prettiest place she had ever seen and, when she died, she wanted to be buried there. Shortly after this, Sarah, another little daughter of Peter, died and they buried her there, this being the first grave and the birth of the Kitterman Cemetery. Years after, when Elizabeth died, they carried out her wish and buried her there.

In this graveyard there are four children, of the original Henry Kitterman, buried. Two sons and two daughters, namely Peter and Elias Kitterman, Polly Kitterman, wife of Peter, son of John, one of the original three brothers, and Anna Robertson. These four are the only ones of the first generation from the three brothers buried west of the Mississippi River.

by Francis Ray Moore

"Opening Day (the New Purchase - May 1, 1843) found a few (immigrants) further inland. At the Ewing Brothers Trading Post, at the mouth of Sugar Creek, one Peter Kitterman, a blacksmith from Virginia, had been permitted to set up a forge a few months previous to the opening, primarily for the purpose of caring for the horses at Fort Sanford. Here were collected quite a colony, mostly employees of the Post and friends and relatives of Kitterman."

"Peter Kitterman gave the travelers hearty welcome, conducting them to a desirable camp site and assisting them in getting settled for the night.

.....Their final destination he described as little short of paradise; broad, fertile prairies, plenty of timber and running water, high up, out of the mud and swamp of the valley..... They would start at daybreak, he informed them so as to be first on the ground and get the choicest locations..... He, himself, would not remain in the settlement with them but would return to the Post for the Summer, after locating claims for himself, his sister, Polly, who was with him, and his brother, Elias, who had gone back East because of a death in the family. Polly would remain and look after their claims. Blacksmithing was good at the Post. His was the only place between the agency and John Eddy's where a man could get a horse shod or a piece of work done. Later on, in the Fall, he would remove his shop to the new settlement."

"Daybreak found the camp astir.....After breakfast, they formed for a start. Kitterman led, his team hitched to an empty wagon. His horses, well shod, would, he explained, come in handy to help pull the others out of the mud and up the hills. Next came Johnny Moore.....then Kitterman's sister, called Aunt Polly. They successfully forded the creek and entered the woods beyond. For some distance the trail lay through the marshy lowlands. Frequently they must stop and double up, to get their wagons through. At times they must remove trees and other obstructions. But, on the whole, they encountered little difficulty. Kitterman has seen to this. He had previously explored the country thoroughly, taking care to pick the best and easiest passage. At last, they left the mud and mire of the lowlands and began the sharp ascent which Kitterman told them would soon lead to the high prairie. It was as Kitterman said. The grade became less abrupt; forest and underbrush grew less dense; and patches of open prairie, green and fragrant with new grasses and spring flowers, began to appear. Most of the men walked beside the wagons, reaching down frequently and picking up handfuls of the black soil, marvelling at its richness. Finally Kitterman, far ahead, turned about and raised his hand as a signal to halt.

"We will camp here for the night," he said. "The place is
