after having met government requirements. The original cabin was used several years. In 1873, a frame house was erected and is still in use today. It has been remodeled a few times through the years.

There was controversy over a name for the park. Many favored Shiloh, as it adjoined the historical Shiloh camp grounds, which was an early ritualistic site, used by the Indians. It was also used as a camp for religious, revival meetings by the early pioneers. It was eventually named Lewis and Clark Trail. Pages 157-158

AN ILLUSTRATED HISTORY OF SOUTHEASTERN WASHINGTON

Following is an interview with S. L. Gilbreath, by J. E. Edmiston.

In August, 1859, Gilbreath and his wife, in company with John C. Wells and Thomas Davis, both bachelors, came to what is now Columbia county, from the Willamette valley. Wells and Gilbreath had wagons and brought the first wagons over the Nez Perce trails, unless, possibly, the soldiers had a wagon in 1856. Gilbreath located on his present farm at Long's Station in August, 1859. Davis settled just below Dayton. He bought the claim from Freelon Schnebley (Stubbs) for eleven head of yearlings, and built his cabin in the fall of 1859; Wells also bought a location from Stubbs, on which the latter had already built a small cabin; the only cabins on the Touchet at that time were Stubbs' cabin, on the south side of the Touchet, where the China Garden is now located, and a cabin about where Alex Price's residence now is, in Dayton, which had been built by Henry M. Chase and was then occupied by two squaw men by the name of Bailey. "Stubbs," whose name was Schnebley, was a squaw man, and was killed in 1862 at the mouth of the Okanogan river by the soldiers for horse stealing. His brother, F. D. Schnebley, filed on his place on which Dayton is now located, and after proving up sold to Jesse N. Day. In 1859 there was a general camping ground for the Indians where Dayton now stands; there were from 75 to 100 tepee pole frames standing; the grass was eaten out up to the foot-hills.

Mrs. Gilbreath was the first white woman to locate in the county, being at that time only sixteen years of age. In October, 1859, Lambert Hearn and wife came up from the Valley and located just above Gilbreath on the Touchet. He bought his location from one of the Forrest boys, who were brothers of Mrs. Jesse N. Day. Jesse N. Day and the Forrest boys came up in 1859, located claims, and returned to the Valley for their families, coming back the next year. In 1859 there were no cabins below Gilbreath's on the Touchet, but every half mile four poles were laid in a square with a notice posted on a pole as follows: "This is my claim; I have gone to the Valley for my stock and will be back in three months." These locations were all made in the spring of 1859. Most of these persons came back in the autumn of that year. John Forsythe, a bachelor, located on the first place below Gilbreath, his only capital being a shotgun and a cayuse. James S. Dill, a widower with one boy, located just below Forsythe. James Bennett settled just below on what is now the Bateman place. His wife came a year or so later. Joe Starr settled at the crossing of the Touchet; he was a bachelor. Below him George T. Pollard, a bachelor, came and located in the fall of 1859. Four brothers, David, Joseph, William and Ben Whittaker, came in the fall of 1859 and settled just below Pollard, where Huntsville now stands; they were all bachelors. A. B. and Albert G. Lloyd lived just below, across the county line.

Missionary Spalding and wife, and Andrew Warren, his son-in-law, came in 1859 and built a cabin on the Touchet at Mullan Bridge, near Prescott. Gilbreath and his wife heard Rev. Spalding preach in the fall of 1859.

Man Drowned

MILTON MILLS, July 17, 1867.

EDITOR STATESMAN.—James E. Bennett was drowned in the Touchet, near our place, on the 14th inst., under extraordinary circumstances, and as many versions of the affair are afloat, we deem it just to state the particulars as they occurred. Mr. Bennett, with others, was engaged in fishing with a seine, when he got into deep water and lost the end of the seine he was holding. Some one remarked to him that the rope was under his feet, he having at that time secured his footing, and he made an effort to recover the seine and again got into deep water. He then struggled as if trying to keep himself in an upright position with his hands, while he endeavored to recover the rope with his feet, but got into deep water, strangled, or become cramped and after a short struggle, sunk and never again arose to the surface. This was about the first intimation any one had that he was in real danger, and Mr. Day, being the nearest swimer to him, plunged in and took hold of him before he had sunk to the bottom. The dying man here got foul hold of Mr. Day and took him under, and it was only by superhuman efforts that he broke the grasp and saved himself. By this time Mr. Locke, who was on the other side of the stream, had removed his clothes, so as to be useful, and swam across to the spot. Being told his exact position he plunged down feet foremost to feel for him, and was taken by the foot by a hard grasp. This unnerved him to some extent for fear of being held beneath the surface, and by an effort he pushed his hand off with the other foot, which was done the more easily, as the sock came off also. Mr. L. now reversed his position, and dove down and got hold of Bennett's arm, but the grasp being only partially around his wrist, his hand slipped, after bringing him up some three feet, and he was too much exhausted to make a second attempt after regaining the surface. Mr. Stewart now made a vain but vigorous attempt to secure the now drowned man, and his body was only recovered by procuring a boat and hook.

The fact of a man drowning, surrounded on all sides by friends, in a comparatively small stream, in eleven feet of water, is indeed strange and seems very hard, but the reflections will be somewhat mitigated when we consider that the water was almost as cold as ice water, and no man could remain under it, encumbered by more or less clothing, as each of them were, without great danger and severe effort, which soon caused exhaustion. The fact of the cold water proving so fatal to poor Bennett—who was a swimmer—tells how it must have affected others.

Respectfully, LOCKE & LOND.

H. E. BECKETT DROPS DEAD

Was Driving Calf Up Melcum Grade When End Came.

Harry E. Beckett, son-in-law of Add Cahill, was found dead on the Melcum grade Monday afternoon, about 2:30 by George Hixson and George Goodwin, who were driving over the road with a hack.

Mr. Beckett had left home early Monday morning on horseback to recover a stray calf on the Patit. About 1 o'clock he passed the Hatley place and talked a while with Mr. Hatley, then proceeded up the Melcum grade with his calf. It seems that when about half way up the grade the animal tried to run back down the road and Mr. Beckett got off his horse to head it off. He finally succeeded in getting the animal headed for home and instead of remounting his horse, walked in the road, leading his horse. His dog assisted in keeping the calf going. He had traveled this way for some distance as his footprints showed in dust, and had almost reached the summit, when he fell forward dead, in the road, as there was no evidence of a struggle. When found he was lying on his face, with one arm stretched out and the other folded under his breast. His horse stood by and his dog lay at his head.

When found Messrs. Hixson and Goodwin drove hurriedly back to Hatley's, from which place a phone call was sent in for the coroner.

Sheriff Wooten, Coroner Andy Knight and Dr. Brunjes, in Grant Burkhart's car immediately left to investigate. No inquest was held, as it was evident that Mr. Beckett had died of heart disease, with which he had been afflicted for several years. The coroner and sheriff started for the city with the remains and were met on the road by Undertaker C. R. Rogg, who brought the body to his undertaking parlors.

Mr. Beckett was 35 years of age and was born in this county. For several years he was a resident of Whitman county, and was a graduate of the State College. He came here eight years ago as local agent for the Kerr-Gifford Co. After that company retired Mr. Beckett took charge of his father-in-law's farm on Eckler Mountain and during the past two years has been a resident of the mountain. He was farming successfully. He was a member of the K. P. and Odd Fellows lodges and was well liked by all his associates.

Mr. Beckett is survived by his wife and a little daughter, his father and mother in Whitman county, and three sisters, one at home in Whitman county, another in Canada and the third in Oregon.

It is expected that funeral services will not be held until tomorrow, as relatives at a distance cannot reach Dayton before that time.

She was a life member of the Order of Eastern Star and a member of the First Congregational church. Mrs. Newton served on local election boards for over 40 years and during World War I served on the War Registration Board.

Dayton Hotel

This grand building across the street from Fraternity Hall was built in 1890 and was a hub of activity for residents and visitors alike.

In the picture the man standing at the corner of the building was Will McCleary, the bookkeeper for the Broughton Land Company founded by C.J. Broughton, his brother-in-law. Every weekday Will and his cronies would gather at the corner to watch for the arrival of the train at the depot one block north. They would check their pocket watches to see if the train was on time.

Standing patiently by the hotel was a horse and hack also waiting for the train. Upon hearing the arrival of the train the horse would proceed, unaccompanied, to the depot. The station master would load baggage onto the hack, sending the horse back to the hotel.

The two upper stories of the hotel were removed in the early 1960's The lower floor is now the site of the Elk Drug Store and the Pacific Power Company.

20 Mar 1920

Buys Hotel Lease.

County Treasurer Mrs. Blanche Beckett has purchased a five-year lease on Hotel Dayton from John Borofsky, who has been identified with that establishment for 21 years. Mr. Borofsky, who has large farming interests in this county, will retire from active business and Mrs. Beckett will take personal charge of the hotel the first of April.

Mrs. Beckett, who has successively served the county as assessor and treasurer, and in doing so has won the name of having the most efficient offices in the state, will continue to direct the business of the treasurer's office for the rest of the term, though it will be in charge of the deputy, Miss Bertha Dillingham. Mrs. Beckett will dispose of her home as soon as possible, so that she may devote herself more entirely to the success of this new venture. She will make numerous improvements in the establishment from time to time, and will have the dining room open almost at once. She will undoubtedly receive the very cordial support of the public in this, as the lack of a dining room at the hotel has been most keenly felt.

Columbia County Dispatch

Judge Chester F. Miller

The next to come to stay were Sam Gilbreath and his young wife, and John Wells and Tom Davis, both bachelors, who came in August, 1859. Gilbreath took up a homestead and built his first cabin where the trails entered the valley, this would be where the Smith orchard is now located. Tom Davis bought a location from Stubbs and built a cabin in the vicinity of the Railroad Primary: Wells also bought a location from Stubbs and built across the Touchet from the mouth of the Patit. Lambert Hearn and wife came in October, first locating where the Columbia school house now stands but afterwards selling out to the Paynes and moving to the Hearn homestad across the Touchet from Dayton.

Jesse N. Day was among those who located and returned to the valley for his family; he did not return until the fall of 1860. His claim was where the Chandler slaughter house is now located. He looked over the present site of Dayton, but afraid that Chase and LaFontain might return and make him trouble, and located furthur down. Many of those who made their locations in the spring came back in the fall, and built cabins. The settlers of 1859, traveling from the crossing down the Touchet were as follows: Wells, Davis, Hearn, Gilbreath, John Forsyth at the Angell place, James Dill at Pomona, James Bennett at the Bateman place, Joe Starr at the Starr bridge, Dave Fudge at the Blize place, George Pollard just below, and James Fudge on Whiskey creek.

They were all bachelors except Gilbreath and Hearn, so that we had two white women in Columbia county at that time, although Dill was a widower and had one boy with him. (NOTE: the lady searching James Bennett says James Dill was a father-in-law to James Bennett.)

LEWIS AND CLARK STATE PARK

The park land was a part of a 160 acre homestead of James Bennett in 1859. Harvey Barker Bateman traded Mr. Bennett a team and wagon for the homestead rights to the land in 1867. In March of 1869, Mr. Bateman moved his family from the Willamette Valley to the homestead. Their new home was a small cabin built by Mr. Bennett. It was soon enlarge to meet the reequirements of the Bateman family. There was only a trail to the cabin when the Bateman's moved, and many of the little saplings bent double when the wheels of the wagon ran over them. Those trees though 80 feet tall and over a hundred years old today, still have a slight bend in the tops. The Bateman's found the land full of spings, covered with timber, and lush with tall grass. The proberty is bounded by the north by the Touchet river.

On Dec 1, 1869, Mr. Bateman received a deed to the land, signed by Ulysses S. Grant,

Hi Liz,

Yes, I would like copies of all that you have. RE: the Johnsons, I believe Gretchen moved here as a young girl with her mother and 2 brothers and I think they lived in Starbuck. One of the boys was named Tisdale or Tizdale (he later became a Montana cowboy, near Great Falls, I think). If there's something of interest you can lay your hands on about them, I'd appreciate it. Gretchen's parents were John Alfred Johnson (born in Sweden 6/24/1852) and Anna Rinkel (born in St. Peter, MN 11/26/1864). John ended up in Port Angeles, where he died in 1927; Anna died in Port Townsend, 1934. They were married 5/28 either 1882 or 1883, and may have been divorced by the time they died. Anyway, I've heard Anna moved out here alone with her 3 youngest children, so this would have been some time after 1905. Gretchen used to play basketball with her future sister-in-law Gai (Abraham) Roos when they were in high school.

Do you have any record of my dad's birth? Glenn Deane Abraham, Jr., born at home in Starbuck, Dec 24, 1924; his twin, Donald, did not survive long thereafter.

OBITUARY

Marion F. Beeson

Funeral services for Marion F. Beeson, resident of Columbia county for nearly 50 years, who died Tuesday of last week, were held from the Hubbard-Rogg chapel Friday afternoon at two o'clock with Rev. Frank Van Doren of the First Christian church in charge.

The deceased was born in Kansas nearly 69 years ago, and came west when he was 17 years old. He first came to the home of his brother, the late C. L. Beeson of Walla Walla county, and later settled in Columbia county where he was married to Kate Grove. He followed farming throughout his residence here.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Kate Beeson, Mr. Beeson is survived by nine children: Mrs. Fred Van Nostrum, Dayton; Mrs. Minnie Morrison and Mrs. Eula Fisher, Cashmere; Mrs. Luella Barhan, Calgary, Mrs. Imogene Hollenbeck and Miss Jessie Beeson, Seattle; Mrs. Ted Reavis, Prescott; Jim Beeson, Starbuck, and Gene Beeson, Yakima. Lester Beeson, who died a year or so ago, was also a son. Mr. Beeson also leaves a half brother, A. M. Warfield, and a half sister, Mrs. G. L. Beeson, Walla Walla, and eight grandchildren.

1 May 1952

Mrs. Donohue Has 97th B-Day

Mrs. Jersey V. Donohue was honored on the occasion of her 97th birthday, Monday, at an informal family gathering at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Donohue.

Mrs. Donohue in spite of her very great age retains a remarkable degree of faculties and among those most astonishing is her memory of old songs and her singing voice. Always on those occasions when the family gets together they like to sing, and on Monday's gathering she sang right along with the rest of them and tickled all of them with her ability.

Her birthday cake was decorated with three candles which were explained as being representative of the three years until she is 100.

Here for the occasion besides the local members of the family were Dennis and Carl Donohue of Spokane, sons, and a daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Henneigh of Coulee City. Another guest was Mrs. Kate Beeson of this city, a niece.

5 Aug 1943

Mrs. V. L. Backus

Mrs. V. L. Backus, 51, former Dayton resident, died at Bonners Ferry, Idaho Monday morning. Funeral services were held from the Hubbard-Rogg chapel Thursday at 2:30 p. m., with the Rev. W. H. Monroe of the Methodist church officiating, and interment was made at the family plot in the Dayton cemetery.

Mary Evelyn Backus was born in Columbia county near Alto May 23, 1892. She was reared in this community, but lived for many years at Troy, Montana. She had moved to Bonners Ferry just a month ago.

Survivors include her husband, V. L. Backus, Bonners, Ferry; her mother, Mrs. Kate Beeson, Dayton; a brother, E. A. Beeson, Yakima; and six sisters, Mrs. W. B. Chapman, Alaska; Mrs. S. W. Barhan and Mrs. A. H. Goracke, Seattle; Mrs. O. A. Fraker, Vancouver, Washington; Mrs. Ted Reavis, Prescott; and Mrs. D. L. Fisher, Cashmere.

21 Apr 1938

James M. Beeson

James Beeson, 32, of this city died in a Tacoma auto park cabin late Thursday. He had been ailing in health for several weeks and was taken to the coast city only last week for medical treatment.

Survivors include his widow, Shirley, who was with him; his mother, Mrs. Kate Beeson of Dayton, a brother, Eugene, of Yakima, and seven sisters.

Beeson was born in 1906 in Walla Walla county. He later moved to Columbia county and spent the remainder of his life here.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Hubbard-Rogg chapel. Pallbearers were Zack Zink, Allen Sprout, Harold Lindley, Bob Lingo, Jim Reavis and A. Brooksbank. Interment was made in the Dayton cemetery.

The picture above and the following remarks came to us through the courtesy of The Bellingham Herald:

DOESN'T FAZE HER—Many a husky man would be a bit dismayed at the size of this woodpile and the prospect of having to split and store it, but not 85-year-old Mrs. Laura Benson. She showed the Herald photographer and reporter just how to go about it. When the photographer had some idea of "staging" the picture and started to sink the axe into the hunk of wood, Mrs. Benson hauled off and gave it a good swing and buried the blade in the wood. Even though she did sort of dress up for this picture, to appear on her birthday, she took the proper grip on the axe handle and got the wood properly poised on the chopping block. Mrs. Benson has chopped wood since she was a child and still splits and stores it away at her home on Roland street.—Herald staff photo.
