Mr. Gibson, during the civil war, was a member of the Missouri Home Guards, being first lieutenant of his company. He saw service both arduous and dangerous; more so, in some respects, than that of the ordinary volunteer soldier or regular; since his was to protect the homes from guerrilla warfare. During the latter part of the war Mr Gibson was elected sheriff and served one term, declining a second term which was offered him.

He moved in 1872, with his family to Oregon. settling in Polk county, near Zena and not many miles from Salem There he lived five years, moving then to the state of Washington, stopping first at Walla Walla and next, in 1879, he located at his last home near Dayton. In the twenty years he has been in Columbia county he has become one of its widely known citizens. For him to be widely known was to be widely loved.

Honesty and integrity and charity shone conspicuously in his character. But he was more than honest and public spirited. Bro. Gibson was a Christian. He became such by a personal faith in Christ, thirty-three years ago. He immediately afterward became a member of the Baptist church, and, as such, has remained in good standing. He loved his Bible and studied it much, especially during the last few months. For many years he has suffered, but patience has marked it all. Death to him was surely a sweet release. His house was set in order. He was ready. He is gone from earth; but his memory abides. His life, his example is before us.

His funeral was held from the Central Baptist church on Sunday afternoon, October 15. The writer, in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Weber, conducted the services. Text: I Cor. 15:55.

History
Of Southeastern Washington
1906
"Garfield County"

GEORGE D. GIBSON, a wealthy stockman of Pomeroy is one of the early settlers of southeastern Washington who is now retired largely from active business, having passed a career filled with enterprise and adventure of the most stirring asd successful kind. He was born in Pike county, Illinois, in August, 1840, the son of Davis and Sophronia (Ingles) Gibson. The father was born in St. Charles county, Missouri, on July 31, 1812, and settled in Pike county in 1834. He crossed the plains to Oregon in 1849 and in 1850 returned to Illinois. The next year he brought his family to Polk county, Oregon, and died there on January 12, 1893. The mother was born in Bangor, Maine, in March, 1815. Her father, Israel Ingles, was also born in Maine and followed the saddler business and died about 1835. Her mother was descended from a family of nobility. She had married in November, 1839, and is still living in Polk county. Mr. Gibson has the following brothers and sisters, Albert B., born December 8, 1842, and now living in Polk county; Cass, born in 1848; Lyman D., born in Polk county, Oregon, in 1853; Almira B., born in Pike county, Illinois, on June 8, 1845, and now the wife of Rev. T. H. Starbuck, an Adventist minister; Sarah, born in Polk county in 1858, the wife of W. Patrick. Our subject had a limited opportunity to gain an education, having to walk five miles to school in the winter. When nineteen, he clerked in the store of J. B. Butler, a cousin of General B. F. Butler. On December 11, 1861, he enlisted in the first Oregon Cavalry, Company B, as sergeant. In May, 1862, he was sent to Walla Walla then across the plains to protect emigrants. The next year he was ordered to Lapwai to treat with Chief Joseph, the father of the present Chief Joseph. In March, 1864, the Indians became hostile and he went with others to quiet them, Lieutenant Watson being in command of the soldiers together with fifty friendly Warm Spring Indians. They met the savages at Crooked river and gave battle, and Lieutenant Watson with a number of the others was killed. Our subject was discharged on December 11, 1864, at Vancouver. Soon after that he was married and settled in Clackamas county, Oregon, until 1872, being engaged in farming. Then he came to Columbia county, Washington, with his brother-in-law, S. R. Taylor, and took up the sheep business. In 1878, he moved to Dayton and there was deputy sheriff under R. P. Steen. In 1880, he was nominated for sheriff by the Democrats but lost the election by seven votes. The county was one hundred and fifty Republican. In 1882, Mr. Gibson moved to Pomeroy and took charge of the planing mill, then was city marshal and recorder for seven years, after which he engaged in the sheep business with R. P. Steen in Nez Perces county, Idaho. After this partnership was dissolved, he brought his stock to Washington to the Grande Ronde river. In 1893, Mr. Gibson formed a partnership with his son-in-law, G. L. Campbell, the concern being known as the Gibson-Campbell Land and Live Stock Company, incorporated. They bought government and railroad land until they had twenty sections, which today is one of the largest fields of fenced grazing land in the state of Washington. The land was sold lately to Mr. Campbell for twenty thousand dollars and he is now living a retired life in Pomeroy. Mr. Gibson has two beautiful residences in Pomeroy, and also some farm land in the Willamette valley.

On December 22, 1864, at Clackamas, Oregon, Mr. Gibson married Miss Leura, daughter of Benjamin and Mary (Oden) Homesly. The father was born in Tennessee, in 1818, crossed the plains in 1852, is still living in Clackamas county, Oregon, and has followed blacksmithing all his life. The mother was born in Warren county, Missouri, in 1823, and died crossing the plains in 1852. Mrs. Gibson was born in Warren county, Missouri, in 1848, and has one sister, Sarah, born in the same county, in 1851, now the wife of S. R. Taylor. To Mr. and Mrs. Gibson the following children have been born, May M., October 16, 1865, in Clackamas county, Oregon, now the wife of C. S. Jerard, a prominent business man of Dayton, who has served two terms as representative in the state legislature; Albertia, born on August 1, 1868, and the wife of G. L. Campbell, a prominent business man at Pomeroy; Ralph R., born November 25, 1877, and married June 7, 1903, to Georgie Harris; Sarah S., born November 25, 1877, and the wife of T. C. Nye, second salesman of Tull & Gibbs, of Spokane; Emery E., born February 25, 1879, an invalid as the result of pneumonia.

During his term of service in the sheriff's office, Mr. Gibson had much difficult and trying work to perform and was always sent when it was necessary to capture desperate characters, there being many of them in the country at that time. He was known as a determined, cool and courageous man, who never failed to bring his prisoner. In 1862, when Mr. Gibson was passing from Pomeroy to the sheep ranch, he stopped with Frank Sherry, at the City Hotel, in Asotin, Washington. That night a man by the name of Meyers, who was afterward hanged in Pomeroy, set the hotel on fire and Sherry was burned to death. Mr. Gibson barely escaped with his life, being forced to jump from the chamber window. He was badly burned. Pg 590-592

Of

GEORGE D. GIBSON, a wealthy stockman of Pomeroy is one of the early settlers of southeastern Washington who is now retired largely from active business, having passed a career filled with enterprise and adventure of the most stirring asd successful kind. He was born in Pike county, Illinois, in August, 1840, the son of Davis and Sophronia (Ingles) Gibson. The father was born in St. Charles county, Missouri, on July 31, 1812, and settled in Pike county in 1834. He crossed the plains to Oregon in 1849 and in 1850 returned to Illinois. The next year he brought his family to Polk county, Oregon, and died there on January 12, 1893. The mother was born in Bangor, Maine, in March, 1815. Her father, Israel Ingles, was also born in Maine and followed the saddler business and died about 1835. Her mother was descended from a family of nobility. She had married in November, 1839, and is still living in Polk county. Mr. Gibson has the following brothers and sisters, Albert B., born December 8, 1842, and now living in Polk county; Cass, born in 1848; Lyman D., born in Polk county, Oregon, in 1853; Almira B., born in Pike county, Illinois, on June 8, 1845, and now the wife of Rev. T. H. Starbuck, an Adventist minister; Sarah, born in Polk county in 1858, the wife of W. Patrick. Our subject had a limited opportunity to gain an education, having to walk five miles to school in the winter. When nineteen, he clerked in the store of J. B. Butler, a cousin of General B. F. Butler. On December 11, 1861, he enlisted in the first Oregon Cavalry, Company B, as sergeant. In May, 1862, he was sent to Walla Walla then across the plains to protect emigrants. The next year he was ordered to Lapwai to treat with Chief Joseph, the father of the present Chief Joseph. In March, 1864, the Indians became hostile and he went with others to quiet them, Lieutenant Watson being in command of the soldiers together with fifty friendly Warm Spring Indians. They met the savages at Crooked river and gave battle, and Lieutenant Watson with a number of the others was killed. Our subject was discharged on December 11, 1864, at Vancouver. Soon after that he was married and settled in Clackamas county, Oregon, until 1872, being engaged in farming. Then he came to Columbia county, Washington, with his brother-in-law, S. R. Taylor, and took up the sheep business. In 1878, he moved to Dayton and there was deputy sheriff under R. P. Steen. In 1880, he was nominated for sheriff by the Democrats but lost the election by seven votes. The county was one hundred and fifty Republican. In 1882, Mr. Gibson moved to Pomeroy and took charge of the planing mill, then was city marshal and recorder for seven years, after which he engaged in the sheep business with R. P. Steen in Nez Perces county, Idaho. After this partnership was dissolved, he brought his stock to Washington to the Grande Ronde river. In 1893, Mr. Gibson formed a partnership with his son-in-law, G. L. Campbell, the concern being known as the Gibson-Campbell Land and Live Stock Company, incorporated. They bought government and railroad land until they had twenty sections, which today is one of the largest fields of fenced grazing land in the state of Washington. The land was sold lately to Mr. Campbell for twenty thousand dollars and he is now living a retired life in Pomeroy. Mr. Gibson has two beautiful residences in Pomeroy, and also some farm land in the Willamette valley.

On December 22, 1864, at Clackamas, Oregon, Mr. Gibson married Miss Leura, daughter of Benjamin and Mary (Oden) Homesly. The father was born in Tennessee, in 1818, crossed the plains in 1852, is still living in Clackamas county, Oregon, and has followed blacksmithing all his life. The mother was born in Warren county, Missouri, in 1823, and died crossing the plains in 1852. Mrs. Gibson was born in Warren county, Missouri, in 1848, and has one sister, Sarah, born in the same county, in 1851, now the wife of S. R. Taylor. To Mr. and Mrs. Gibson the following children have been born, May M., October 16, 1865, in Clackamas county, Oregon, now the wife of C. S. Jerard, a prominent business man of Dayton, who has served two terms as representative in the state legislature; Albertia, born on August 1, 1868, and the wife of G. L. Campbell, a prominent business man at Pomeroy; Ralph R., born November 25, 1877, and married June 7, 1903, to Georgie Harris; Sarah S., born November 25, 1877, and the wife of T. C. Nye, second salesman of Tull & Gibbs, of Spokane; Emery E., born February 25, 1879, an invalid as the result of pneumonia.

During his term of service in the sheriff's office, Mr. Gibson had much difficult and trying work to perform and was always sent when it was necessary to capture desperate characters, there being many of them in the country at that time. He was known as a determined, cool and courageous man, who never failed to bring his prisoner. In 1862, when Mr. Gibson was passing from Pomeroy to the sheep ranch, he stopped with Frank Sherry, at the City Hotel, in Asotin, Washington. That night a man by the name of Meyers, who was afterward hanged in Pomeroy, set the hotel on fire and Sherry was burned to death. Mr. Gibson barely escaped with his life, being forced to jump from the chamber window. He was badly burned. Pg 590-592

GIBSON, EDWIN W., of Pomeroy, Wash., is a native son of Oregon, having been born at The Dalles in 1870. His father, Daniel D. Gibson, was a merchant and a native of Carolina, his mother being from Indiana. Edwin was educated in the States of Oregon and Washington, and on the completion of his studies located in what was then (1879) Columbia, but is now Garfield. Here he taught school, was clerk in the Sheriff's office, and engaged in other occupations. He accepted the appointment of County Clerk in 1891, to hold office until January, 1893, and was elected to the same office in 1892. He is the owner of valuable real estate in the city, is a member of the National Guard, and prominent among the young men of Pomeroy. He is the senior member of the firm of Gibson & King, real-estate brokers, an enterprising firm which does a good business in the line to which they devote themselves. Pg 582

THIS WAS THEIR TIME

Florence E. Sherfey

One day it was disclosed that the Pomeroy's were divorced. The little town rocked in dismay and everyone was undeniably shocked. Yet, like most people hearing such news which startles for a while, they recovered quickly. The ones who knew them best understood and wisely let it go at that.

Shortly afterwards, Harry St. George "took charge of the Pomeroy Hotel, September 1, 1881, and on September 8,1881, married Martha Pomeroy".

Before long, Joseph Pomeroy remarried also, taking Melinda Gibson, the former Mrs. Ed Gibson, as his wife.

This article is from the February 2, 1906 edition of the East Washingtonian, entitled, "When the Railroad Came to Pomeroy—1886."

"There was no formal celebration but a large crowd assembled to watch the incoming of the first passenger coach.

"The actual last spike on the railroad was driven by the mayor of the city, (J. M. Pomeroy) and among those present were: Judge Butler of the probate court, H. C. Thompson and family, C. W. Fitzsimmons, A. H. Mendenhall, W. C. Darby, Chas. Mowry, Joe Clary, Geo. Gibson, Postmaster N. C. Baldwin and Walter Dixon, now sheriff of the county; Mrs. Ella DeBow, John Bauch, Joseph Ledgerwood and many others.

JUDGE E.V. KUYKENDALL

About this time the citizens of Pomeroy became interested in the matter of incorporating the town. On Monday evening of December 28, 1885, a number of the taxpayers of Pomeroy held a meeting in Burlingame's Hall to discuss the subject of incorporation. The branch line of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company from Starbuck to Pomeroy was then in process of construction. Grading and track laying had approached so close to the town that the whistling of the construction train could be heard down the valley. The people were jubilant over the prospect of a new era of growth and prosperity. A bill had been introduced in the Territorial Legislature incorporating the town of Pomeroy. As a result of the taxpayers' meeting, a committee of six, consisting of M.E. Gose, Dr. G.B. Kuykendall, R.L. Rush, G.D. Gibson, James O'Connor and James H. Robinson were appointed to examine the incorporation bill then pending in the legislature, and to propose such amendments as might be deemed advisable, or to draft an entirely new bill. A large majority of those present favored incorporating. The committee appointed immediately began work to prepare a charter that would be workable and at the same time meet the views of a majority of the people. Through the joint efforts of the committee and the local members of the legislature, a charter for the city was agreed upon, which passed the Territorial Council on January 27, 1886, four days after the railroad reached Pomeroy. On February 2nd, the measure passed the House.

The old territorial charter proved a very satisfactory document for the efficient functioning of our municipal activities for many years. However, the difficulty of amending it to meet modern conditions induced our people by majority vote to discard it and place the town under the statutory regulations pertaining to cities of the third class. This vote was taken May 28, 1917. Since then Pomeroy has been a city of the third class. The first meeting of the Pomeroy Council under the old territorial charter was held February 10, 1886. The officers named in the charter were J.M. Pomeroy, Mayor; C.B. Foote, John Brady, W.J. Schmidt, R.A. Rew and Jay Lynch, Councilmen. At the first meeting R.A. Rew resigned and S.G. Cosgrove was appointed in his place. Frank E. Williamson was selected by the council as city recorder. At the second meeting, February 11, 1886, Mr. Williamson tendered his resignation. The following officers were appointed by the council at this meeting: Recorder, C.H. DeBow; Attorney, M.F. Gose; Justice of the Peace, W.S. Newland; Marshal, G.D. Gibson. The first town election in Pomeroy was held Monday, July 12, 1886 and resulted as follows: Mayor, Elmon Scott; Councilmen, John Brady, C.A. McCabe, D.C. Gardner, S.K. Hull and Jay Lynch. An old history of this region records the fact that in 1899 the late Chester Kuykendall was local correspondent for the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and wrote the following paragraph which was published in that paper:

Pg 40

The Garfield County Standard was established about 1907 by Mr. Bangs and E.W. Gibson, and part of the time an Englishman by the name of Maurice O. Fitzmorris was connected with it. This paper figured in a spectacular libel suit in 1908, which resulted in the prosecution of Fitzmorris on a charge of perjury, of which he was acquitted by the jury. After several years of a rather stormy career, the paper was sold to Peter McClung of the East Washingtonian.

Another paper, The Pataha Farmer, had a short existence and was also absorbed by The East Washingtonian.

Here are a few more items from the early school records:

March 10, 1894, Irwin ordered to put pump in well, a bucket having been used heretofore. June 6, 1894. Resolved: Hereafter no teacher shall attempt to induce children to attend any particular church. February 5, 1895. The following played hookey: Ed Dickson, Walter Gammon, Dudley Strain, Ralph Gibson, Jennie Morrow, Sophronia Gibson, Jennie Hull and Gertrude Melton. They were suspended by Professor Yerkes, and, after a reprimand by the school board, they were reinstated, after promising not to repeat the offense.
