

JAMES G WOODEND

Old Walla Walla Co. Vol II. Lyman's History 1918

JAMES G. WOODEND:

James G. Woodend was one of the prominent farmers of southeastern Washington for many years and won a substantial measure of success by reason of the careful manner in which he developed his fields and managed his business affairs. He was a native of England and came to America when a young man of twentyseven years. He did not tarry on the Atlantic coast but made his away across the country and took up his abode in Columbia county, Washington, at Starbuck. Here he occupied the position of section foreman for nineteen years and on the expiration of that period turned his attention to agricultural pursuits, purchasing a farm which he at once began to further develop and improve. Year after year he carefully tilled the soil and his plowing and planting, with the careful cultivation of his fields, brought to him substantial harvests which sold at a good figure. He was thus busily and successfully engaged in general farming up to the time of his death. In the intervening years he had added to his holdings as opportunity offered until he had become the owner of sixteen hundred acres of land which is still in possession of his widow, the greater part being wheat land. He was regarded as one of the most prominent men in the valley and his life work indicates what can be accomplished in the way of wheat production in this section of the state. Moreover, his history shows clearly what can be attained by honorable purpose and indefatigable energy.

In 1886 Mr. Woodend was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Bellingham, a native of England, who came to America in the same year. To them were born six children: Isabel, the wife of F. F. Kent; Anna M., who is living in Spokane; Robert G., who follows farming; Thomas S., at home; Marguerite V., the wife of A. J. Burke; and Mildred A., who is a student in the high school at Spokane.

The death of the husband and father occurred on September 21, 1915, and his remains were interred in the Starbuck cemetery. He left a widow and six children to mourn his loss, his demise being also a matter of deep regret to his many friends who sincerely esteemed him. He possessed many sterling traits of character, was thoroughly reliable in business, was public spirited in citizenship, held friendship inviolable and was devoted to the welfare and happiness of his wife and children. Mrs. Woodend still owns and manages her farm property and in fact has added to the sixteen hundred acres left by her husband, making an additional purchase of six hundred and twenty acres, also in Columbia county, so that she now owns over two thousand two hundred acres of valuable land in this section of the state.

History Of Southeastein Washington 1906

JAMES G. WOODEND has displayed qualities in his career here for the last twentyfive years which demonstrated beyond a doubt that he is a man of wisdom and judgment. He also is happily possessed of a determination and stability that have enabled him to continue in his labors until the success he was aiming at crowned his efforts. He is a native of Ulverston, England, and was born on December 14, 1853. His parents were also natives of the same country as he. They were industrious and respected people, but the father was called from his home and family by death when James was a child. Therefore he saw much of the hard side of life in his younger years, but managed to secure a fair education and remained in his own country until 1880. Then he set his face to the west and soon we see him in Dakota. But a short time was spent there, and he journeyed on to Portland. He soon entered the employ of the O. R. & N. and was located at Starbuck. He operated the section and was foreman in that capacity for many years. While he was laboring, he was also a man of economy and saved a portion of each year's earnings. In 1883, he had enough to purchase a quarter section, which is the land on which Starbuck now stands. He sold that, but still owns an addition to that town, known as Woodend's addition. Each year he added to his purchases, wisely selecting that which would be of value more and more as the years went by. Twenty years were spent in the employ of the railroad company and by the end of that time he had secured a large estate of twelve hundred acres of land adjoining the town of Starbuck. He has it partly improved and utilizes it largely for pasture for horses and cattle. Ten acres are planted to orchard and the productions of this each year alone make a handsome income. Mr. Woodend gives his entire attention to the management of his estate and is successful, since the same wisdom that secured it is put forth in its management.

In 1887, Mr. Woodend married Miss Marguerite Bellingham, who was born in England. She came to Starbuck in 1887. Her parents, Robert and Isabella Bellingham, were both born in England and there reside now. To this happy union the following children have been born, Isabella, Annie M., Robert G., Thomas S., Marguerite V., and Mildred A. Mr. Woodend has won the esteem of all who know him and his career has been so wisely directed that he has the satisfaction of knowing the past has many victories and triumphs while he is now in the quiet enjoyment of his portion, the competence his labors provided.

History Of. Washington Vol II 1893 Julian Fawthorne - Editor

WOODRUFF, FRANK B., of Tacoma, is a living evidence of the value of selfhelp, showing how persevering effort may raise a man by slow but sure degrees from the lowest round of the business ladder to position and opulence. Mr. Woodruff was born in Bridgeton, Cumberland County, N. J., August 29th, 1848. Receiving his preparatory education in the public schools of his native town, he completed his studies at the West Jersey Academy. At the early age of sixteen he became an errand boy in the employ of Reeves, Parvin & Co., of Philadelphia, wholesale grocers, and remained with them for a quarter of a century. Thanks to his faithful attention to business, he was gradually promoted from time to time. until after sixteen years of service he became in 1881 a partner in the house, and so continued up to February 1st, 1890, when he withdrew from the firm, disposing of his interest to his partners. Imbued with the idea that there was a larger field for the acquisition of wealth in the Northwest, he came to Tacoma, and after a thorough examination of various locations, finally purchased an interest in the Tacoma Grocery Company. He sold his interests and retired from that company March 1st, 1893. On March 12th, 1893, he was elected President and General Manager of the Pacific Commercial Company, an institution organized for doing an export and import business with China and Japan, in which business he is now successfully engaged. Mr. Woodruff was married October 30th, 1871, to Miss Martha L. Harned, of Philadelphia. Five children-three sons and two daughters-have been born to them, of whom a daughter and a son have passed away. He is the President of the Commercial Club, and was one of the founders of that organization. Though often urged to accept political office, Mr. Woodruff has invariably declined such overtures.

Woodruff, Mary A., widow of James Woodruff, deceased, of Waitsburg, Wash., whose fine farm is located near Waitsburg, and conducted under the superintendence of her brother-in-law, Mr. Shell, was born in Jackson County, Ind., in 1835, her parents being natives of the same State. Elizabeth Cox was the maiden name of her mother. They removed to Iowa in 1841, coming from thence across the plains in 1864, and settling in Walla Walla County. Mrs. Woodruff's early education was obtained in the public schools of Indiana, then very indifferent at the best. She shared the hardships of her parents in a long journey across the plains, and was married in November following her arrival to Mr. James Woodruff, a native of Connecticut. They were obliged to fly to the Willamette Valley during the Indian War, but returned and located on the homestead now occupied by the widow. Her husband died of a lingering fever in 1881. She still cherishes his memory as a man dear to the community, industrious and well-to-do. His estate, left solely to his widow—for they were childless—is estimated at $50,000. It includes a farm of seven hundred acres, shares in various corporations, not to mention personal property of considerable value. No woman in the community is more highly respected than Mrs. Woodruff.

History Of Southeastern Washington

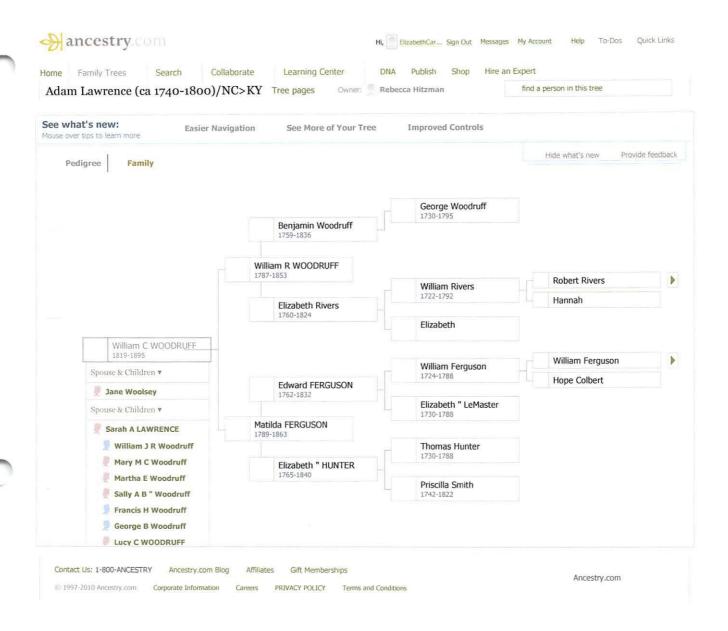

LAFAYETTE WOODRUFF, M. D., who is well known in Asotin and adjoining counties, is a physician of broad experience and skill and stands at the head of a large practice in this county. His offices are in Asotin and he is recognized by all as one of the prominent men and leading citizens of this municipality, while also he is classed with the progressive ones who labor for the general upbuilding. His success is the result of conscientious and constant research and the greatest care bestowed upon each individual case that comes under his care. He is a man who slights nothing and the real science of medicine is his first love.

LaFayette Woodruff was born in Ontario, Canada, on December 4, 1859, the son of Nelson and Margreti (Barnum) Woodruff, natives of Canada, where the father is engaged in the manufacturing business. After completing the common school course in Brougham, Canada, he attended the county high school and then matriculated in Pickering college. After completing this course, he entered the Trinity Medical College in Toronto, and two years later went to Detroit, Michigan, where he graduated from the medical college in 1883. He at once began the practice of medicine in Troy, Michigan, continuing there for eight years. Then he came west, locating in Asotin where he has continued since. He has steadily continued in the practice of his profession and has often been called to advise in some of the most intricate cases of the country. He has twice been elected coroner of the county but has refused to qualify. He is county physician at this time and is a faithful officer. In addition to his practice, the doctor is interested in the Thunder Mountain mining properties, being one of the stockholders in the famous Diamond Chief, which is showing to be one of the greatest copper and gold properties in the already famous camp.

At Troy, Michigan, in 1886. Dr. Wood-ruff married Miss Minnie F. Bingham, the daughter of James S. and Mary F. (Hannah) Bingham, natives of Ireland and New York, respectively and early pioneers to Michigan. Mrs. Woodruff was born in Troy, Michigan and is the mother of two children; Ona Hazel, born in Troy, April 16, 1888; and Floyd N., born in Asotin, Washington, on June 22, 1890. Dr. Woodruff has one brother, Washington, clerk of Asotin county, and one sister, of Toronto, Canada. Dr. Woodruff is examining physician of all the old line insurance companies and fraternally, is a member of the W. W. His people were all members of the Friends' society, commonly known as Quakers. He is a man of excellent standing and has won many friends, in addition to making a splendid success in his profession.

MRS. ANNIE MUNCY

Mrs. J. W. Clark of Seattle sends word that her mother, Mrs. Annie Muncy, widow of the late William Muncy, died in Seattle, April 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Muncy lived on a farm here more than 50 years ago and their children attended the Dayton schools. Mrs. Muncy retained extensive farming interests in Columbia county throughout her life and frequently visited here, often spending several months of each year in Dayton. A daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Krause, died in Dayton several years ago.

It is not known who of her children besides Mrs. Clark survive. She leaves several grandchildren. 11 Mey 1967

Mrs. Woodruff Passes Tuesday

Funeral service for Mrs. Lydia Jane Woodruff, 80, Dayton resident for the past 19 years, was conducted Tuesday evening, May 9, from the Hubbard-Rogg Chapel.

The Rev. Gordon Tritchler of

The Rev. Gordon Tritchler of the Congregational church officiated. Interment will be at her former home in Lexington, Missouri.

Mrs. Woodruff passed away early Tuesday at Dayton General Hospital where she had been a patient for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Woodruff, the former Lydia Jane Shanks, was born January 20, 1887, in Lexington, Missouri. She and Silas Woodruff were married in 1911 and lived in Lexington until he passed away in 1948. Since that time she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Harold Beger.

She was a member of the Trinity Evangelical church of Lexington and the Halpine Society of the Dayton Congregational church.

Members of the family are two sons, Russell Woodruff of Detroit, Mich., and Earl Woodruff of Ventura, Calif.; one daughter, Mrs. Harold (Florence) Boeger of Dayton; four grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Boeger left Tuesday evening for the concluding services at Lexington. 16 Sept 1971

Tates Attend Two Funerals

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Tate of Dayton returned home Wednesday of last week from Portland, Oregon, where they attended funerals of her niece and nephew, Mrs. Pauline Jean Workman Woodruff and Elmo R. Workman

Mrs. Woodruff and Mr. Workman are children of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Abraham, former Dayton residents, now living in Portland. They left Dayton in the 1940's.

Mrs. Woodruff, born July 9, 1925, in Dayton, passed away September 2. Services were held Wednesday, September 8, in Portland. In addition to her parents, family members include her husband, Howard, and seven children.

Mr. Workman, born November 28, 1926, in Riderwood, passed away September 1 in Portland. Funeral rites were conducted September 7, also in Portland.

State of Wassengton By Rea & K Hines DD Sewis Pullicking Co 1894

LBERT C. WOODWARD, an early settler of Garfield county, Washington, where he is an extensive farmer and prominent citizen, respected alike for his industry and upright character, was born seven miles from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, November 16, 1850. His parents, Albert and Orel M. (Pelton) Woodward, were natives of New York and Wisconsin, respectively. In the spring of 1861 they left Wisconsin and crossed the plains to the l'acilic coast. They started for California, but, owing to some dissatisfaction arising in the train with which they traveled, the Woodward family turned aside and came to Washington. The first part of their journey was over the old California trail, but they next turned northward toward Boise City, Idaho, and thence via Malheur, the same Territory, and on by way of the Grande Ronde valley to Walla Walla, Washington. This trip consumed about four months' time, and was fraught with hardships and dangers. On the Malheur river they lost a steer from their team, which caused them great inconvenience, and they would have had trouble with hostile Indians had the little company of emigrants not been accompanied during the most dangerous part of the journey by a Government escort. They remained in Walla Walla, Washington, for a time in the fall, and then proceeded to a point on the Pettit river, about two and a half miles above the site of the present flourishing town of Dayton, which spot was then marked by only one small log house. They remained at their first location during the winter, after which they bought a place about four miles from Dayton, where the parents still reside.

A. C. Woodward, of this notice, was eleven years of age when he came to Washington with his parents, and was familiar with frontier life from his earliest years. He enjoyed such educational advantages as the schools of his vicinity afforded, to which he has since added by extensive reading and varied experience. He learned at home those lessons of thrift and perseverance by which he has gained his present prominent and honorable position. In 1878 he came to what is now Garfield county, where he took up homestead and pre emption claims, and, later, a timber-culture claim of forty acres, and now has 360 acres, 300 of which are cultivated. All the improvements on this property have been made by himself, and now substantial buildings, fruit and shade trees, good barns and other valuable accessories, all typical of prosperity and enterprise, mark the spot which was once an open stock range. Too much credit cannot be rendered to Mr. Woodward for his share in the accomplishment of this transformation, and he is now justly enjoying the result of his labors. March 31, 1878, Mr. Woodward was married in Columbia county, Washington, to Martha Hanan, daughter of Samuel T. Hanan, a prosperous farmer and respected citizen of that county. They have one child, Chelsea Calvin, a promising boy of five.

Politically, Mr. Woodward is a Republican, although in no sense active in public affairs, his time being entirely occupied by the care and management of his personal matters. He is a prominent member of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union, to both of which he has given efficient aid. Few men are as thoroughly identified with the best interests of the county, and no one is more universally respected by his community than Mr. Woodward, to the welfare and advancement of both of which he has contributed by his unwavering enterprise and public spirit.

Old Walla Walla County Syman's History 1918

WILLIAM C. WOODWARD.

William C. Woodward, a resident farmer of Columbia county, Washington, was born February 13, 1862, within the boundaries of the county where he still resides and which has been his home throughout the intervening period. He is a son of Albert and Oral Woodward, of whom mention is made in connection with the sketch of his sister, Mrs. Mary Nichols, on another page of this work. He spent his youthful days under the parental roof and divided his time between the acquirement of an education and work in the fields. His early training under his father's direction acquainted him with the best methods of tilling the soil and caring for the crops, so that valuable experience aided him when, on attaining his majority, he started out in the business world for himself. He began farming and has since been identified with general agricultural pursuits, owning valuable property which he has brought under a high state of cultivation, so that year after year his fields return to him good harvests that bring him a substantial income.

In 1801 Mr. Woodward was united in marriage to Miss Nora Davis, a native of Oregon and a daughter of Daniel and Isabella (Laughlin) Davis. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward have become the parents of six children: Albert D., S. M., O. II., L. S., H. L. and Sarah Alice. The parents are members of the Christian Science church and in his political views Mr. Woodward is a republican. He has served as county commissioner for two terms and has made an excellent record in his devotion to the public welfare. He has also been a member of the school board and the cause of education finds in him a stalwart champion. He has many sterling traits of character, is thoroughly reliable as well as enterprising in the conduct of his farming interests, is progressive in citizenship and loyal in friendship. In fact, he is most faithful to every cause which he espouses, does not hesitate to express his honest convictions and his position upon any important question is never an equivocal one. A resident of what is now Columbia county for fifty-five years, he has been a witness of practically its entire growth and development and is justly numbered among its worthy and honored pioneer settlers.

By

Ward Genekart

The first Woodwards arrived in Dayton in 1860 from Wisconsin, the original Woodward being Albert. Among his sons was W.C. who was born in Columbia County in 1862 and was a brother to Mrs. Frank (Mary C.) Nichols. His first wife was a Rockhill and she died in childbirth. He remarried and there were several Woodward boys and a girl, Sarah (Lyman), but Orley was the only one to become a part of the Covello picture. farmed the Weathford, Bruce, Norling, Carter and a part of the Reed place for many years. He and Vera (Kendall) his wife, reared a daughter who became Mrs. Marlowe Jones. Her son, Richard Woodward Jones and wife, Candace Sue (Ward) have one of the most attractive homes in Columbia County. three children, Richard W. Jr., Christie, and David. home is on the Whetstone and the farmland consists of the Barclay and Frary farms. Richard was just recently selected as the Outstanding Young Farmer of the Year. They told me that they had decided to be buried in the Covello cemetery when they die if it is possible. They hope others will come to appreciate its beauty and atmosphere of peace as they have. # WOODWARD SUFFERS ATTACK BY BULL

Animal In Ill Humor Strikers Farmer, Who Escapes Goring.

Orley Woodward had a disquieting experience with a buil on his farm east of Dayton Thursday, when the animal knocked him down and rolled him around some. Unless there are internal injuries show up, which are not expected, Mr. Woodward had a fortunate escape, as he was only bruised about the chest and head, and had his trousers torn when the bull stepped on one of his legs.

Mr. Woodward was unafraid of the animal and habitually led him around with a halter chain, but this morning the brute was in ill humor and let it get the best of him, finally, and make his attack. Mr. Woodward was getting the animal prepared for showing at the fair at the time the accident occurred.

COUNTY ELECTION RESULT

Democrats Elect Seven Candidates Out of Thirteen.

The county eln was a surprise to many, but was no surprise to the editor of this rag, because, when a set of men calling themselves republicans voted for Poindexter for senator in the primaries, no dependence could be placed in them to voto the republican county ticket. The result was that six republicans out of thirteen candidates were elected. Some had large majorities and some small. Two candidates, prosessing attorney and coroner, had no opposition. Columbia county, however, was not different from other sections of the country. There seems to be a defection everywhere this year in the republican' ranks; and it was caused by the republicans standing in with the insurgents at the primaries.

The following are the totals of each candidate on the county ticket, with two precincts to hear from, McKay and Tumalum, which will not make much change:

Representative—Jackson, 645; Fontaine, 692. Fontaine's majority, 47.

Sheriff—Gemmell 602; Davis, 746. Davis majority 144.

Clerk—Jackson, 523; Clancy, 782. Clancy's majority 259.

Auditor Swart, 725; Gilbreath, 593. Swart's majority, 132.

Treasurer—Beckett, 831; Loundagin 466. Beckett's majority, 365.

Assessor—Power, 573; French, 762. French's majority, 189.

School Superintendent—Morgan, 732 Ayres, 520. Morgan's majority, 212.

**Engineer—Patrick, 580; McBride, 712. McBride's majority, 272.

**Commissioner, 1st Dist.—Brown, 511; Spalinger, 780; Spalinger's majority 269.

Commissioner. 2nd Dist.—Sprout, 642; Thronson 681. Thronson's majority 39.

Commissioner 3rd Dist,—Woodward, 822; Culbertson; 441. Woodward's majority 381.

The republican candidates for judges of the supreme court received large majorities in the county, as also did La Foliette for representative in congress.

Death of Albert Woodward.

Albert Woodward, aged 84 years, 6 months and 9 days, died here last Saturday of senile decay. The funeral took place Sunday at 2 p. m., from the Christian church. The large attendance fully attested the high esteem in which the deceased had been held in this community. Interment was at the Dayton cemetery. Mr. Wood ward was born in New York state in 1821. In early boyhood he removed to Michigan, and later to Wisconsin, where, in 1844, he married Miss Oril Almira Pelton. He followed farming in Wisconsin until 1861, during which time seven children were born, three of whom died in infancy. In the spring of that year he joined a party of about 200 emigrants that drove across the plains with ox teams. The party traveled westward under the protection of a federal escort commanded by Capt. Leroy Crawford and H. E. Maynadier, the national government in 1861 adopting precautionary measures for the security of emigrants from the attacks of Indians. Sept. 25, 1851, Mr. Woodward, with his wife and four children, reached Walla Walla, whose site was then marked by a single log cabin. He passed on to Columbia county, where, on the banks of one of the streams, he spent the winter of great privation and hardship. In the spring of 1862 he settled on 160 acres of unsurveyed government land, by squatter's right. Here another son was born. He afterward took up a preemption of 160 acres, which he sold. In 1882 he removed to Garfield county, but in about a year returned to Columbia county, where he bought a small farm on which he lived for several years. On account of the disability resulting from old age, he had for 12 years found a home with his children in this county. Six years ago his wife died in Dayton. The deceased is survived by five children. Albert C. Woodward and James A. Woodward, both of Okanogan county, and Mrs. Frank Nichols, Mrs. Alice M. Shellwood and W. C. Woodward, all of Dayton.

Mrs. Alice Shellworth.

Mrs. Alice Schellworth, Aged 63 years, passed away at 7:30 o'clock Sat urday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wills of Walla Walla, of dropsy, from which deceased had been suffering for some time. She had been visiting at the Willis home four or five weeks. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William Simpson, of Kalama, Washington; three brothers: J. A. and W. C. Woodward of Dayton and A. C. Woodward of Omak, Wash, and one sister, Mrs. M. C. Nichols of Dayton, The funeral was held at 10 a. m. Monday from Mac Martin & Co.'s undertaking parlors in Walla Walla.

The remains were laid to rest in the family, plot in Walla Walla city cemetery beside those of her husband who passed away many years ago. Mrs Schellworth was well known in this county having come here with her parents in an early day.

Mrs. A. C. Woodward, Early Resident, Dies

Mrs. Albert C. Woodward, early day resident of Dayton, died at the home of her son, C. C. Woodward of Omak, Sunday morning, May 4. Mrs. Woodward's death was caused by pneumonia contracted early in April shortly after she and Mr. Woodward had entertained the Golden Wedding club of that district in celebration of their fifty-second wedding anniversary. Although the disease was broken up in its early stages she suffered a relapse from which she could not recover. Funeral services were held last Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment was made in the Concon-ully cemetery. Martha Jane Hanan was born at Putman, Missouri, March 21, 1860. In 1873 she came west with her parents and first settled in the Oregon country, moving to Dayton in 1875. She lived here until March 31, 1878, when she was married to Albert Woodward, The Woodwards lived on a homestead in the Deadman country for about 17 years and in 1902 went to the Okanogan country where they took up a homestead near Brown Lake. There they developed the Brown Lake irrigation project with John S. Peterson and in 1911 they moved to Omak. Mrs. Woodward is survived by her husband, Albert Woodward, and one son, C. C. Woodward of Omak. She was a member of the Christian church.

Early Resident Taken by Death

Mrs. Mary Nichols Came to County in 1860 — Family Located on Patit—Funeral Held Sat.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Nichols, prominent pioneer resident of Columbia county, who died at Hood River, Oregon, last Thursday. were held from the Hubbard-Rogg chapel of this city Saturday afternoon at two o'clock with the Rev. W. C. Gilmore of the Congregational church in charge. The Rev. Marion McQuary of the First Christian church of Milton, Oregon, assisted with the services, and Mrs. Marion McQuary, and a quartet made up of Mrs. McQuary, Miss Mabel Rinker, the Rev. B. A. Hylton, and H. G. Moe, sang, Many lovely floral offerings from life-long friends of Air... Nichols gave added beauty to the impressive services.

Mary Celia Woodward was born in Wisconsin February 20, 1854. When but six years of age she crossed the plains with her parents. The trip was made by ox-team under government escort and the Woodward family first looked at land in the Walla Walla valley. They considered for a time the site where the city of Walla Walla now stands but decided to come north a little, and took up a homestead on the Patit near the old Range place.

Mary Woodward was married to Isaac W. Monnett June 29, 1869, and to this union three children were born, two of whom, Lizzie Monnett, and Mrs. Grant Low are deceased. Mr. Monnett died December 23, 1876, but the family continued to live on the old homestead on the Whetstone. Mrs. Monnett was macried to Frank J. Nichols February 29, 1885, and for a number of years they folowed farming, later coming to town to give their children school advantages.

Mrs. Nichols had been in falling health for some time and had most recently been living with her daughter, Mrs. Charles McQuary, of Hood River, Oregon. During her illness she was given the most tender care by her children, all of whom were at her bedside during her last illness. She is survived by one son, Albert A. Monnett, and four daughters, Mrs. Charles C. Keifer, Ventura, Callfornia, Mrs. Norval White, San Francisco, Mrs. Judd Thompson, Colton, Washington, and Mrs. Charles McQuary, Hond River, Gregon.

Mrs. Nichols was the oldest resident of Columbia county in point of years, and was honorary president of the Columbia County Pioneer association. She was a member of the Congregational church, the Women's Relief Corps, and other benevolent and social organizations.

MRS. NORA WOODW PASSES TO BEYONI

CHAPTER 19

OLD FLOUR MILLS AND OTHER STRUCTURES OF THE ALPOWA

It seems quite certain that Rev. H. H. Spalding with the help of the Alpowa Indians, residing in the neighborhood of the branch mission which the missionary had established at that point, constructed a crude grist mill which was used by the Indians several years before any white man had established a home in that region.

On December 8, 1894, the Asotin Sentinel published the following item which was quoted extensively by other local papers:

"H. H. Spalding of Almota, presented the State Historical Society at Tacoma with the first mill-stone ever used in Washington. It was ground out of a piece of granite along in the forties and used by the Indians near Alpowa to grind the grain they were taught to raise by Mr. Spalding's father and his colleague, Dr. Whitman. Alpowa, where the stone was used, was the home of such noted chiefs as Red Wolf and Timothy, and is located in Asotin County on Snake River. The millstone was hewn out of a piece of gray granite, a foot thick and has a round hole in the center seven or eight inches in diameter."

It is probable that this old mill was destroyed by fire, as all trace of it seems to have disappeared before the first white settlers lecated in that vicinity.

OLD MISSION BUILDING

The old branch mission building near it seems to have been abandoned in the late sixties or early seventies, but the old building remained several years later. Mr. Andrew E. Lee, now of Los Angeles, California, and a pioneer of the

Alpowa section, who for many years owned the famous Lee place, remembers the old mission building.

The Lee place is now owned by the heirs of the late John Stember. The original log house was destroyed by fire several years ago. In the stage coach days the Freeman-Lee place was a stage station—the half way stop between Pomeroy and Lewiston, where passengers were regaled with meals of such excellence that the place became famous over the northwest. It was operated for many years by William Freeman and wife, and later taken over by his step-son Andrew E. Lee.

Mr. Lee told me last summer that when he was assisting in the construction of the barn on this famous old place, he secured some of the timbers that entered into the structure from the old mission building at Alpowa about the year 1879 or 1880 if I remember correctly.

This old barn is still standing near the road a short distance east of the Stember Creek bridge.

THE WOODWORTH MILL

About the year 1883, George W. Gunter, step-father of David Mohler, heretofore mentioned, and who with Mr. Mohler lived on the Red Wolf place, sold the right to Ray Woodworth to flume the water past the place and use it for the operation of a flour mill, which was erected about two hundred yards west of the present Silcott schoolhouse, close to the bluff, and about opposite the present residence of the Michael family. This mill was operated till about 1886 when it was totally destroyed by fire. Many old settlers remember hauling grain to this mill to be ground into flour.

A flour mill was also erected on the Lee place near the point between Stember Creek and the Alpowa, near the junction of those streams. This mill was later abandoned and has now disappeared, though the course of the mill race can still be traced.

Silcott (S.20;T.11N;R.45E)

An abandoned town on the south bank of Snake River at its junction with Alpowa Creek, 5 miles west of Clarkston, north central Asotin County. In 1861, a trading post was established here by Sam Smith. The place was named for John Silcott, an early sheriff who operated the Clearwater ferry across the river. In 1882, William S. Newland platted a townsite as Alpowa City. The name did not take and Silcott was restored. This was a stage stop and ferry landing on the Lewiston-Pomeroy route.

UGLY CRIME IS CHARGED

AGAINST A BALL PLAYER WHO WAS RECENTLY EMPLOYED IN DAYTON.

Homer Spoonemore Arrested in Spokane and Lodged in the Columbia Gounty Jail for Alleged-Wrong Done to a Girl of Fourteen-Had Assumed the Name of Nelson and Was Captured Only After a Long Chase by Sheriff Bauers

Homer Spoonemore, better known as "Spoony," who until recently was a baseball pithcher for the Dayton Booster Club, was arrested last Friday at Spokane by Sheriff Frank W. Bauers on a warrant charging him with having undue intimacy with Ella Woodworth, a girl about fourteen years of age living in the southwest part of Dayton.

It is asserted that some time ago Spoonemore in company with a young man from Waitsburg by the name of Prescott, lured two girls to a room in the Columbia Hotel in Dayton and remained there with them all night. Spoonemore and Prescott were informed the next day that warrants would be issued for their arrest and at once fled from Dayton, Last Thursday Sheriff Bauers, who had been working on the case for some time, located the young men in Spokane, and at once left for that city. He found that Spoonemore was playing ball in the Spokane City league under the name of John Nelson and was supposed to be an imported pitcher from Chicago. In some manner Spoonemore became aware of the sheiff's arrival and was preparing to leave the city, but was caught, after a hot chase, in a saloon known as the Log Cabin. Sheriff Bauers reached Dayton with his prisoner Monday, and placed him in the county jail to await a prelimimiry ne will probably take place today. The crime with which Spoonemore is charged is one that may be punished with life imprisonment in the state prison.

PIONEER IS STICKEN

H. G. Woodworth, Waltsburg, Found Dead In Bedroom

Waitsburg, Oct. 16.—Horrace J. Woodworth, a well-known pioneer of the city and a G. A. R. veteran dropped dead at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Marcus Zugar, here this morning.

He had started to arise and was partly dressed when he fell over from heart failure. No one was in the room at the time but he was found shortly after partly dressed. He had been ill for several months but had seemed much improved the past few weeks.

He leaves three children, Bert Woodworth, Ferdinand, Idaho; Arthur G. Woodworth and Mrs. M. Zuger, Waitsburg.

Horrace Jerome Woodworth was born in Frewsburg, N. Y., July 1838. He served three years in the civil war, reaching the rank of lieutenant.

He was married in 1872 at Ottawa, Kansas, to Elvin G. Hawkins, who died in Waitsburg in 1902.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodworth came west in 1888, settling on a farm near Waitsburg.

The funeral will be held at Waits-Tuesday afternoon at 2:30.

Mrs. Martha Wallace, 104, Taken by Death,

HER LONG LIFE OVER — Mrs. Martha Applegate Wallace, 104, is shown with one of her great-granddaughters, Donna Marie Haley, on the occasion of her 103rd birthday.

An aunt of Asa and Frank Johnson, of this city, who had lived under 26 presidents was buried last week in Seattle at the age of 104.

She was Mrs. Martha Applegate Wallace, who celebrated her 104th birthday last November 6. She was believed to have been the oldest Seattle resident, stated the Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Andrew Jackson, seventh president, was in the White House when Mrs. Wallace was born in Oxford, Ohio, in 1835. The first telegraph line in the United States was still eight years away, and the question of slavery was not then the burning issue that it became 25 years later.

Abraham Lincoln was a young man studying law in Illinois, and a few days after her birth Texas proclaimed its independence of Mexico and the siege of the Alamo followed.

After she reached her young womanhood, Mrs. Wallace saw plenty of history. During the Civil War she was married to John Scott Wallace, and they lived in Indiana until 1874, when they came to Washington, settling near Mount Vernon.

Seattle was then a small community of about 2,000 persons, and Mrs. Wallace has watched with interest the development of her adopted state. In 1905 the Wallaces moved to Seattle where Mr. Wallace died in 1909.

Alert physically and mentally, Mrs. Wallace took a keen interest in life. With her daughter, Miss Lillie Wallace, she made her home at 1413 3rd Ave. W., and each year as many members of her family as could reach there were present to help her observe her birthday.

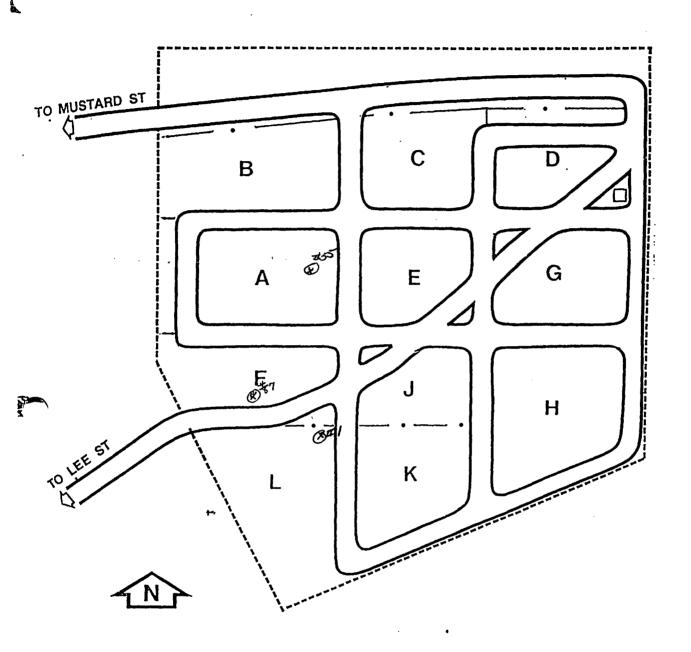

A member of the United Presbyterian Church, Mrs. Wallace was a devout Christian, and attributed her Iongevity to her reading of the Bible, a daily practice.

Last fall she helped her daughter with the canning, and until she had a fall recently in which she broke a rib, she was able to be up daily. She had an attack of the flu last winter, and failed to rally. The end came May 19 at her home where she insisted she wished to be to answer the Lord's summons.

Friends gathered in the chapel of Arthur A. Wright and Son for the final rites, and the centenarian was laid to rest in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Besides the daughter with whom she lived there are three other children, Mrs. Eva Blake of Olympia; the Rev. Scott Wallace of Los Angeles and Irvin Wallace of Sedro Woolley. There are also numerous grandchildren and great grandchildren.

C. B. Woodworth

Wood-Bucklingham worth, 83, early Dayton resident, died last Tuesday in Los Angeles where for the last three years he has spent his winters. Funeral services were held in Los Angeles under the auspices of the Masonic lodge of which he had long been a member.

Born in Portland January 26, 1861, he was educated in the Portland schools, then took employment with the Ladd & Bush bank at Salem. Later he returned to Portland to serve with the Ladd & Tilton bank, and continued there in various official capacities until after its merger with the United States National bank. From 1894 until 1905 he lived in Dayton and was employed as manager of the Portland Flour-ing Mills Co. then owned by the late T. B. Wilcox. During the residence of the Woodworth family here they lived in the dwelling on the corner of First and Richmond which was known as the mill house and they took a prominent part in the social life of the community. When he returned to Portland Mr. Woodworth became associated with the William S. Ladd estate and held a position there until his retirement from accive business.

In April 1884 Mr. Woodworth morried Kales V. Applegate of Calem, who seed several years co. Can be discovered Yrus A. Woodorth died in 1036, and following his cresection, his ashes were brought to thyton to be scattered at Hompegs Falls, where he had spent the happiest days of his boyhood. Mr. Woodworth leaves his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Maude Steadman Woodworth, and four grandchildren.

Mr. Woodworth was a member of the Mazamas, Multnomah club, the Dayton Masonic lodge and Eastern Star chapter of which he was past master and past patron. He was also high priest of the Royal Arch Mason chapter here. Of late years he had held membership on Friendship lodge No. 160, of Portland. 28 apr 1932

Pioneer Tells of Life of Mrs. C. B. Woodworth

The many old-time friends of Mrs. C. B. Woodworth and her husband, who were so well and favorably known in this community many years ago, will be grieved to learn of her death, which occurred in Portland, Oregon, Saturday, April 16. She was the daughter of a distinguished family of early pioneers, who played an important part in shaping the destiny, and promoting the progress of this great northwest. In her youth, beautiful, vivacious and of noble character, she lingers in my memory like a half forgotten dream. I remember well her demure and somber moods. At times a sunny smile would break across that interesting face like solar strands of gold that flashed and gleamed through broken banks of fleecy clouds, and warmed you with the knowledge that her friendship was sincere, and would endure.

I am sure that she will reach the shores where her spiritual life will serenely flow upon the crystal streams, whose silvery currents will carry it into an endless eternity of joy and bliss.

"From a restless world of discontent To a haven of supreme repose, A fitting end, to a life well spent And a long farewell to carthly woes."

She was my friend, and I was here. Adieu.

JOHN BRINING.

The body of Clyde Richard Woodworth, killed in action on the Philippine island of Mindanao, has been returned home, and funeral services will be held at the Rogg and Watson chapel Friday afternoon at 2:30 with the Rev. J. Logan Peringer in charge. Graveside services will be under the auspices of Frank E. Bauers Post, American Legion.

Clyde was killed in action on Mindanao on Mother's Day, May 13, 1945, according to word the war department sent his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woodworth. It was in June, 1945, that the tragic news reached Dayton. According to the report carried in the C-D at the time:

Clyde was one of seven boys taken from high school for military service before they had finished high school. He entered the service September 22, 1943, and after months of intensive training, was "shipped out" in March of 1944 and landed on New Guinea. Here more training took place. He landed with the other forces on Leyte island of the Philippine group in October, and the going was so tough that out of his squad of 12 only he and three others survived. He was serving with Co. F, 19th Infantry, 24th Division, and held the rank of private first class.

He contained on the drive that secured that island and at the end of the campaign he was physically exhausted and so sick from diseases acquired in battle that he spent the month of December in a hospital.

Later he took part in the battle for Manila and helped liberate Corregidor.

MAfter other campaigns, about the middle of April, he was called to take part in the campaign on Mindanao, that for him ended fatally. Shortly before this last campaign he met Alvin Basel, John McCaw and Louis Ellis, who were the very last of his hometown contacts. And just before his last battle he left with McCaw his personal belongings as though he had a premonition.

Born in Dayton, January 20, 1924, Clyde is survived by his parents. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Woodworth, a brother, Wallace, and a sister, Patricia.

Veteran Woolson Can Spin Yarns Aplenty of Early Day

Chatting with a Civil War Veteran is a mighty pleasant way to spend an afternoon, especially when he is as active and alert as is Albert Woolson, Robert Woolson's father, who boarded a train in Duluth, Minnesota a few weeks ago and made the trip out here alone to see his children and great-grandchildren in the west.

As he said himself, the 95-year-old veteran has so many memories of experiences he had when the United States was young, that it would be hard to tell them all, but Mr. Woolson has the admirable faculty for remembering his adventures in detail as conversation with him soon proves.

In appearance, Mr. Woolson still resembles the colored picture of him on the Woolson mantelpiece of a boy of 17, wearing the blue uniform that was given to him when he volunteered to join the Union forces in '64. He carries himself with a military bearing he once was so conscious of, but an injury resulting from a fall a few years ago has caused him (Continued on page 1) to stoop a little. Nevertheless, he steps along at a good fast clip when he walks from the Woolson home to downtown Dayton as he does every afternoon.

The gold buttons from his discarded G.A.R. uniform add distinction to the dark blue suit he was wearing and he is justly proud of a disc he wears in his lapel which has quite a story behind it. The cannon used by the Southern forces was melted after the war and the metal used to make small round buttons with "Grand Army of the Republic" stamped on them. These insignia were sent to all the Union veterans and still serve to identify them to each other.

Concerning his life in the Civil War, Mr. Woolson says it seemed to him like fighting his brothers when the boys from the North and the boys from the South met on the battlefield, and the human suffering he saw during the whole conflict is too horrible to describe. According to his way of thinking, war is cruel, brutal and unnecessary. His theory on life is to look on the good side of things and not to worry too much about anything.

Recalling that in June 1862 he left a good private school under Professor Chas. Thompson of Cornell. Mr. Woolson told about his departure for the Great West and his search for his father, who had been missing from the family home in Watertown, New York for two years. The father was Bandmaster of the old Yankee Robinson circus and was traveling all over the country. One day word came from him that he was located in what is now called New Janesville, Minnesota, and he sent funds for Albert to bring his mother and join him there.

In Mr. Woolson's words, "we took the steamer at Ogdensburg,. New York up the Great Lakes and nearly got shipwrecked on Lake Erie the first night. I never expected to see land again. It was a terrible storm, terrible. When we arrived in Milwaukee. Wisconsin, we went by rail to Preader Chien, the most western railroad terminal at that time. Then we went by steamboat to Winona, Minnesota, were stuck on sandbars part of the time, then took the Burbank stagecoach which ran from Winona to St. Paul. It was June and my younger brother and I observed June roses along the prairie and thought it a beautiful country.

"Upon arriving at New Janesville, we found a group of some 15 families living in log houses. This little settlement was located at the foot of a beautiful lake named Elysian, some eight miles in length and two and a half miles in width with an island all heavly wooded in the middle of it. This lake was certainly a hunter's paradise alive with ducks and geese, wild rice their breeding ground. An abundance of fish of all varieties abounded within half a mile of this location and over on the prairie were located 3000 Winnebago Indians with their dogs, teepees and papooses. The Winnebagos were a freindly tribe to the whites at that time.

"The following August, the Sloux Indians some 7000 in number were located at the Yellowstone agency some 70 miles from our own location. The Winnebagos and the Sloux at that time had deeded to the U. S. government many thousands of acres of this beautiful country and had been provided with reservations and had been guaranteed rations, money and farm utensils every three months that the Indians might become civilized and live as white men. These so called annuities from the governernment were three months in arrears and the Slouz tribe at that time went on the warpath. That whole section was thinly populated with whites and in the short space of three months some 18,000 innocent men, women and children were scalped, their crops destroyed and their homes burned.

'It took the U.S. government with the help of ...innesota state forces some three years to control the wild Indian tribes. It was a favorite pasttime of warlike Indians during their depredations to kill and scalp elderly women with long hair and hang it on their belts to show what brave men they were. In December '62 a military trial was held at Mankato, Minnesota for 320 of the leading Sioux. The authorities were warned by the Sioux half-breeds that the town would be assaulted by members of the tribe still at large and these captives taken from them but there was an adequate military force on hand to repel the invasion which did not occur.

"Thirty-eight of the savage leaders some of whom possessed fantastic names like Cut-nose (he had a broken nose), Chief Medicine Bottle and Chief Other Day were sentenced to be hung by the neck until dead. Many more were just as guilty but Colonel, Fletcher, the trial judge, said in his report to President Lincoln that he could not execute 320 of the first citizens of America because then foreign nations would think the whites worse than the Indians and Lincoln answered that only the worst of them should be killed."

Mr. Woolson remembers vividly seeing these savages all of them of athletic build, with characteristic faces, high cheekbones, long noses, and black hair hanging to their shoulders sitting on the ground in a circle using a piece of looking glass and the various colored paints that had been given them to prepare themselves for execution. The yellow rings around their eyes and mouth made them look so horrible that one of the ladies who saw them fainted from the sight and had to be carried out. The Indians walked in single file singing and shouting "Ki-Yi"- to the gallows where a Captain Dooley whose family had been massacred wielded the ax that cut the rope.

"Soon after that, 1800 men were alled to the colors in a draft and 1 went south in the First Minnesota heavy artillery under Geo. H. Thomas, the Rock of Chatanooga. I am familiar with the ground and surroundings at Atlanta, Georgia that

Mr. Woolson can tell of many romances that started between young officers he knew and the charming southern belles, some of them recorded on the pages of history as incidents having a bearing on the War. When he returned home in 1865 after serving as drummer and brigade bugler, he found that his father had lost his left leg in the war. He died without any pension, because the father had been taken off the battlefield and sent home and had no hospital record.

Albert remembers well the Jesse James episode in Northfield, Minnesota, in fact he saw James and Cole Younger riding through the town of St. Peter, where he lived for a time. The Indian Chief Winneshake, of a friendly tribe, knew Albert's father well and he himself taught Albert to use a shotgun.

One of this grand old veteran's happiest memories is of the reunion between the veterans of the North. and South which was held in Gettysburg in June 1938. The year before a certain amount had been deducted from the pensions of all Civil War veterans so they could attend this reunion and the 1500 Union soldiers and the 500 Confederate soldiers present, lived in tented camps a few rods apart for a week's get-together. Many of them were in wheel chairs, Albert in all the fitness of his own physical condition remembered, and all of them visited the military cemetery covering 450 acres around Gettysburg.

President Roosevelt addressed one of the first assemblies of the convention, and Mrs. Pickett, the widow of General Geo. Pickett, who led the Confederate charge at the historic battle of Gettysburg, made a speech. Typical of his quick sense of humor is the way Albert recalls an incident that occurred during Mrs. Pickett's talk. She said that if her husband had been ten minutes more at Gettysburg, the South would have won the war, and just then someone from the audience spoke up and said "Like H--- they would."

Even though the spirit on both sides is never dying, Albert likes to talk about the whole hearted way the "boys" met at the reunion as it is line line with his spirit of love for his fellow beings which he has carried through life. The father of twelve children himself, four of them by his second wife whom he married when he was 58, Albert Woolson has had plenty of time to try and prove his theories about the human race.
